

Read Novel Married At First Sight Chapter 1940

Married at First Sight Chapter 1940-Much more cunning than his elder brother Zachary.

Kevin's car was parked horizontally at the door of the villa.

Hayden's convoy was forced to stop, unable to drive straight.

Kevin appeared in Hayden's special car, got out of the car, and hugged a large bouquet of roses.

This was different from the bouquet in the morning. This time he used sheets of $100 and $50 denominations, and asked someone to help him make a bouquet of money.

Because Hayden passed on the word, the owner of the flower shop in Jensburg was not allowed to sell roses to him.

Kevin called back to Wildridge Manor for help, and there was no way to arrive so quickly.

But the speed was not that fast, so he had to replace it with a bunch of money first.

What's more, he bought all the roses in the flower shop in the morning, and even the flowers in the flower shops in this city were searched by his people.

People couldn't make up for it.

Kevin leaned against the front of the car, holding the bouquet of cash in both hands, and looked at Hayden's car with a smile.

He was wearing a straight handmade suit and a tie. At this moment, he looked very personable. Well, he had always been very personable.

Hayden was going to attend the dinner tonight, he could be invited to attend, tonight's dinner was naturally very important, and the people attending were rich either.

As Kevin, if he had been in Jensburg, he would definitely have received an invitation letter.

But he was not often in Jensburg.

The host who organized the banquet did not send him an invitation letter, but he went to ask for an invitation letter himself after knowing that Hayden would attend.

So, he would accompany his family, Hayden, to the banquet later.

“Hey, Mr. York, why are you here?” Hugh found Kevin, got out of the car, walked towards Kevin, and greeted Kevin with a smile as he walked.

Hayden in the car: “..”

What if she really wanted to beat her brother up?

She always had a premonition that sooner or later her younger brother would sell her as a real sister.

“I’m here waiting for Mr. Queen. The second young master Queen, you’re also here. Come on, help me see, do I look handsome now?” Kevin had a very good attitude towards his future brother-in-law.

Kevin left the front of the car, stood up straight, and smiled to show Hugh whether he was handsome or not.

Hugh laughed, and praised: “Mr. York, you’re always handsome. I fell in love with you at first sight. Mr. York, you prepared this bouquet of flowers for me. It’s so beautiful.”

As Hugh said, he reached out and wanted to snatch the money from Kevin’s hand.

Kevin pushed his hand away with one hand. His body slid like a loach, and he slid away from Hugh’s side all at once.

“Second Young Master Queen, I’ve said it all, you should be less smelly. I don’t like you, but I like your brother. This bouquet of flowers is for your brother.” Kevin said.

Kevin walked towards Hayden’s special car with the bouquet in his arms.

“Mr. Queen, I have prepared a bouquet of flowers for you. Your brother even praised the bouquet of flowers.”

Kevin held up prepared bouquet of cash to Hayden’s car window as if offering a treasure.

Hayden hadn’t seen clearly that it’s prepared bouquet of cash. She has a dark face.

Which flower shop owner was willing to sell flowers to Kevin even if he was an enemy of her?

She subsidized a sum of money to those flower shop owners.

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-