

THE CONTRACT MARRIAGE

Chapter 49 Bring Me Along With You

“Hahaha, you are so full of yourself! You live your life, I live my life. Besides, you’ve never loved me. No matter who I marry, isn’t it a relief for you?”

“You appear in front of me every day. Right now, my dream is filled with your shadow! If you are not torturing me, then what are you doing?”

Sarah heard his words and immediately stood up. She looked at him with disdain.

“Haha, you said I am torturing you? Don’t you think you are very funny? You and Vivian even have children. You came back to tell me that I’m torturing you every day?”

“Sarah, I’m sorry...” Seeing that she had gotten angry, Julian quickly slowed down his tone and apologized in a low voice. “I know it’s my fault. I just expressed it wrong. Don’t blame me. I was just a little worried about you...”

“I still have something to do today, what did you want to say to me when you asked me out? If you are fine, I will leave first!” Sarah turned around and was about to leave!

“Sarah, wait a moment!” Julian quickly stood up and strode forward to grab her.

Sarah threw him away in disgust. “Don’t touch me!”

“Okay! I won’t touch you! Sarah my Brother is going back to the army tomorrow. I asked you out to ask if you would go with him?” Julian immediately withdraw his hand and nervously stared at her as he asked.

“That’s between him and me. It has nothing to do with you! Since you have nothing else to do, I'll be leaving!"

"Sarah, I am sorry! I know what I did before was very bad. Last night, I shouldn't have done that to you. I swear I will change in the future. I will treat you as my sister-in-law, but I hope you don't follow him to the army. Okay?" Worried that she would go to the army with Christian in a fit of anger, Julian humbly begged her.

"Okay, I will think about it!"

"Sarah, you absolutely cannot go! What are you going to do with him? He can't even go to the bathroom alone. Do you have to serve him everyday? This is a lifetimes' work. You are only 24 years old. You shouldn't have such a life, do you understand?"

Sarah looked at him with a cold smile. "Then tell me, what kind of life should I have?”

Julian heard her words and held her shoulder both of his hands.

“As long as you don’t leave Cooper Family, don’t follow him to the army, I can give you happiness! I can make you a real woman! You can also get everything you want! Alright?”

“How can you make me a real woman? Do you want me to go to your room at night, or do you want me to come to my room?”

“As long as you are willing, I can buy you a house outside. Sarah, I have already thought about it...”

“Shut up!” She really did not want to hear him. “Julian listen up! It is fine if you are filthy. Don’t think that other people are also so lowly. I don’t know why I liked such a shameless bastard like you back then!”

“Don’t you want to know if I am leaving with Christian? Then I will tell you now! Tomorrow morning, I will go to the army with him! Even if he can’t stand up for the rest of the life, I don’t care! From now on, if you say such shameless words in front of me again, don’t blame me for exposing your lies to Grandpa and Dad!”

Sarah finished speaking angrily. She turned around and jogged back to the villa.

“Sarah, you will regret it!”

Julian looked at her back and shouted. Seeing her back getting further and further away, he angrily picked up a stone and threw it into the sea.

His phone suddenly rang at this time. He thought it was Sarah. He could not wait to answer the phone and put it beside his ear. “Sarah, Do you regret it again?”

“What are you talking about? Sarah? Julian!” Vivian, who was on the other side, couldn’t help but frown when she heard his words.

“Vivian, it’s you. I thought it was someone else...” Hearing that it was not Sarah, Julian immediately changed his tone.

“Julian, did you just say Sarah? Were you with her these few days?” The “Sarah” that Julian said made Vivian a little nervous.

“I wanted to persuade her to leave my Big Brother, but she did not agree. In the end, you call me. I thought it was her!” Julian explained.

“Then why didn’t you come yesterday?” Vivian still did not believe his words. Ever since Christian and Sarah’s wedding, he had never appeared. This made her somewhat uneasy.

“I am busy preparing my Brother’s wedding. You know about this!”

“This is your Brother’s wedding, not yours! If you don’t have time during the day, what about at night? Why didn’t you come at night? Don’t want me and the child anymore?” Vivian could not help but cry.

“Vivian, don’t cry. I have been too busy recently. You wait, I will go and see you right away!” Julian stood up and walked to his car as he spoke.

