Read Chapter 1728

Novel Chapter 1728 -Duncan looked at the insulated lunch box, but Liberty just moved to the far side, so he couldn't get it because he has limited legs and feet and he was just so useless!

Everyone encouraged him to let him recuperate well. The doctor said that he had a high chance of recovery, but he didn't say 100%. Who knew if he could recover?

If he couldn't recover, he was like at this moment, trying to sweep the insulated lunch box to the ground, but he couldn't do it. The insulated lunch box seemed to have a mouth, and it was making fun of him. He didn't like the lunch box but couldn't get rid of it.

Just as Duncan was about to get angry, Liberty's cell phone rang.

Duncan saw her answering the phone and heard her call "Serenity", so he knew it was Serenity calling.

When Serenity was listening to the phone, her attention was not on him, so Duncan dared to take off all his indifferent masks and looked at her greedily.

When he liked someone, he couldn't wait to be with her 24 hours a day.

He didn't want to see Liberty for more than ten days. Not seeing him every day was like three autumns. No one knew how much he missed her and how painful it was for him to treat her like this.

Liberty came to take care of him for a long time yesterday, and Duncan felt that it was not enough. He knew that she would still come over today. Last night, he still missed her, thought about the way to go in the future, and couldn't sleep.

Liberty: "Sonny has a fever? What did the doctor say?"

Sonny has a fever?

There was distress in Duncan's eyes.

It must be that Liberty took the time to take care of him, and Sonny would get sick if she didn't have time to take care of Sonny.

It's all Duncan fault!

After Liberty ended the call, Duncan suppressed his feelings and asked her coldly: "Why is Sonny having a fever? You go back and take care of him, don't come to my place."

"Maybe the air conditioner caught cold at night, Serenity and brother-in-law took care of him, and now his fever has subsided, so he doesn't need to take medicine. The family doctor of the York family showed him and prescribed medicine for preparation. He said that if the physical temperature can be lowered, he doesn't need to take medicine first."

When Sonny got a fever, she rushed him to the hospital to see a doctor and gave him medicine.

This time Sonny caught a cold, and with Zachary by his side, he suggested that the temperature should be lowered physically first. Since the body temperature did not exceed 38°5, he thought it was necessary to lower the temperature physically first.

Liberty felt that her brother-in-law was quite experienced in raising children, even though he usually looked serious, he was a man who liked children.

It's just that her sister hadn't moved yet. She was worried, but she dared not talk about the child in front of her sister.

Duncan felt relieved when he heard that Sonny's fever had subsided. But he still said: "Go back and take care of Sonny, I don't need you here."

At the end, he added in a vicious voice: "Seeing you makes me feel even worse. I don't want to see you. You go now and take care of your son!"

"Serenity will take care of Sonny, which makes me very happy. I'll go see Sonny after work." Liberty took the insulated lunch box and said with a smile: "Mr. Lewis, you don't want to see me, but I want to see you because you represent me at work and I can make $300,000 a month, which is more than I can make by opening a shop.

I don't have much money right now. I can't give up such a high salary because I still need to make money to buy a house for Sonny to go to school. He starts kindergarten in September. As you know, he goes to the best kindergarten in Wiltspoon, and the tuition for a year is all Six figures.

Although I still have some savings, the speed of making money is not as fast as the speed of spending money. Fortunately, Mrs. Lewis gave me such a job, and my monthly income is almost equal to my son's annual tuition.

With money, I still want to change to a more expensive car, which is more comfortable, and I want to expand my business. The plan is too big and I need too much money, so I have to work hard to make money."

Duncan was speechless.

Liberty was so tired because she insisted on being self-reliant too much and refused to accept the help of her younger sister who married into a wealthy family.

Novel Chapter 1729 -Duncan felt sorry for Liberty, but he still didn't want to drag Liberty down, he said coldly: "I said it, I will give $600,000 to you. $600,000 is double what my mother gave you, you leave now, immediately, immediately, leave me!"

"Mr. Lewis, I will not want your $600,000. Mrs. Lewis invited me to come to work. It's a steady stream of water, and what you gave me was a one-off, so I'm at a big loss. If you give me $600,000 a month for nothing, I'm embarrassed to accept it, and I'll go to work to earn money, and I can spend it with peace of mind."

Duncan's face was full of black lines, "A long stream? Are you planning to work for the rest of your life?"

"Mr. Lewis, With your current mentality, I think I can work for the rest of my life."

Duncan: "...I will get better! I will definitely get better!"

Liberty smiled, "Mr. Lewis, It depends on whether you can cooperate with the treatment. If you continue like this, I doubt whether you can stand up again. If you sit in a wheelchair in your next life, It's inconvenient to go out, it's inconvenient to do things, when someone pushes you upstairs, you can't even go downstairs by yourself, just thinking about that scene makes me feel aggrieved.

Mr. Lewis, you have always been high-spirited, you really let yourself live like that Aggrieved?"

Duncan remained silent with a dark face.

He could be cured, who didn't want to be cured.

The problem was, the doctors were not sure that he would fully recover, although the doctors did not say that he would not recover, but only that the recovery time would be longer.

Duncan lost his confidence when he thought of the long years of rehabilitation.

Liberty: "Mr. Lewis, are you hungry? Would you like some soup?"

Duncan was silent for a long time before he said angrily: "My mother spent $10,000 a day to ask you to take care of me, and you just send some soup every day? No food, no vegetables, take care of me like this! When will I get better?"

"Mr. Lewis, you're willing to eat, this is easy." Liberty immediately walked out of the ward.

Mrs. Lewis and Mr. Lewis were sitting outside, when they saw Liberty coming out, they thought that Liberty couldn't stand his son's bad temper at last, and ran out.

Mrs. Lewis got up to meet Liberty, but she didn't know what to say.

"Your fourth young master wants to eat, one of you will go out and pack a fast food for him."

What Mrs. Lewis heard was that Liberty was ordering her bodyguards to go out and pack a fast food.

The food sent by the family was overturned when Duncan lost his temper.

The person who brought him food today was his elder brother, but he overturned the food in front of his elder brother, so angry that elder brother Lewis wanted to scold him, but his mother pushed elder brother Lewis out of the ward, lest the two brothers get up together dispute.

The current Mrs. Lewis completely protected Duncan.

No matter what Duncan did, she tolerated it and didn't let others criticize Duncan.

"I'll go, I'll go right away." A bodyguard responded, turned around and left to pack fast food outside.

The Fourth Young Master was finally willing to eat.

Mrs. Lewis was also full of joy, and asked Liberty: "Liberty, Duncan is willing to eat? He didn't eat anything except the soup you brought over yesterday, and he is still hungry."

"Thank God, He is finally willing to eat. Liberty, thank you, thank you so much."

Mrs. Lewis took Liberty's hand and thanked her non-stop.

She felt she had finally made the right decision.

Liberty: "Mrs. Lewis, you're welcome. We all want Mr. Lewis to recover soon."

Mrs. Lewis nodded, but she was very grateful to Liberty in her heart.
