Novel Married at First Sight Chapter 1676 -Josh was considering that his wife was pregnant and he did not want to smoke.

“Uncle, what happened at that time? How did Auntie say that she harmed Duncan?” Zachary asked in a low voice.

Josh also looked at Mr. Lewis, waiting for Mr. Lewis to tell the truth.

“Oh, it’s our fault. Duncan was drunk yesterday. After you sent him home, his mother called him, but he didn’t answer. He called the butler again, only to find out that he was drunk. This morning, if his mother insists on going there, I will go there with her. Duncan didn’t wake up until noon, and when he woke up and saw us, he didn’t say a word, and the mother and son quarreled again. Duncan didn’t want to quarrel with his mother, so he got up and left.”

Mr. Lewis recalled the scene at that time, if he knew that this would cause his son to have a car accident, he would drag his wife back.

He also felt that he did not persuade his wife, which caused the conflict between the wife and the youngest son to become more and more intense.

“Duncan’s mother asked him if he was going to find Liberty again, and wouldn’t let Duncan go out. Duncan ignored his mother and drove away. His mother was so angry that she drove after Duncan in spite of herself, wanting to stop Duncan from going to Liberty.

I’m following, and I’m trying to persuade his mother to stop fighting with Duncan. Duncan is 36 years old. He knows what he’s doing. As parents, we don’t need to worry about him anymore. Duncan has always been an independent son and doesn’t like being bound by the family. The more we oppose him pursuing Liberty, the more he will oppose us.

His mother won’t listen. Go in, Duncan saw that we were chasing him, the speed was very fast, and he kept overtaking other vehicles. It was also because the speed was too fast that he rear-ended a large truck. It was at the intersection of traffic lights. The truck slows to a stop.”

Speaking of this, Mr. Lewis blamed himself: “It’s all our fault. If it weren’t for our pursuit, Duncan wouldn’t be driving so fast, and he wouldn’t be a big truck that slowed down and wanted to stop because the brakes couldn’t catch up to the rear.”

Zachary look at Josh and Josh look at Zachary, and no one knew how to answer the conversation.

When Duncan went out, he didn't necessarily go to find Liberty, but Mrs. Lewis was too tense, and always felt that her son was going to find Liberty when he went out, so she chased after her son, trying to stop him from going to Liberty.

Duncan was probably full of anger at the time.

Because he was angry, he was not concentrated enough when driving, and he was drunk yesterday and only woke up today, so he felt a little uncomfortable, and something happened.

After a while, Zachary said comfortingly: "Uncle, Duncan will recover."

As long as Duncan could save his life, other injuries would heal slowly.

"Duncan was mainly injured in his legs. You heard what the doctor said. His follow-up recovery will take a long time. I am just worried that after Duncan wakes up, he knows that he will be in a wheelchair for a long time and needs to undergo rehabilitation. He can't accept it.

Don't look at him carelessly, as if everything can be seen, in fact, he is a very fragile person. He used to be rebellious, which caused his grandma's illness to worsen and passed away. For more than ten years, still he is living in self-blame.

If the scar on his face is not removed, he will not be able to get rid of self-blame, and now such a disaster has happened, I am afraid that he will not be able to bear it." Mr. Lewis worried about his son. Could he accept the fact that his legs might not work when he woke up?

Even if it can be cured, it would take a long time.

"You said, why do we parents make it difficult for our son? Whoever he likes, let him go after him, what to stop him? He is so old, and there is only one person he likes. We don't support him, he was annoyed, and when his temper came up..." Mr. Lewis said regretfully: "What's the use of talking more now, something happened to my son."

Josh said comfortingly: "Uncle, although Duncan has a fragile side, he is also very strong. He is not so easy to be defeated. His leg injury will definitely heal. Duncan likes Sister Liberty. I think it's up to them to deal with emotional matters, and it's best for others not to intervene, we're all grown-ups, and we're not too young, so we can't handle our emotional problems well?"

Mr. Lewis looked at Zachary, his lips moved, he wanted to say something, but he couldn't speak.

After a moment of silence, Zachary said, "My sister really has no other thoughts about Duncan, but she doesn't hate Duncan, she regards Duncan as a friend."

Novel Married at First Sight Chapter 1677 -After seeing Duncan's feelings, they also supported Duncan, but Liberty really didn't consider remarrying, yes Duncan also really had no love for men and women, and Mrs. Lewis blocked her fiercely, so Zachary wanted to persuade Duncan to give up.

