

I'm A Quadrillionaire

Chapter 1995

David took Celeste and the women to bid farewell to Nova. Then, he tore apart the space and left with them.

Celia and others did not feel reluctant to leave the sect at all.

In their hearts, David was everything.

No matter where David went, they would be willing to follow.

They would not be afraid even if they were going to hell.

They were most worried that David would leave without them.

After watching the space crack close, Nova's heart was full of envy while also feeling a little melancholic.

If possible, she also did not want to be the head of the sect who was just a puppet.

Unfortunately, she was not like Celeste.

Celeste was brought back and raised by Reputable Elder Eira since she was a child.

Therefore, Celeste was all alone.

However, the only relationship she had now gave up on her and even tried to kill her.

Of course, she could let go of everything and choose to leave without hesitation.

On the contrary, Nova could not.

She also had her own family.

The Dream family was a great family in the Iridescent Sect.

The entire family's direct and collateral lines consisted of hundreds of thousands of people in total, and Nova was supporting them alone as the head of the sect.

Once she stopped being the head, the Dream family would also suffer a huge blow.

At best, she would no longer be able to take as many resources from the Iridescent Sect.

By then, she would also be condemned by the whole family.

Anyone who lived in this world, regardless of whether they were strong or weak, had the freedom to act independently.

Even so, very few people were completely free to do whatever they wanted.

Even those Sacred Saints standing at the peak were the same, not to mention an ant like her.

Nova sighed.

Then, she turned around and left quickly.

Since David promised he would come to help him explore the secrets in the forbidden area, he would definitely come back when he was free.

If David only had the strength of a True Saint, Nova would be a little worried.

However, she would not need to worry now that he was a Sacred Saint.

No matter how long the four reputable elders lived and how many trump cards they had, it was impossible for them to stop David, the Sacred Saint.

In the face of absolute strength, plans and tricks were meaningless.

David took the women to the Central Sacred Continent, found a relatively remote small trading area, and settled everyone there.

With his partial Pre-Deity strength, no one in Star Kingdom could monitor him and follow him without being discovered when he had his mind power in full force.

Therefore, it was absolutely safe here.

After this, David had work to do.

He would help the Fellowes family solve this life-or-death crisis.

He had promised the Fellowes family, so of course he would do it.

Besides, the Fellowes family helped him a lot.

Without the Fellowes family, David's strength would not have improved so quickly.

Due to all of the reasons above, he could not bring himself to watch the Fellowes family getting wiped out.

If it was not for the fear that Celia and the others might be discovered by the four old women if they stayed in the Iridescent Sect, David would also have let them temporarily stay in the Iridescent Sect.

He would only have picked them up after he was done solving the troubles of the Fellowes family.

However, after hurting the four old women, David did not dare to keep Celia and the others there.

Even if the possibility of them being discovered was very small, he did not dare bet on it.

Just in case.

It would be better to take them away.

During this time, David was also thinking about what he should do in the future.

His strength was at the top of Star Kingdom, and no one was his opponent anymore.

However, his road in Star Kingdom had also come to an end.

If the system could not update, then his strength could not be improved.

If he wanted to move forward, he had to go to a higher civilization.

Only after being exposed to a level 8 or 9 civilization and stimulating the system update could he continue to break through his current rank and reach true Divine Realm.

However, with David's character, he was not so desperate to chase after strength and status.
