Chapter 2115 Sonia Saved Lexi

As Lexi was lost in her thoughts, a loud shout suddenly came from the crowd by the roadside.

Lexi's heart skipped a beat.

Could this be the mysterious man beginning his scheme?

Realizing something was amiss and Janet might be in danger, Lexi instinctively moved closer to Janet and held her wrist tightly.

"Lexi..."

Janet's voice was confused and barely heard over the loud engine noise.

Lexi and Janet simultaneously looked up and noticed a car roaring to life nearby. It was as loud as thunder, its tires screeching against the pavement as if trying to lift itself off the ground. Smoke billowed from the car, enveloping it in a daunting haze.

Suddenly, the car swerved, completing half a turn to face them directly.

In the blink of an eye, the car rushed towards them.

"Run!" Lexi yelled, her voice husky as she grabbed Janet's hand and pulled her back.

"What's happening? Are they going to hit us?"

The nearby staff member's eyes went wide with shock.

"Don't worry. With all these people around, they won't hit us," another staff member responded, trying to stay positive.

Brandon was ready and acted quickly. He ran to Janet, picked her up, and hurried to the event hall.

The car sped by so quickly that bystanders initially thought it was just a reckless driver showing off. However, they soon realized the driver was actually trying to cause harm.

"Ah!"

"Help!"

"Call the police! Now!"

The people by the roadside instantly became agitated. They screamed desperately for help and searched for places to take cover.

Lexi had only taken a few steps when she was harshly bumped into.

"Ah!" Lexi cried out as she stumbled forward uncontrollably, cursing her misfortune.

Was she about to be killed here today?

She hoped it wouldn't crush her hands. She cherished designing and longed to create sketches until her old age. However, it appeared the driver was set on ending her life.

From the look of things, the man seemed relentless in his pursuit to hit her.

Her hopes were fading fast.

"Farewell, Janet. Farewell, my beloved career in design."

Tears quietly rolled down Lexi's cheeks.

She braced for the worst.

Out of nowhere, a strong force grabbed her.

"Hold on!"

The person yelled into Lexi's ear and pulled her to safety.

Lexi looked stunned as she was rapidly pulled along.

It was only after being led up some steps and away from the threat that she turned to thank the person who saved her.

"Thank you. If it weren't for..." Lexi's words halted abruptly when she clearly saw the face of her rescuer. "How could it be you?"

Her rescuer was not a stranger, but Sonia, someone she had never liked.

Sonia seemed oblivious to Lexi's question. She let go of Lexi's hand, her expression turning grim. "You're safe now."

Sonia was unaware of Lexi's bewildered standing in the path of danger.

As Lexi faced Sonia, she suddenly remembered that Sonia was Janet's bodyguard.

"You're supposed to be protecting Janet. Why did you come to save me?" Lexi's heart skipped a beat. "Where is my she? Is she alright?"

Not pausing to hear an answer, Lexi quickly assumed that Janet was in danger and began to rush back down the stairs.

Sonia, speechless, stopped Lexi once more and gestured towards Brandon and Janet, who were standing close by.

"She is safe with Mr. Larson. However, if I hadn't pulled you back, you would have been badly hurt by that car just now."