Zachary felt that even if Liberty agreed to Duncan's pursuit, it would be difficult to be happy in the future, because of the existence of Mrs. Lewis as a mother-in-law.

The first was his closest friend, and the second was his sister. Zachary was also very difficult to do. he persuaded his buddies to give up. The buddies think that he was not enough friends, so he persuade Liberty to accept it. It felt like pushing Liberty into a fire pit.

Zachary felt that the relationship between himself and Serenity was not as difficult as that of Liberty and Duncan.

Duncan discovered his feelings for Liberty when Liberty had an accident. Now that Liberty had recovered, it took only two or three months, and the time for Duncan to pursue Liberty was even shorter.

As a result, before he could touch Liberty, he had a car accident because of his conflict with his mother.

For the future of him and Liberty, Zachary and Josh were not optimistic, and even found it more difficult than before.

Duncan suffered this injury, and with his character, there was a high probability that he would stay away from Liberty.

Two people, it was possible that there was no relationship between them, leaving a lifetime of regret.

"We know, we know that Liberty doesn't love Duncan, but only regards Duncan as a friend, and there are also reasons for you. That's why your aunt stopped Duncan, because the problem lies with Duncan." Mr. Lewis sighed.

Liberty didn't love Duncan, it was Duncan who was pursuing Liberty.

Duncan was very good, but the scar on his face was scary. Many girls were afraid to associate with him, always thinking that he was a violent person. Occasionally, those who were willing to try to communicate were mostly because of Duncan's status and wealth.

Lily might be the most real one. The Harmon family and the Lewis family were right in line, and Lily didn't dislike the scary scar on Duncan's face. It's a pity that the two had no relationship. Now, Lily had given up on Duncan, and only made business friends with Duncan.

Mr. Lewis sighed again, "When Duncan recovers, if he wants to pursue Liberty, his mother and I will never stop him. As long as our son lives well, he can accept anything."

It's a trifle.

Zachary and Josh looked at each other and could only say a few words of comfort.

Duncan woke up that night.

When he woke up, the first thing he saw was the white ceiling in the ward.

He wanted to move, but he felt pain all over his body, especially the pain from his legs, which was severe and heartbreaking.

The pain made him break out in a cold sweat.

"Duncan, you're awake."

Duncan moved, and Mrs. Lewis, who was guarding the bed, noticed him. She stood up in surprise and said to her husband, "Duncan is awake, call the doctor to come and take a look."

"Duncan." Mrs. Lewis came closer and looked at his pale face, her eyes were red again.

Duncan lay still and couldn't move. He looked around the people in the ward with great effort. Apart from his family and his friends, he also saw Liberty and Sonny in the crowd.

Liberty hugged Sonny. He was tired, so he put his head on his mom's shoulder.

Mrs. Lewis's shout must have disturbed Sonny. He opened his eyes, raised his head, and turned to look at Duncan on the hospital bed.

Sonny and Duncan looked at each other.

Sonny struggled to get off the ground.

Sonny walked to the hospital bed and said to Duncan: "Uncle Duncan, you will be fine, you will be fine, and you will be fine like my mother."

Duncan smiled weakly and did not speak.

When the doctors and nurses came to look at it, the doctor didn't say much else, but he did say that there were too many people in the ward. The hurt person needs a good rest. Now that the people who had been hurt were awake, everyone could go back to sleep.

It was not necessary to crowd all in the ward, but it affected him.

In the end, only Duncan's parents insisted on staying with him, and the others left the hospital one after another after caring about Duncan.

The night was getting dark.

Because of Duncan's car accident, everyone's heart was extremely heavy.

Under Serenity's insistence, Liberty took her son back to the villa on the top of the hill with Serenity and Zachary.

Along the way, Serenity silently held Liberty's hand. The two sisters didn't speak, but they understood each other's feelings.

The next day, the news that the boss of the Lewis & Co. had a car accident spread in Wiltspoon.

They didn't know if paparazzi could do it or if they already knew that Duncan was after Liberty, and Mrs. Lewis and Mr. Lewis were there at the time of the incident, so the news is a little bit of a guess.

It's suspected that Duncan had a conflict with his parents, and the car accident occurred when he drove crazily. There was only one reason for Duncan's conflict with his parents, that was, the Lewis family did not approve of Duncan's pursuit of the eldest sister of Zachary.

