

Chapter 1143 Endless Killing

After taking the Refreshing breeze pill, Liam felt that the dark aura in his body was indeed reduced. So, he didn't think much about anything else.

While preparing to charge into the enemy's encirclement and start another round of fight, he suddenly saw several figures that were not as strange as the ones he had encountered.

He was stunned for a moment. Then, his face lit up with joy.

Because he recognized at a glance that those figures were humans like him.

Liam had been on this mountain for a long time, but this was his first time seeing other humans.

He couldn't help smiling.

In this bloody trial illusion, the feeling of meeting someone of his race in a foreign land was especially precious.

Although Liam was not sure if these figures in front of him were indeed human beings, he still wanted to get close to them.

However, Liam suddenly noticed that the current situation of these people was dire.

They were surrounded by a group of aliens with red, slimy tissue bubbling on their bodies. Although they resisted and fought desperately, they were no match for this large group of aliens.

Liam frowned as he stared at the aliens that exuded a stinky smell of blood. He had previously exchanged one point for a race encyclopedia in the points store.

So, as soon as he saw this group of aliens, he recognized their race.

These disgusting aliens were from the Blood Clan.

The Blood Clan was considered a relatively powerful race among all races.

The human race, on the other hand, was on the weaker side.

This was very evident from the scene in front of Liam. Obviously, the humans were severely suppressed by their enemies from the Blood Clan.

Liam could tell at a glance that this group of humans was no match for the aliens from the Blood Clan. Without help, they definitely would not survive.

Now that he had seen the dire situation of his fellow humans, Liam couldn't ignore it.

So, he clenched his fists tightly and rushed directly in the direction of the Blood Clan without hesitation.

These members of the Blood Clan could only bully humans of the same level.

But in front of Liam, they were powerless even if they were talented.

Liam punched one member of the Blood Clan, shattering it into a mass of blood mist.

The other members of the Blood Clan noticed Liam and immediately attacked, wanting to kill him.

However, their strength was nothing compared to Liam's.

Liam hadn't even used too much strength before he killed all the members of the Blood Clan present.

The entire process didn't tire him at all. He was like a tiger that accidentally entered a flock of sheep and killed them effortlessly.

However, Liam did not feel complacent after this. That was because he discovered that during the fight, there was not much resistance from the members of the Blood Clan.

It was as if they were already aware of their ending, so none of them put up a fight.

Liam frowned. Suddenly, he noticed that countless shadows appeared in the place where he had killed the members of the Blood Clan just now.

A hint of apprehension flashed through his eyes.

This time, the number of the members of the Blood Clan was so huge that he knew he could no longer defeat them.

Liam had no other choice but to avoid their onslaught and retreated as far as he could.

However, the group of humans he had saved just now was targeted by these members of the Blood Clan.

In the face of such strong enemies, it was impossible for these humans to survive.

They were devoured in just a minute.

Liam's heart felt heavy after witnessing this. It was as if a giant boulder was pressed against his chest, making him unable to breathe. His eyes became solemn.

He found it difficult to accept that he couldn't change anything here.

Even though he had saved those humans just now, they were soon all brutally killed by the Blood clan in an instant.

Liam understood something now.

In this trial illusion, there was only endless killing. And there was nothing he could do to stop it for a moment.
