Chapter 2046

She would not leave until the doubts in her heart were resolved.

If she missed this opportunity, she would be kept in the dark forever.

Her teachers were doing poorly now, and once they recovered, she might not be their opponent even though she was now a Saint.

At that time, she could only be at the mercy of others.

Therefore, this was her only chance.

Lorraine was not just beautiful, but she also had a high IQ since she was a child.

Otherwise, Stan and Clinton, the heirs of the top two prominent families in Capital City, would not be smitten by her and rush to leave after making the ten-year appointment.

At that time, the older generation of Capital City only had two words for Lorraine.

Peerlessly magnificent.

Those two words describe more than just her appearance.

A woman, no matter how beautiful she was, would not be worthy of those words if she was not smart, not even if she was comparable to a fairy.

However, Lorraine was excellent at knowing when to play dumb and when to show her intelligence.

When she joined the Iridescent Sect for the first time and gained the four reputable elders as her teachers, she packaged herself as an inexperienced good girl who was also ignorant and sweet.

She would obey her four teachers and never raise objections.

Now, she felt that the time had come, so she expressed her thoughts without hesitation.

It had to be said that Lorraine's timing was perfect.

Shortly after she parted ways with her four teachers, she followed them in secret.

The four sisters were finally aware of the seriousness of the problem.

'This girl must know something.

'If not, she wouldn't keep disobeying us.'

"Lori, this is the most important place in the Iridescent Sect. Without our permission, no one can come in, including you. I'm ordering you to leave now. This is your last chance, so I hope you'll seize it." Ursa said.

"Lady Ursa, I don't want to leave!" Lorraine's answer was simple and clear. She was still refusing.

"Are you going to disobey your teacher's orders? Do you think you're independent now that you're a Saint? Do you know how you even got to your current realm? The four of us paid a huge price for it. Are you going to repay us like this? Do you want to betray us and anger us?"

After Ursa finished speaking in one breath, she was panting heavily.

Her body was already severely exhausted and now she was very angry with Lorraine.

Therefore, it led to a worsening of her physical condition.

The other three were also staring at Lorraine.

Their eyes were full of disbelief.

They still could not understand how an inexperienced little girl from a low-level civilization got the courage to suddenly confront them openly.

Who gave her the courage?

If their body had recovered and they were not afraid of any accidents, they would have already taken action to subdue Lorraine and throw her into the cold pool for Master to absorb so that their task would be completed.

"Lady Ursa, aren't you blowing this matter out of proportion? I know that everything I have now was bestowed by you four, and I am also very grateful to you, but I am just curious and want to stay to look around in this place. What is so special about this place? How am I disobeying you? How am I betraying you? You can pay so much for me, even at the expense of your own body, but you won't let me stay. Why is that?"

Lorraine withdrew her averting gaze and looked at her teachers, her face showing doubts.

These words stumped the four sisters for a while.