Although this news was not as explosive as Zachary's announcement that he was married, it still rushed into the hot searches in Wiltspoon, and Liberty was naturally involved.

Liberty didn't read the news, she got up early and wanted to do something, but she couldn't find anything to do at Serenity's house.

There were maids.

She could only walk around the yard a few times, and when it was bright, she saw Sonny being sent to class by Jim, and after talking to the butler, she left the hilltop villa without waiting for Serenity and Zachary to get up.

Liberty went to Wiltspoon People's Hospital.

When she came to Duncan's ward, she knocked on the door.

Soon, Mr. Lewis came to open the door and saw that it was Liberty, who was still holding a bouquet of flowers and carrying a basket of fruit. Mr. Lewis quickly took the basket of fruit from Liberty.

"Miss Hunt, come and see Duncan, come in quickly." Mr. Lewis was now facing Liberty with kindness.

Liberty walked into the ward, and asked softly, "Is Mr. Lewis awake?"

"Not yet. He fell asleep... very late last night."

Last night, After everyone left, Duncan asked his parents about his injuries, knowing that his legs were seriously injured, which was why he woke up feeling the most pain in his legs.

Although his leg was preserved, the follow-up recovery time was extremely long, and he would need to sit in a wheelchair for a long time.

If he couldn't stick to rehab, he might be in a wheelchair for the rest of his life.

The following words were not said by Mrs. Lewis and Mr. Lewis, but the truth that Duncan asked to see the doctor from the doctor.

After that, Duncan seemed to be paralyzed, which frightened Mr. Lewis and Mrs. Lewis.

Thankfully, Duncan did not make a fuss, and he was awakened.

Mr. Lewis was quite worried that his son would make a fuss again when he woke up again. Liberty came to visit his son, Duncan at this time, and he regarded Liberty as a savior.

With his son's liking for Liberty, when he woke up and saw Liberty was there, his son's mood would be better.

Novel Married at First Sight Chapter 1679 -Mrs. Lewis stayed in front of the bed like yesterday. When she saw Liberty coming in, she quickly got up and said softly: " Liberty, you're here."

"Auntie, let me come and see Mr. Lewis." Liberty also said softly, afraid of waking Duncan on the bed.

Mrs. Lewis placed the bouquet next to her son after she received the bouquet from Liberty. The son could see the bouquet from Liberty when he awoke. It would improve his disposition and give him the confidence to heal his legs.

As soon as Mrs. Lewis put the bouquet beside Duncan, he woke up.

When he opened his eyes, he saw Liberty standing in front of the bed. He was silent at first, then became extremely indifferent the next moment, and the words he said were also cold, "Mom, drive her away, I don't want to see her!"

Hearing this, The three people standing in front of the bed were all stunned.

Mrs. Lewis looked at her son and then at Liberty, suspecting that her son didn't see clearly that the person standing here was Liberty.

She reminded her son softly and cautiously: "Duncan, this is Liberty, it's Liberty, she's here to see you."

Duncan didn't look at Liberty again, but still said coldly, "I know who she is, just Liberty, I don't want to see her. If it wasn't for her, I wouldn't have been in a car accident, and I don't want to see her again."

"Duncan!" Mrs. Lewis groaned and blamed herself, "This's all mother's fault, it has nothing to do with Liberty, how can you say such words and put the blame on Liberty."

"It's because of her that my mother stopped me and I got into a car accident, it's all her!" Duncan looked very excited and shouted, "Mom, tell her to go, don't let her come into my ward in the future, I don't want to see her! Let her go, let her go, if she doesn't go, I will go!"

He struggled, but he couldn't move, the wound would be dragged on whenever he moved.

"Duncan, please don't do this... Please don't do this." Mrs. Lewis cried and held her son down to prevent him from struggling.

Mr. Lewis also helped hold his son.

“Mom, let her go, let her go!” Duncan couldn’t get up, he could only look resentful, and screamed for his mother to drive Liberty away.

“Okay, okay, mom let her go, mom let her go right away, don’t get excited, don’t get excited.” Mrs. Lewis quickly agreed, she wiped her tears, stood up straight, turned around and pulled Liberty out.

Liberty was startled by Duncan’s reaction, and when Mrs. Lewis pulled her out, she turned to look at Duncan, and Duncan also looked at her at this time.

But soon, she was pulled out of the ward by Mrs. Lewis, and the door of the ward was closed, separating her from Duncan.

She didn’t catch the pain in Duncan’s eyes.

