

One Night Stand With The Uninvited Wolf President Chapter 9

Chapter 9 A Small World

The man in the driver's seat was wearing wide black sunglasses, a black mask in black clothes, just like the ghost of the night.

"You are?"

"Where?"

Hearing this voice, suddenly Ceres smiled.

"I knew it was you, so are you responsible for keeping me safe?"

The masked man nodded and started the engine. "There is nothing to visit in the town. Let's go to the city."

He made the decision.

"Good!" She was so excited that it did not matter where they went as long as she could go out and play.

The masked man first came to the supermarket with her. She purchased fresh vegetables for almost a week, and also purchased some baking materials.

After purchasing those things, they both began to wander upstairs. But she just wandered, but did not buy anything, especially clothes, and did not even try one.

"Nothing that you like?"

Carefully she approached the masked man. "The clothes here are expensive, and I have no money."

"Didn't Mr. Smith give you money?" The masked man looked at her with some doubts.

"Mr. Smith gave me money to buy things for family expenses, not clothes."

"It doesn't matter."

"Why it doesn't matter? This money cannot be spent easily. I will just look at it."

Her eyes were fixed on a set of red and black color casual clothes. Her favorite style. When she was in the Morris' before, she kept a very low profile. She never wore red. She could only wear gray, dark blue and black, but she liked red very much.

"Miss, this is a limited model this year. Anyone who has bought this product knew that it rarely produces casual suits. This one has been replenished for the third time."

Smiling awkwardly, Ceres just looked at it.

The masked man came over and took the clothes directly. "Go and try it."

She winked at the masked man assiduously, but she couldn't afford it anyway. Why bother?

The masked man whispered, "Trying clothes doesn't cost anything."

He was right when she thought about it. She just needed to find a reason not to buy it. It's good to have a good time trying, so she took the clothes and went into the fitting room.

She put on the clothes and came out. She looked at herself in the mirror and turned happily several times. As a result, she accidentally bumped into someone!

"I'm sorry!"

"Don't you have eyes?"

They both looked at each other!

What a coincidence, she bumped into the real Mary!

Mary saw Ceres wearing the limited casual style clothes of J. J this year. She couldn't help laughing. At that time, the shopping guide lady also came. "Miss, you really look good in this set."

Ceres smiled awkwardly. "Sorry, I do not like it."

She was ready to go back to the fitting room and take off the clothes when Mary pulled her back and tried to raise her chin. "Don't take it off, you tried it without the intention of buying it, right? You do not have enough money? It is really nice to look at the clothes, but when you look at this face, it is a pity... it is no use wearing any clothes when your face is like that!"

Ceres broke free from Mary. "Let go of me!"

Mary didn't want to argue with Ceres. She said directly to the shopping guide, "She cannot afford it. I can guarantee that she does not have a dime in her wallet."

A few days ago, she went to marry as a bride to dispelling bad luck. It is said that she was having the wedding ceremony and her groom was a rooster. ”

When the shopping guide heard this, she suddenly gave Ceres a disdainful look. “If you cannot afford it, do not try it, do not waste time here, do not take it off quickly, hey, be careful, do not let it get dirty, you cannot afford it!”

Mary was a frequent visitor to this store, and the shopping guides all knew her, so they naturally believed her words.

Having said that, Mary spat at Ceres’s clothes!

“Ah, dirty! Hey, you must buy it!”