I am a quadrillionaire chapter 1789—Neither Dax nor Koen expected Valerio to refuse after even the head and the grandmaster of the family personally came to Treasure Trove to ask for the information surrounding a young man.

‘What’s happening here?’

Although Valerio was telling the truth and client information was indeed absolutely confidential for trading companies, it would also depend on the specific situation.

Now the two heirs of the Lightfoot family had died in West End.

Therefore, when the head and Saint Realm grandmaster came to Valerio, he should do his best to cooperate to rule out any suspicion surrounding the Fellowes family.

Valerio’s direct refusal made the Lightfoot family suspect that the Fellowes family was also involved in this.

Otherwise, why would they not help with such a small matter?

This was not good for the Fellowes family.

As the head of Treasure Trove, Valerio was among the core seniors of the Fellowes family. If the Saints were excluded, he was second only to the head of the Fellowes family. It was impossible for such a character to not understand this and still refuse.

This made Dax and Koen suspicious. ‘Is there something fishy going on?’

“Mr. Valerio, what do you mean? We just want the information of one person, and you don’t even want to do this small favor for my family?” Dax said with a gloomy face.

“Lord Dax, it’s not that I’m not doing you a favor. If it were an ordinary person’s information, I wouldn’t mind giving it to you as it won’t affect us too much, but David is different. You also know that he spent more than a dozen trillion Star Dollars at Treasure Trove just to fight Archimedes. Therefore, it can be said that he is the most honored guest of Treasure Trove. In addition, his identity is not simple, so I cannot provide you with his information. Please understand,” Valerio explained patiently.

At this juncture, the Lightfoot family was already pissed and had nowhere to vent their anger.

Of course, Valerio did not want to start a fight with the Lightfoot family.

However, David was the only glimmer of hope for him and his family after so many years.

Therefore, Valerio naturally would not hand David's information to the Lightfoot family.

He would not do it even if he became enemies of the Lightfoot family.

"Mr. Valerio David is our first target. If Archi's death has nothing to do with him, then let it be. If it does, no matter how complicated his identity is, he must pay for what he did. How many years has it been since someone provoked the Lightfoot family like this? Plus, the grandmasters are taking this very seriously. You have to think about it, are you sure you want to go against my family for David, a kid who appeared out of nowhere?" Dax looked at Valerio and asked seriously.

Valerio was amused upon hearing that.

Dax did not know David's specific identity yet.

If David asked his master to come out, the Lightfoot family, whose two heirs had died, might have to go to them and apologize instead!

'No one can challenge your prestige, but you can challenge the prestige of a Sacred Saint?

'If the Ginger family were not backing you, you'd be nothing in front of a Sacred Saint even with your huge family, Saint Realm grandmasters, and inexhaustible wealth.'

David was surely not afraid of the Lightfoot family, but it was still impossible for Valerio to hand over David's information.

David's attitude made him unafraid.

However, if Valerio betrayed David, the Fellowes family would look bad.

Anyone would feel horrible if this happened.

In the future, it would inevitably affect the relationship between the two parties.

"Sorry! Lord Dax, my hands are tied!" Valerio replied while shaking his head.

"You..." Dax stood up angrily, staring at Valerio with hostility.

"Valerio, I'll give you one last chance! Will you give us David's information?" Dax asked through gritted teeth.

He was about to explode.

Valerio was totally disrespecting the Lightfoot family.
