

Chapter 1328 No Escape

Chad and Everett, realizing Liam had discerned Troy's hidden motives, stepped forward together with a unified snort of defiance.

Troy felt a surge of panic as he watched Chad and Everett position themselves like that.

He had not anticipated that Liam would so quickly see through the lie he had so carefully crafted.

Just as fear gripped Troy, his spirits lifted at the sight of several Primogem Emperors descending from the sky.

Leading them was none other than Tom, flanked by the formidable warriors of the Astron family.

With the arrival of his reinforcements, Troy's demeanor shifted to one of triumph, and he laughed coldly, dropping all pretense. "You fool, daring to kill Jason! You've sealed your fate. I'm done pretending; I am a member of the Astron family! You will face your death today!"

Liam's expression darkened as he pieced together everything. It was clear now why Troy had seemed so eager to appear nice before—he had planned to lower his guard to harm him!

Seeing the Astron family's people approach menacingly, Liam shared a glance with Everett and Chad. They immediately moved to activate the teleportation array, hoping to make a quick exit.

However, the array's activation required some time. Troy, determined not to let Liam escape, rushed forward and sabotaged their efforts, effectively disrupting the teleportation process.

With the teleportation array disrupted, Liam and his friends lost

Chad, fueled by anger, lashed out, "You asked for this!"

In a fit of rage, Chad sent Troy flying with a slap. Troy crashed to the ground, lying still, his condition uncertain.

With their escape compromised, Liam understood the gravity of their situation.

He turned to his friends, urgency clear in his voice. "The Astron family only wants me dead. You can leave. Go, quickly!"

But Chad and Everett stood firm, their expressions determined. Everett spoke. "Liam, what do you take us for? As friends, we share both the highs and the lows! If we flee at the first sign of danger, what kind of friends would that make us? I'm not that kind of person!"

Liam felt a surge of warmth knowing that Chad and Everett would rather face death than leave his side.

Just as he was about to persuade them once more to escape, he noticed Tom and his people closing in.

Tom and his men quickly encircled Liam and his friends, effectively cutting off any potential escape routes.

Tom, with a darkened face and fierce eyes, yelled at Liam, "You bastard! Today, you will pay for my son's life with your own! You're doomed!"

Liam's eyes scanned the people Tom had brought, his heart sinking as he realized their formidable power.

The Astron family had not held back this time, deploying three Primogem Emperors and fifteen Primogem Kings—a truly overwhelming force for Liam and his companions!

Despair gripped Liam; it seemed to him that this time, he was facing real danger.

He was consumed with guilt for dragging Chad and Everett into

Unbeknownst to Liam, however, Chad and Everett exchanged a quick, covert glance, seeming like they had already agreed upon a plan.
