

Chapter 1181 Emer

After hearing Liam's words, the Demon creature nodded enthusiastically and proceeded to introduce itself in a childlike voice.

"My name is Emer, born from this shard of the Heart of Life. My growth relies on continuously absorbing life force. That's why I was interested in absorbing the life force of your Heart of Life shard. Allowing me to manage all the Heart of Life shards within you could contribute to mending the Heart of Life itself with the life force you consume. Accumulating enough life energy may eliminate the need for other Heart of Life fragments. Although it's a bit ambitious, it's still preferable to having nothing."

After a pause, Emer continued, "Additionally, I have another valuable ability. I can detect any nearby Heart of Life shards. Keeping me with you will only be good for you!"

Liam's curiosity piqued as he listened intently to Emer.

If he could repair the Heart of Life, it could greatly enhance his power.

However, Liam wasn't going to let excitement cloud his judgment. He inquired, "If I let you merge with me, how can I be certain you won't betray me in the future?"

Emer promptly said, "I pledge my loyalty to you! Spare my life, and I will serve you as my master. Should I ever betray you, you have the right to eliminate my consciousness at any moment."

Encouraged by Emer's promise, Liam nodded in agreement to accept Emer as a faithful follower.

Following pledging its loyalty, Emer merged seamlessly into Liam's body.

Instantly, the Heart of Life shards within Liam began to blend together, expanding notably in size!

But Liam's gains didn't stop there.

In the midst of the energy absorption battle against Emer before, Liam had gained a new Origin Technique, which he named "Life Conduction".

This was the same ability Emer had utilized to manipulate the vines earlier. This Origin Technique would enable one to imbue lifeless entities with vitality, compelling them to serve one's intentions.

Eager to experiment, Liam made several attempts and successfully manipulated the vines. However, he wasn't as skilled as Emer in this regard since he had just gained this Origin Technique.

Despite the power not being on par with Emer's, Liam felt content with the outcome.

After all, this was the sole Origin Technique at his disposal now.

When utilized wisely, this Origin Technique could yield remarkable effectiveness.

With Emer now under his control, Liam returned to the large pit.

Employing the "Life Conduction" Origin Technique, Liam directed his life force to replenish the depleted vitality in Laura and Shayla, easing their frailty.

As anticipated, they swiftly regained a vibrant appearance,

Chapter 1181 Emer

 +120 Points at most

and their bodies exhibited slight movements, indicating they were waking up.

Feeling relieved to see this, Liam was about to assist them to rise when Laura and Shayla abruptly regained consciousness.

Nevertheless, their excessively flushed faces raised some concern.

Their gaze, clouded and tinged with an unusual yearning, unexpectedly focused on Liam. They lunged at Liam, their fingers grazing his neck!