The Ex-Husband's Revenge Chapter 112

He was also a divorcee without anything remarkable about himself. He was in no way worthy of a goddess as pretty and noble as Iris!

He was satisfied as long as he could stay by Iris's side every day, getting close to her when he got the chance.

He would not dare to dream of anything else!

"Leon, the light's green. Hurry up and start the bike, why are you in a daze for?" Leon heard Iris's beautiful voice.

Leon immediately snapped back to reality and sped up quickly.

Initially, Iris did not realize anything, but as it happened more and more, she quickly realized that something was wrong. Her cheeks suddenly turned red.

"Leon, are you doing this on purpose?!" Iris said angrily.

"Of course not..." Leon's face reddened as well, and there was some guilt in his heart.

It was an accident with Lily.

However, it was difficult to say when it came to Iris. His heart told him not to do it, but his body acted differently. It kept on wanting to slam the brakes at every moment. He could not control it.

"No wonder you insisted on riding your bike, you had ill intentions..." Iris's face was half-red as she forcefully pinched the soft part of Leon's waist.
