Novel Married at First Sight Chapter 1748 -Trenton, who knew everything, was broken and entangled.

He was still thinking about taking the civil service exam in the future, but he didn't expect that his parents and second sister had committed serious crimes, which cut off his future civil service exams.

The most difficult thing for him to accept was that his biological parents killed the eldest sister's father. They were born to the same mother, but what was the mother's attitude towards the eldest sister?

After knowing the truth, Trenton finally understood why his parents were extremely indifferent to his eldest sister. It turned out that it was because of his second uncle's death.

Trenton felt that it was right for the eldest sister to avenge her father and kill her relatives righteously. Who told his parents to commit a crime?

But those were his biological parents, and it was difficult for him to accept that his elder sister, whom he had always respected, treated his parents like this.

From knowing the truth to now, Trenton had been avoiding Camryn and staying at a classmate's house. No matter how many times Camryn went to him, he never saw her.

Fortunately, he didn't see the Chandler family and the Joyner family either, and he didn't listen to the instigation of those two families.

Trenton was not an unreasonable person, he just couldn't accept such a family change for a while.

When Dalton saw Callum escorting Camryn out, he sneered twice, and muttered: "Why are you pretending to be considerate now, knowing that the girl can't see you, but you still have to ask the girl to send him flowers and food by name."

Camryn refused to listen to him, and insisted on continuing to operate Spring Blossoms, and stayed in the flower shop for a lot of time during the day.

Dalton thought, she was reluctant to close the flower shop. First, she had a good relationship with the two shop assistants. If they closed the shop, they would lose their jobs. Second, she liked flowers and plants. The third point was probably because of Callum.

She liked Callum, but she couldn't pass the test in her heart.

If she wanted to stay away but didn't want to part with it, she would always be entangled.

If she really wanted to stay away, closed the flower shop, was busy with work every day, and went everywhere, how would she have time to wait for Callum to find her?

"Camryn." Dalton got out of the car and went to meet her.

"Second young Master York." Dalton greeted politely.

Callum also politely called him Mr. Da.

Camryn turned her head to Callum, and said in a gentle voice: "Callum, you go back to work, let's go first."

Callum was reluctant, but he could only let her go. He looked at Dalton and said in a low voice: "Mr. Da, my family Camryn will be taken care of by you for the time being. After you finish talking about work matters, call me and I will pick up my family Camryn."

In front of Dalton, Callum specially emphasized, 'My family is Camryn'.

Camryn: "..."

She was too lazy to correct this domineering man.

The correction didn't work either.

Callum's mouth got bigger, and he could say anything he wanted.

Everyone said that Camryn was his fiancée. Even though they weren't married yet, everyone in Wiltspoon knew that she was his fiancée.

No one listened to her explanation and believed her words.

She couldn't do anything about it.

"Second Young Master York, you continue to be such a sc*mbag. The surname of Camryn is Newman; when did she become a member of your york's family? Let's discuss it after your wedding to Camryn."

"When I hold a wedding with Camryn, Mr. Da, I must ask you to be my best man. With the friendship between you and Camryn, you must be very happy to be my best man. Seeing Camryn happily become my best man beautiful bride."
