

Married At First Sight Chapter 3461 - 3465

Married At First Sight Chapter 3461-Liberty nodded. "I believe that Seren and my life will get better and better."

Not to mention herself, even if Serenity married Zachary, her life would be very good.

Serenity was extremely kind to Liberty.

"Cousin, you came here in a hurry last night and you must be tired. Go back to the hotel and rest for a while. I don't think Clarissa will do anything to us for the time being."

Liberty asked Clive to go back to the hotel and rest.

Liberty said, "It is true that Clarissa wants to kill me, but she is also afraid. It should be said that she may have bigger ambitions and wants to kill all of us at once."

Liberty had a pretty good idea of Clarissa's thoughts.

Clive came here in a hurry and seemed a little tired. He said, "Okay, I'll go back to the hotel and rest for a while. If anything happens, call me."

"Sure."

Not long after Clive left, Hayden arrived.

When the secretary called Liberty on the internal line, Liberty came out to greet her personally. However, as soon as she opened the office door, Hayden's handsome figure appeared in front of her.

"Hayden." Liberty smiled.

Hayden was dressed like a man, looking very handsome. No wonder those women who once admired her found it difficult to let go of their admiration for Hayden even after knowing that she was actually a woman.

The main reason was that she was so handsome.

After playing the role of a man for more than 20 years, it was hard to tell the real from the fake.

"Sister Liberty."

Hayden responded calmly, and at Liberty's invitation, she strode into Liberty's office.

Liberty's secretary watched Hayden disappear before her eyes. Even though she was married, she couldn't help but whisper, "Miss Queen is so handsome!"

With that cold temperament and extraordinary handsomeness, Hayden was simply the most handsome guy among handsome guys. Unfortunately, she was always a woman.

Well, even if Hayden was a man, it wouldn't be the secretary's turn, so why was she so crazy about Hayden?

The secretary retracted her gaze and smiled self-deprecatingly.

Hayden just came over to check on Liberty and see if she needed any help.

In the hospital,

After Kathryn had breakfast, she fell asleep again. She would wake up but still liked to sleep.

She seriously suspected that Clarissa had given her a large amount of sleeping pills.

"Madam Farrell."

Kathryn was going to fall asleep, but she could hear Pedro talking.

Pedro's respectful shout pulled Kathryn back from sleep. She opened her eyes, dazed.

She saw that familiar face.

Clarissa stood by Kathryn's hospital bed with a gloomy look on her face. She looked coldly at Kathryn, who had opened her eyes but had a confused expression.

Pedro stood defensively on the other side of the bed.

"Mom?"

Kathryn blinked and screamed.

Clarissa raised her hand and was about to slap Kathryn.

A powerful hand grabbed Clarissa's wrist.

It was Pedro. He grabbed Clarissa's wrist.

Married At First Sight Chapter 3462-“Madam!” Pedro’s expression was serious, and he said in a deep voice, “Young lady is your biological daughter!”

Clarissa ordered coldly, “Pedro, let go! Don’t forget, I am still the head of this family! You have to listen to me!”

Pedro replied, “From the moment I was assigned to the young lady’s side, my mission was to protect her for the rest of her life, to be loyal to her, and to obey her orders. This is my duty as assistant! I only have one master! My master is the young lady, Miss Kathryn, not you! My responsibility is to protect her. I won’t allow anyone to hurt her, including you, Madam Farrell!”

Clarissa’s face turned pale.

Indeed, from the moment Pedro came to Kathryn’s side, he was only loyal to her and only served her.

As the head of the family, Clarissa was not Pedro’s master and had no right to order him.

Kathryn gently said to Pedro, “Mr. Fraser, please let my mom go. It’s normal for her to vent her anger on me. After all, I am her child.”

She had asked Pedro to tip off Liberty, causing her mother’s conspiracy to fail.

If she hadn’t tipped off her mother, her mother might have been caught off guard, and her conspiracy might have succeeded, harming Liberty. But she couldn’t bear to watch her mother make one mistake after another.

