

Married At First Sight

Married At First Sight Chapter 3523-The old lady smiled, "I don't care what they say. My grandchildren are mine. I raised them, and their grandfather and I put in a lot of effort to cultivate them. I know their temperaments and what kind of women suit them better than they do. I just want my grandchildren to be happy. Which of the wives I've chosen for them is not good?"

People always say that Serenity is not worthy of Zack. How many years has Serenity been married now? Look at Serenity's capabilities. Is she really not worthy of Zack?"

The old lady had always favored Serenity. She said, "I am very grateful to Serenity. I am thankful that she married Zack. Otherwise, with Zack's bad temper, he might have remained single for life. The fortune-teller said Zack and Serenity have a lifelong love for each other.

That is the blessing they have cultivated in their previous lives. I am just following the will of heaven and bringing them together."

The old lady never admitted how she coerced and induced Zachary to marry Serenity.

However, when choosing granddaughters-in-law for her grandsons, she considered no one else but Serenity. She only knew Serenity was Zachary's destined spouse. If they missed this chance, Zachary might have been single for life.

Fortunately, Serenity was wonderful. She was getting better and better, becoming truly worthy of her most cherished grandson.

She didn't need to extol the relationship between the young couple; everyone could see how good it was.

"Ring, ring, ring..."

Camryn's cell phone rang.

The incoming call interrupted their chat.

She took out her phone, checked the caller ID, and said to the old lady, "It's Callum calling."

The old lady smiled, "He must miss you in his busy schedule."

Camryn's face flushed slightly.

The old lady was quite bold with her words. Luckily, Camryn had been married to the York family for some time and knew the old lady was a playful spirit. She blushed when the old lady teased her, but she wouldn't be as embarrassed as before.

Maybe after some time, she would develop thicker skin and face her grandmother's teasing without blushing or getting flustered.

Camryn answered her husband's call.

"Wife, are you not at home? Where did you go?" Callum asked.

"I'm at home. Did you check the surveillance?" Camryn knew Callum often checked the house's surveillance.

"Are you not busy?" she asked with a smile, "You still have time to check the surveillance."

Callum replied honestly, "Busy, very busy. I just finished a meeting and returned to my office. There are piles of documents to handle. I was so thirsty, I poured myself a glass of water. While drinking, I checked the surveillance. I wanted to see you, but you weren't there. I thought you went out."

His wife wasn't in the house. She must have gone to her sister-in-law's place.

"My grandmother and I were chatting in the yard. Seren took Sonny and followed a few seniors to FC Manor."

Camryn was most familiar with Serenity. At Callum's house, she either spent time with him or chatted with Serenity.

Hayden, her future sister-in-law, lived far away and had a cold personality. Camryn and Hayden weren't yet close. When they got together, they mostly talked about business.

"Grandma didn't say anything bad about me, did she?" Callum asked with a smile, knowing his wife and grandma were chatting.

He knew that grandma liked to tease about how "unfilial" they were in front of their beloved ones and would share their embarrassing childhood stories.

In short, to get closer to her grandson's wife, grandma would dig up any embarrassing details of her grandson to please her.