Duncan could be crippled, he could be in a wheelchair for the rest of his life.

He was not good enough for Liberty.

There was such a big contrast in the attitude of his parents towards Liberty, he was hurting his legs but not his head, so he quickly figured it out.

After a car accident, he was so injured, and the mother who blocked him from pursuing Liberty must have regretted it, and would agree with him to be with Liberty, and even hoped that Liberty could take care of him for the rest of his life.

When he was fine, his mother didn’t allow him to be with Liberty, but when he was disabled, his mother agreed, that was too unfair to Liberty.

Besides, Liberty never said that she loved him or accepted his feelings.

Duncan couldn’t let his mother tie up Liberty to take care of him just because he was disabled. He didn’t want to drag Liberty down.

Duncan thought about it all night. He could only treat Liberty indifferently, and blame Liberty for his car accident. He didn’t want to see Liberty again.

Novel Married at First Sight Chapter 1680 -The mother had not done it yet. When he was discharged from the hospital and couldn’t continue to do leg rehabilitation, the mother would definitely go to find him Liberty’s.

He blocked that road ahead of time.

After the door of the ward was closed, Mrs. Lewis let go of Liberty's hand, turned around and cried against the wall, covering her face.

Liberty was silent, took two steps forward, patted Mrs. Lewis on the back shoulder, and comforted Mrs. Lewis: "Auntie, he will be fine, don't worry too much."

She took out a tissue and handed it to Mrs. Lewis.

Mrs. Lewis took the tissue, turned around, wiped her tears and apologized to Liberty, "Liberty, this matter has nothing to do with you, it's my fault, I stopped Duncan from looking for you. It was all my fault that the car accident happened.

Duncan was paralyzed when he found out about his injury last night. I think he couldn't bear such a blow, so he treated you like that. You, don't take it to heart."

Liberty: "Auntie, I won't argue with him."

Duncan was the proud son of heaven; however, he was so severely injured that he was unable to withstand the blow, and his demeanor changed drastically, which was understandable.

"Liberty, I'm sorry." Mrs. Lewis apologized again.

"It's all my fault, it's my fault, if it wasn't for me, Duncan wouldn't have had a car accident, it's all my fault, Liberty, don't blame Duncan."

Liberty nodded. What Duncan said just now was ugly. She felt very hurt when she heard it, but she didn't blame Duncan.

Liberty: "Mr. Lewis doesn't want to see me now. I'll take a look outside when I come over. I won't go in to provoke Mr. Lewis. Auntie, I'm leaving first."

Duncan didn't want to see Liberty now, and it's useless for Liberty to stay there. If Duncan knew that she hadn't left yet, he might be agitated.

Mrs. Lewis choked with sobs and said, "In a few days, when Duncan's mood calms down a bit, you can come and see him again, and I will ask him to apologize to you."

Liberty nodded.

Under Mrs. Lewis's tears, she left silently.

After a while, Mrs. Lewis wiped away her tears and calmed down before returning to the ward.

Seeing her husband wanting to reprimand her son, and seeing his son's pale face, but unable to reprimand him, Mrs. Lewis sighed in her heart.

Mrs. Lewis walked slowly back to the hospital bed and sat down. Looking at her son with an indifferent expression, she said softly after a long while, "Liberty is gone."

Duncan's expression didn't change, and his voice was still as cold as before, " Mom, don't let her appear in front of me in the future, and Serenity, I don't want to see her either, I don't want to see either of her sisters."

Serenity's eyes were sharp, if he saw Serenity, he was afraid that he would not be able to control himself. Alright, let Serenity saw through his real intentions.

Mrs. Lewis: "Duncan, I really don't blame Liberty for this matter. It's all my fault. If you want to blame or hate, just hate me. It was me who caused your car accident."

Duncan said arrogantly and unreasonably: "I don't care, anyway, I don't want to see Liberty in the future!"

Mrs. Lewis: "Okay, okay, if you don't want to see her, don't see her. Duncan, don't get excited, and take care of your wounds."

Mrs. Lewis's greatest concern at this time was that her son would not comply with the subsequent treatment. Her son would be confined to a wheelchair for the rest of his life.

Now no matter what her son said, she would agree.

If he does not wish to see Liberty, he will not.

However, Mrs. Lewis felt extremely uncomfortable. Before, she tried her best to prevent her son from seeing Liberty, but now she allowed the two to meet each other, but her son didn't want to see Liberty again.
