

Chapter 1257 A New Task

After passing the secret realm, Liam left without hesitation.

When Liam emerged from the exit, an old man walked up to him and said, "Hold on there, young man. It was unwise of you to enter the secret realm without knowledge of how dangerous it can be! A careful assessment is crucial before such an attempt. Once you've grown stronger, you can try the challenge again. Remember, there are only three chances for each person, and you've used one already. Don't waste the remaining opportunities!"

Though the old man appeared to be concerned on the surface, his voice had a hint of sarcasm in it.

"No need for that. I've already passed the secret realm," Liam countered coolly.

After saying that, Liam flashed proof of his victory in the secret realm and turned around to walk away.

The group behind Liam, still grappling with how to navigate the secret realm, watched Liam in stunned silence.

Even the old man couldn't hide his astonishment.

Everyone fixated their eyes on Liam in shock.

They could see through Liam's strength at a glance.

He was just a level-ten, five-star Primogem Warrior!

How could a level-ten, five-star Primogem Warrior pass the secret realm? Sheer astonishment rippled through the group.

Besides, Liam had passed the secret realm on his first try.

Meanwhile, they, supposedly stronger warriors than Liam, were still stuck strategizing how to pass the secret realm.

They had never felt so useless in their life!

Liam had already walked away without looking back.

The group of people could only clench their fists and swallow their pride in the face of this reality.

Liam paid them no further heed.

He was not one to boast.

Back in the task room, Liam submitted his completed task and received 50 points.

To his astonishment, he found out that he had passed the secret realm the fastest in history.

As an additional reward for this incredible feat, the system awarded him a bonus of 100 points.

This meant that Liam now had a total of 1150 points.

The staggering number astonished Liam so much that he couldn't help but smile and mutter to himself, "This is getting easier than I thought. At this rate, accumulating 10,000 points will be a breeze! Soon, I will have the authority of level 3!"

With each mission, his power would grow significantly.

For example, in this secret realm, he had comprehended the law power of the earth element.

With this newfound power and the strength he would continue to gain on missions, he would eventually be able to delve into the matters of the Saint Society and the Blood Clan.

As Liam thought about his future, his hope blossomed, lifting his spirits considerably.

Energized by his recent accomplishment, Liam took another task in the task room.

His new task was finding "spark metal", and the reward for this task stood at a substantial 100 points.

The task required Liam to venture into an uninhabited planetary system, outside the Network of Human Sovereign's reach.

A frown creased Liam's brow.

He was well aware that the moment he stepped out of the range of the Network of Human Sovereign, he would face danger.

Yet, Liam's resolve remained unshaken.

He understood the risk, but the prospect of a greater reward fueled his determination.

Lindy had previously briefed Liam on these so-called uninhabited planetary systems.

In essence, this kind of uninhabited planetary system was unsuitable for human habitation.

However, despite their inhospitable nature, uninhabited planetary systems held their own value.

This kind of uninhabited planetary system could serve

 +120 Points at most either of two primary purposes—it could be a resource planetary system, or it could be transformed into trial grounds akin to secret realms by the decree of the masters of the Human Clan.

Despite the fact that the uninhabited planetary system was beyond the reach of the Network of Human Sovereign, Liam was not afraid in the slightest.

His confidence stemmed from his strength to be invincible under the level of the Primogem Expert.
