

Chapter 1256 Pass The Secret Realm

As Liam considered this, he attempted to strike the meteorites.

Yet, even when his fist connected with the meteorites, it felt as though he had punched the air. This sensation left him bewildered.

As he pondered, the frequency of meteorites falling towards him increased.

Despite their numbers, they caused him no real harm.

Liam focused intently on the sensation each impact brought, suspecting it might be the key to passing the test of the secret realm.

His hunch was soon confirmed.

Upon closer inspection, Liam noticed a faint trace of law power emanating from the meteorites' surfaces.

This discovery was enlightening. The secret realm seemed to be designed for a Primogem Warrior at the peak of level ten. After all, only such a powerful Primogem Warrior could have the authority of level two to take this task.

Such Primogem Warriors were on the brink of becoming Primogem Experts.

Liam's eyes suddenly lit up as he murmured, "It appears this realm is offering an opportunity to activate the prototype of law power. And these meteorites can only be influenced by the prototype of law power."

With this realization, Liam tapped into his special power of the earth element, the one he was most skilled in. This special power had already had the tendency to create law power.

Liam was trying to grasp the law power of the earth element.

Although the concept was straightforward, executing it proved challenging.

But Liam was no stranger to overcoming difficult trials, having previously awakened the special power of the five elements.

With determination, he concentrated on understanding the law power of the earth element.

At that moment, Liam's mind seemed to be torn apart by an invisible force.

Clenching his teeth, he endured the excruciating process, convinced that the rewards would justify his struggle.

Despite his resilience, Liam failed in his attempt.

Reflecting on his recent efforts, Liam sensed he was missing something crucial.

With a furrowed brow, he muttered, "What am I lacking?"

His mind raced, considering various possibilities until a fresh insight struck him as another meteor hurtled towards him.

The trace of law power on the meteor's surface could help him awaken his own law power.

With this new theory, Liam reached out and tried to grasp the surface of the meteor.

Although he failed to physically grasp the law power, the interaction sparked a peculiar sensation in him.

Convinced he was on the verge of a breakthrough to comprehend his law power, Liam seized this fleeting moment of clarity.

A surge of understanding swept through him, and he finally unlocked the law power of the earth element.

As he invoked this newfound law power, a mysterious sheath seemed to peel away from the surface of the meteor. After that, the meteor became nothing more than an ordinary metallic sphere.

With minimal effort, Liam crushed it between his fingers.

When he saw that he could really shatter these annoying meteors, Liam's face lit up.

Empowered by his mastery of the earth element's law power, Liam swiftly obliterated the remaining meteors, successfully passing the test of the secret realm.

As the last meteor was destroyed, a voice announced, "Congratulations! You have successfully passed the secret realm. Please keep the method confidential after leaving."

Liam nodded in agreement, understanding the importance of individual discovery in the cultivation process.

Revealing the method would not only undermine the challenge but could also negatively affect the development of other Primogem Warriors.