Both of her aunts died at her mother’s hands, as did her uncle and his family. How many people did her mother hurt to become the head of the family?

If her mother were to kill Liberty, she would be doomed. Now, her mother is also doomed.

Pedro silently released Clarissa’s wrist.

After being freed, Clarissa slapped Kathryn hard in front of Pedro.

The snapping sound echoed in the room.

Pedro was heartbroken.

Kathryn’s face was hit and tilted to the side.

The side of her face that was hit soon became red and swollen. Blood appeared at the corners of her mouth, showing how hard Clarissa had slapped her.

Kathryn kept her head tilted for a while before she raised her hand to touch her bruised face. Then, she turned her head and looked at Clarissa with open eyes.

Clarissa said coldly, "If you were not my biological child, you would not have seen the sun today!"

She was her biological daughter, so even if she betrayed her, she couldn't bring herself to kill Kathryn.

Who said she only had one daughter? Everything she did was actually for her daughter.

Kathryn was silent for a long time, then said, "If I were not your biological child, I would not have to endure all this suffering. Do you think I like being your daughter? Reincarnation is not something I can choose."

She would rather be Shiloh, not the biological daughter of Clarissa.

However, if she were Shiloh, after knowing she was not a biological child, she would definitely leave the Farrell family mansion and stay away from everyone in the Farrell family. Unfortunately, there was no 'if.'

She was the biological daughter of Clarissa. Shiloh's decisions and choices were different from what she thought.

Clarissa's expression became even more gloomy and cold, and she stared at Kathryn as if she wanted to eat her alive.

In her own words, if Kathryn were not her biological daughter, she would have really strangled her and not let her see the sun today.

"I also hope that this is all a dream. When I wake up, Shiloh and I are still mother and daughter with a harmonious and deep relationship, and there is no daughter-swap incident," Clarissa said, looking a little depressed.

Kathryn responded, "Mom, you could have disowned me at that time and continued to maintain your deep mother-daughter relationship with Shiloh. Shiloh grew up by your side and enjoyed all the motherly love you gave her. She was also cultivated with all your heart. She is the successor you cultivated.

Who am I? While Shiloh was enjoying wealth and glory, I was being abused, beaten, and scolded by my biological mother and brothers. Sometimes I wasn't even given food to eat.

When I was in school, I had the best grades, but they always wanted to stop me from going to school. They wanted to marry me off to a rich but old man as his second wife, or even wanted me to be someone else's mistress to earn money for them to spend."

Married At First Sight Chapter 3463-Kathryn added, "I have been through a lot along the way, and my values and character have long been tempered. I can no longer grow up the way my mother wants me to."

Clarissa said coldly, "Are you saying this to make me feel guilty?"

Kathryn laughed at herself. "How dare I? Besides, will you feel guilty? Do you even have a heart?"

As soon as the words fell, Clarissa slapped Kathryn again.

This time, the slap landed on Kathryn's other cheek.

Both sides of Kathryn's face were now red and swollen, with more blood flowing from the corners of her mouth.

"Miss!" Pedro cried out in pain. He couldn't hold on any longer. If Clarissa attacked again, he might throw her out!

This was the person he wanted to protect all his life. How could he allow Clarissa to hurt her again and again?

Clarissa raised her eyes and glanced at Pedro. "Pedro, get out! This is a matter between my daughter and me. It has nothing to do with anyone else!"

Clarissa was genuinely afraid that Pedro would throw her out.

Pedro didn't move.

Kathryn wanted to sit up.

Pedro quickly supported her, took out a tissue, and gently wiped the blood from Kathryn's mouth.

"Mr. Fraser, can you see if my teeth have been knocked out?"

Kathryn actually opened her mouth wide to let Pedro see if her teeth were still there.

Pedro saw that several of her teeth were bleeding. "I think the teeth are still there."

Kathryn closed her mouth and then signaled Pedro to give her a glass of water so she could rinse her mouth and spit out the blood.

