

Chapter 1200 White Vortex

Liam understood that he and Emer were deeply connected, facing everything together. Therefore, Emer would not deceive him at such a critical moment.

Consequently, Liam felt compelled to heed Emer's counsel and tenaciously persevere, draining all the soul power of the Pope's soul fragment for a slim chance of survival.

With this in mind, Liam's gaze hardened with resolve.

He clenched his teeth and persisted.

Furthermore, to maintain constant vigilance, Liam inflicted multiple wounds upon himself.

Now, Liam's body was riddled with scars, with hardly a spot left intact.

Blood covered Liam's body, transforming him into a blood-soaked figure, looking ghastly.

Despite this, Liam's consciousness started to dim due to the Pope's lingering soul's attack.

It seemed as though a voice was whispering in Liam's mind.

Was he going to fail now?

Despite Liam's reluctance, he was powerless to alter the outcome.

It appeared that everything was determined.

Liam saw no possibility of reversing his fate.

However, just as Liam resigned himself to his fate, believing he had no chance to fight back, the white light from deep within his heart flickered.

But this time, the white light did not aid Liam. Instead, it seemed to turn against him.

It morphed into a white vortex that hovered above Liam's heart. Then, a potent suction force emerged from the white vortex.

The white light started to consume Liam's special powers and fragments of the Heart of Life.

Subsequently, a green dot and a multicolored dot slowly became visible within the developing white vortex.

These two distinctively colored dots symbolized the Heart of Life fragments and Liam's special powers.

This white light had successfully merged several fundamental forces within Liam's heart!

Once the white vortex was fully formed, it shone with a brilliant white glow. This was the white light in its prime.

The sensation of being instantly revitalized to his optimal state resurfaced in Liam at this moment.

Suddenly, all the physical injuries and mental fatigue Liam had been enduring were completely healed. He felt rejuvenated.

Additionally, every bit of pressure on Liam's body vanished.

Liam even started to draw the power from the Pope's lingering soul in reverse!

This unusual occurrence caused the Pope's lingering soul to panic, screaming in fear.

He could not comprehend how Liam had managed to recover to full strength so suddenly. This was an astonishing occurrence even for him.

He had never witnessed someone regaining all their strength in such a brief period.

As Liam drained the soul power from him, the Pope's lingering soul finally succumbed to fear and started to plead for mercy.

However, Liam, having narrowly escaped death, would not let the Pope's lingering soul off easily.

Thus, Liam disregarded the desperate pleas of the Pope's lingering soul.

Realizing that Liam was unyielding, the Pope's lingering soul clung to his will to survive.

He urgently said to Liam, "Liam, your master has deceived you. The power of the Saint Society is beyond your wildest dreams. The Salvation Society pales in comparison to my vast Saint Society. You are a gifted person, and I have always held you in high regard. If you let me live, I promise to offer you a position in the Saint Society. I can appoint you as my Vice Pope, ranking just below me within the Saint Society. Just agree to release me, and you will have access to boundless wealth. Please, let me go!"

Liam sneered at the desperate attempts of the Pope's lingering soul and responded, "Keep your deceptions to yourself. I am not naive. You won't trick me that easily. So, be quiet!"

With those words, Liam intensified his effort.

Within a minute, he had absorbed all the spiritual power from the Pope's lingering soul.

The intense battle of spiritual power concluded with Liam's triumph.

After extinguishing the willpower of the Pope's lingering soul, Liam indeed acquired an extremely pure spiritual energy, rejuvenating his mind as Emer had mentioned.

Liam felt revitalized, and his spiritual power was significantly enhanced.

Simultaneously, as he absorbed the energy from the Pope's lingering soul, Liam's power ascended to level seven with two stars.

Once Liam was certain there was no longer any threat on the platform, he felt relieved.

Then, he discovered that as he had vanquished the Pope's lingering soul, all the primogem energy and special powers he had previously lost were restored.

Elated, Liam suddenly felt inspired to try condensing his special power of the earth element.

This time, due to Liam's substantial increase in spiritual power, the once challenging matter became unexpectedly easy!

Liam formed a brown shield, which was incredibly sturdy. He figured that not even his full strength could break it.

Liam inhaled deeply, feeling a sense of amazement.

This indicated that his spiritual power had surpassed his physical strength by a great margin.

Furthermore, Liam noticed that the white vortex formed by the white light within him seemed to have influenced his special powers.

The earth elemental shield he had created appeared to have traces of his special power of the light element.

It even seemed to contain a hint of his special power of life energy.

Yet, there was no way to verify if it was exactly as Liam suspected.

After pondering for a moment, Liam decided to directly condense his special power of life energy.

He promptly began to mold his special power of life energy into a human form. Common knowledge suggested that this special power could create any living creature.

Additionally, with the assistance of Liam's Origin Technique, Life Conduction, Liam was confident in his high success rate.

With this confidence, Liam did not hesitate any longer.

He manipulated his special power of life energy and gradually began to condense it. Suddenly, a vast amount of primogem energy swiftly drained from Liam's body.

At the same time, Liam felt the white vortex inside him spinning wildly.

Shortly thereafter, Liam successfully created a towering creature, several meters tall, by condensing his special power!
