Married at First Sight Chapter 1955-Hayden replied: "If there is such a day, I will definitely invite you to a wedding banquet and be my best man. Mr. York, remember to prepare a big red envelope."

Kevin laughed, "Don't worry, the big red envelope is invisible for you. I'm afraid that I won't be your best man in this life, but I can be your groom. I will give all the gifts received at the wedding to you. You will treat it as private money."

Seeing Hayden gnashing her teeth in anger and wanting to kick him out of the house, Kevin walked away with a smile.

This trip tonight was not without gain, but it was affirmed that grandma did not cheat him, Hayden was really a woman.

As soon as Kevin left, Hayden slammed the door shut.

She was not in a hurry to go downstairs, so as not to be seen by others that she and Kevin went downstairs together, it would only add to the topic of after-dinner conversation for others.

She sat back on the couch and leaned back against the back of the couch and frowned in thought.

How did Kevin know that she was a woman?

"Ring ring ring..."

The phone rang.

Hayden took out her phone to check the caller ID, it was her mother calling.

It's been a whole day, and her parents only called her at this time. The news was really behind.

Hayden answered her mother's call.

Mrs. Queen: "Hayden, is it true that Kevin publicly said that he wants to pursue you?"

Hayden said indifferently: "Mom, did you know about it now? I thought the whole city knew about it."

"Your dad and I went on a self-driving tour today. We only cared about the scenery and didn't pay attention to the news. We didn't know about it. We only found out what happened after we saw Hugh's video in the group and asked Hugh."

If people who were friendly with the Queen family considered such a large event, the Queen family's parents would be aware.

Besides, in everyone's mind, the most anxious person was not the Queen family's parents, but the York family in Wiltspoon, Kevin's parents.

After all, the bent person was Kevin, not Hayden.

What were Donald and his wife in a hurry?

Hayden murmured in her heart that her parents' hearts were really big.

Probably thinking that she had been disguised as a man and had never encountered such a thing, so her parents didn't pay attention to her private affairs.

All she knew was that she was pursued by many girls.

As long as parents met acquaintances when they went out, they would ask her parents: "What kind of wife does Hayden want to find? We Jensburg's famous daughters are hanging around him, and I haven't seen him choose one."

Every time Hayden's parents came back to tell her, they were persuading her to resume her status as a woman.

She fell out of earshot.

"There is such a thing." Hayden admitted it honestly.

"Is Kevin gay? You are still a man, and he actually pursues you openly. Fortunately, your dad and I always wanted him to be our son-in-law. I didn't expect him to be gay, and he almost killed you." Mrs. Queen was overjoyed.

She and her husband almost killed their daughter.

Mrs. Queen: "He's gay, so keep Hugh away from him. What if he couldn't catch you and aimed at Hugh again? Mom knows what's going on with you, but Hugh is different from you. He is only ten minutes younger than you, and he is also twenty-eight years old. He has a lot of confidante, but he doesn't have a formal girlfriend. Mom is still afraid that Kevin will target him, what should I do if he is led astray by Kevin?"

After Hayden was silent, he said in a low voice: "Mom, Kevin questioned that I am not a man."

The phone in Mrs. Queen's hand almost slipped.