Kathryn rinsed her mouth several times and spat out the blood.

Clarissa watched all this coldly. There was still some pain in her eyes. She and Kathryn had a weak relationship as mother and daughter.

After ten months of pregnancy, the two were separated upon birth.

Kathryn didn't return to her until she was in her twenties.

The best opportunity to cultivate a mother-daughter relationship was missed.

Therefore, their relationship was never deep enough and always faint.

All that connected them was blood, and if blood wasn't thicker than water, they would be more like strangers than family.

Ever since Kathryn came back, Clarissa had had complicated feelings towards her.

At first, she despised Kathryn for being weak and useless.

She felt Kathryn was not as good as Shiloh. She even regretted bringing Kathryn back.

Later, she discovered that Kathryn was just pretending to be a pig to eat the tiger. In fact, she was much smarter and more capable than Shiloh.

Although she grew up in the countryside and had little exposure to business, she learned very quickly.

In just over two years, Kathryn's abilities had surpassed those of her three brothers.

Clarissa couldn't help but sigh that the women of the Farrell family's direct lineage were truly born strong.

However, if it is said that the daughters of the Farrell family are born strong, then her granddaughters can also be considered as the daughters of the Farrell family. Even if they do not have the surname Farrell, they are still of the Farrell family's bloodline, but they are not born strong.

Only a daughter born from a daughter can be born strong.

Perhaps, this is the main reason why the Farrell family has always passed down the inheritance to daughters rather than sons.

Married At First Sight Chapter 3464-“Mr. Fraser, go out first. I'll talk to my mother.” Kathryn knew that Pedro was worried and concerned about her.

She comforted him, "Don't worry, my mother won't really kill me. I was born by her, and I did something that ruined her plan. I deserve to be slapped by her."

Clarissa didn't really kill her because Kathryn felt Clarissa still cared about their relationship.

Pedro glanced at Clarissa, then looked at Kathryn's red and swollen face with heartache, and walked out silently.

He asked the nurse for some ice and handed it to Kathryn, asking her to apply it to her face.

Kathryn took the ice and said, "I'll apply it. You can go out now."

Pedro pursed his lips and finally walked out.

When only the mother and daughter were left in the ward, Kathryn applied ice to her face and said, "Mom, you must be tired from standing. Pull a chair over and sit down."

Clarissa stared at her for a while, then dragged a chair over and sat down.

"Mom, next time you hit me, can you please not hit me on the face? I'm not pretty enough, and if my face gets swollen, it will be even uglier. I don't even have a man as your daughter, and if you make me ugly, I won't be able to get married and give birth to a daughter. Even if you kill Liberty and the others, you will have no successor."

Clarissa said, "Stop joking with Mom."

Kathryn replied, "I wasn't joking. Mom, I was talking to you seriously."

Clarissa inquired, "When did you wake up?"

Kathryn answered honestly, "When you were mumbling to me and crying. I woke up and pretended to be asleep. It was very difficult to pretend to be really asleep."

Clarissa was speechless.

After staring at Kathryn for a while, Clarissa said angrily, "I did that for your own good! Even if it means losing my life, I can guarantee that the position of the head of the family will fall to you. The descendants of your aunt will never be able to compete with you!"

Kathryn was silent for a moment, then looked at her mother and said seriously, "Mom, don't you think you are wrong? You keep making mistakes, absolutely wrong. I like Liberty, my junior, and I admire her. My conscience also prevents me from watching her being harmed by you. If I can save her, I will of course do so."

Mom, you and my aunt are sisters, and you were raised by my aunt. We are from the same roots, so why are you so eager to kill us? Why do you have to kill us all? Don't say it's for your own good. Did I ask for what you think? Do you need me to do those things for you? Mom, do you know if I want to be the head of the family? Not everyone values power like you do."

"If possible, I really don't want to stay in the Farrell family and accept everything. The rules of the Farrell family are also difficult for me to adapt to. Why do we have such rules? Isn't it good for the capable and virtuous to take the position?"

