

Read Novel Married At First Sight Chapter 2103

Married at First Sight Chapter 2103-Elisa knew that Julian was not sincere to her, and she also came from a wealthy family, her family had plenty of money, and she never lacked those expensive things, so she did not fall into the trap.

As for the gift from Julian, except for the bouquet, Elisa would definitely throw it away, and she piled up all the other things without moving them. She planned to return all the gifts to Julian when she was no longer insane.

Elisa thought, at least she and Remy had to be engaged or married before she and Remy could return the gift to Julian.

Now if she returned the things, Patriarch Bucham would definitely know about this.

Now Patriarch Bucham only wanted to save his oldest son; if he knew that Julian was interested in Elisa, he would definitely come to propose marriage regardless of Elisa's willingness or not.

Julian's actions had already caused Elisa a lot of headaches, if Patriarch Bucham was added, she would really not be able to think about peace.

So, she endured.

Her family was suffering too. Even Remy couldn't help it.

What Remy could do was be doubly nice to Elisa and behave well in front of the Stone family.

Whenever Julian brought other gifts other than the bouquet, Remy would definitely send the same gift to Elisa, so as not to let Julian seize Elisa's heart.

Julian came in soon.

He came in empty-handed, and threw all the gifts he bought to the stone' servants, asking them to help him move things in.

"Hey, there are so many people here, they don't know that I'm coming, so they are waiting for me."

Seeing that everyone was there, Julian smiled boldly. He strode over and saw that there were no empty sofas to sit on.

Remy was sitting opposite Mrs. Stone and her husband.

Julian huddled with him, just for Mrs. Stone and her husband to compare and see who was the better of the two.

Remy stood up with a smile, "Julian, sit down."

After he gave way to Julian, he walked over and sat next to Elisa.

The butler came in with a large bouquet of flowers, while the servants carried large and small bags in their hands.

Soon, the coffee table was full of gifts from Julian.

In addition to Elisa's brand-name bags, clothes, cosmetics, jewelry, etc., there were also two boxes of nutritional products for Mrs. Stone and her husband, and a few sets of small clothes for Elisa's nephew/niece who had not yet come out.

The butler came over with a large bouquet of flowers, but he didn't know whether to give it to his lady.

Seeing the butler's bewildered look, Julian helped him out, got up and walked over, took a large bouquet of flowers from the butler's hand, put them on the coffee table, and said: "The flowers in the flower shop today are very beautiful, I bought a bunch of them."

Mrs. Stone smiled a little far-fetched, she asked: "Why is Julian free to come here today?"

"Oh, don't mention it, I had nothing to do today, and I could have a relaxing weekend at home, but since I opened my eyes, I was met by my dad's monk chanting, and asked me to meet him to help me screen out Girl, see if I react. It's really Monk chanting scriptures, which made me dizzy, gave me a headache, and made me run away.

The main reason is that my dad has supernatural powers and is everywhere. Even if I live in a house under my name, my dad will come to him. He made up his mind to kick me out. I have to go with fate for my illness. When it comes to the right person, it will be cured without injections or medicines."

"If I don't meet the right person, I'll be like this for the rest of my life. I don't care. I've been single for more than 30 years, and I can live a good life without a girlfriend? Sigh, it's Grandma York who killed me." Julian sighed.

Recommended Novels