"Why must she be a daughter of the direct lineage?"

"If a family head has many daughters, it is easy to end up in a situation like your mother's."

Clarissa said coldly, "If you have the ability, you can do it yourself and cut off all the rules that you don't like. Just like the Lafayette family in Meadspring, after the current head of the family came to power, didn't he cut a lot of family rules?"

Kathryn replied, "I do want to, but the position of the head of the family should not be inherited by me. Mom, your position as the head of the family is not legitimate and reasonable. I just want to ask you one question: Was it really you who killed my eldest and second aunt?"

Kathryn already had the answer in her heart. She still couldn't help but hold on to a sliver of hope, hoping to hear a negative answer from Clarissa.

She wanted to hear another truth.

"Mom, if it wasn't you who did it, I would help you clear your name even if I had to sacrifice my life!" Kathryn said seriously.

Clarissa looked at her for a moment and then looked away.

"You are my only daughter, and I don't want you to risk your life. So what if you have it, so what if you don't? Does it matter?"

Clarissa's words were equivalent to giving Kathryn the answer.

The little bit of hope in Kathryn's heart was shattered.

Her two aunts were really harmed by Clarissa.

Clarissa said, "Kathryn, the important thing is that the person sitting in the position of the head of the family now is me, your biological mother!"

Married At First Sight Chapter 3465-Clarissa said solemnly, “Even if my position as matriarch wasn’t obtained legitimately, it’s still legitimate for you to take over. If the leadership of the family returns to your aunt’s descendants, wouldn’t I have been a joke for the past few decades? I’ve lost so much because of it.”

Clarissa reached out and touched Kathryn’s red and swollen face. She said, “Kathryn, everything I’ve done was for your own good. I hope that everything in the Farrell family will be left to you.”

Kathryn looked at Clarissa, believing her intentions to leave everything in the Farrell family to her.

However, everything in the Farrell family did not belong to Clarissa alone.

Clarissa wanted to make the entire Farrell family her own. When Kathryn returned to Clarissa, she found that many in the family were dissatisfied with Clarissa because she was gradually abolishing the family rules bit by bit, just like the Lafayette family in Meadspring.

Clarissa aimed to make everything in the Farrell family her own.

It was no longer about the other family members.

How could they obey Clarissa when their interests were being violated?

Some who resisted were slowly suppressed by Clarissa, forcing them to flee, commit crimes and be caught, or die.

These were all Clarissa’s actions.

Kathryn did not object to Clarissa consolidating power and interests. If it were her, she might do the same.

However, capable members of the Farrell family still needed to be nurtured, not eliminated.

Kathryn also thought that if she were to take over the Farrell family, she would modify the family rules gradually but would not kill or harm anyone.

The family was large and had many branches.

The Farrell family’s rules were no longer suitable for today’s society.

Some members had no special abilities but gained benefits by flattering others. They did nothing but show off and suppress dissenters.

This phenomenon was widespread, and Clarissa didn't care about it.

Instead, she used those sycophants to suppress and harm the capable young talents, forcing them to leave and seek other opportunities.

There were now very few capable young people in the family.

Most people relied on the monthly living expenses they received from the Farrell clan fund. These expenses were not much but also not too little, distributed based on the number of family members. Adults received living expenses configured to cover the most basic needs in Jensburg.

The tuition fees of minors were taken into account, so their monthly living expenses were slightly more than those of adults. The elderly received the same as adults, but those aged 65 and above didn't need to pay for their medical expenses when hospitalized; the family foundation covered these costs.

In this environment, how many people would be motivated to strive for more?

It seemed to only foster laziness.

They didn't have to work and wouldn't starve. For large families, the monthly living expenses exceeded the earnings of many working people.

Why work hard when the living expenses distributed by the family were more?

Kathryn thought this was detrimental, as it only encouraged laziness. She believed that minors, unless both parents were deceased, should not receive living expenses and study fees from the Farrell clan fund.

If both parents were alive, it was their responsibility to support their children.