“Julian, let me tell you, if you do something that is against me, I will take the child and jump off the building!”

“My dear, I have been busy these two days. Wait for me, I will go over immediately!”

“Then hurry up!”

“Okay!”

Worried that Vivian would become suspicious because of Sarah’s matter, Julian rushed over and bought a bouquet of roses. He quickly went to the apartment.

When Vivian saw the roses, she instantly smiled. It seemed that this man still attached importance to her.

“Vivi, you really misunderstood. I have nothing to do with her!” Julian walked over and put his arm around her shoulder. He sat down and stroked her belly. “If you cry, wouldn’t our child be hurt? Sarah is now my sister-in-law. I only want to chase her out of Cooper family. Why would I have anything to do with her? Don't you think so?"

Vivian thought what he said made sense. She leaned in his arms and nodded. "Yes, then what did she say?"

"Of course, she did not agree. I really don't know what she was thinking. Even if they got married, with that cripple's body, he can't even go to the bathroom alone. Tell me, isn't she looking for trouble?" Julian felt it was unbelievable why Sarah was so persistent.

"Your Brother doesn't have a good temper. She insisted on marrying him. I think, they just want to see the two of us make a fool of ourselves!" When Vivian thought of Sarah's identity, she could not help but feel angry.

“They want to see us make a fool of ourselves? What kind of joke can we make?”

Vivian poked Julian’s head angrily. “Think about it. They hold a wedding. Although I am pregnant, I never entered the Cooper Family. If I don’t marry into the Cooper Family, they will laugh at you. Your father had such a good impression of her. We are already married, but he still won’t let me into your family. We’re jokes. Julian, I have always believed in your ability to do things in your family.”

Julian immediately comforted her. “My Brother will leave early tomorrow morning. He will only be back in three months when he goes to the army this time, so we have plenty of changes. My dear, bear with it a little longer.”

“Really?” This news was really good for her. Vivian had a surprised smile on her face.

“Of course it’s true! Don’t worry, I definitely won’t let my son wander outside.” Julian kissed Vivian’s forehead. A complicated light flashed through his eyes.

“Great! Then I will wait for your good news!” Vivian moved closer to his lips and kissed him. The two of them looked at each other and smiled.

“What ara you talking about? Sarah? Julian!” Vivian, who was on tha othar sida, couldn’t halp but frown whan sha haard his words.

“Vivian, it’s you. I thought it was somaona alsa...” Haaring that it was not Sarah, Julian immadiatally changad his tona.

“Julian, did you just say Sarah? Wara you with har thasa faw days?” Tha “Sarah” that Julian said mada Vivian a littla narvous.

“I wanted to persuade her to leave my Big Brother, but she did not agree. In the end, you call me. I thought it was her!” Julian explained.

“Then why didn’t you come yesterday?” Vivian still did not believe his words. Ever since Christian and Sarah’s wedding, he had never appeared. This made her somewhat uneasy.

“I am busy preparing my Brother’s wedding. You know about this!”

“This is your Brother’s wedding, not yours! If you don’t have time during the day, what about at night? Why didn’t you come at night? Don’t want me and the child anymore?” Vivian could not help but cry.

“Vivian, don’t cry. I have been too busy recently. You wait, I will go and see you right away!” Julian stood up and walkad to his car as ha spoka.

“Julian, lat ma tall you, if you do somathing that is against ma, I will taka tha child and jump off tha building!”

“My daar, I hava baan busy thasa two days. Wait for ma, I will go ovar immadiatally!”

“Than hurry up!”

“Okay!”

Worriad that Vivian would bacoma suspicious bacausa of Sarah’s mattar, Julian rushad ovar and bought a bouquat of rosas. Ha quickly want to tha apartmant.

Whan Vivian saw tha rosas, sha instantly smilad. It saamad that this man still attachad importanca to har.

“Vivi, you raally misundarstood. I hava nothing to do with har!” Julian walkad ovar and put his arm around har shouldar. Ha sat down an strokad har bally. “If you cry, wouldn’t our child ba hurt? Sarah is now my sistar-in-law. I only want to chasa har out of Coopar family. Why would I hava anything to do with har? Don’t you think so?”

Vivian thought what ha said mada sansa. Sha laanad in his arms and noddad. “Yas, than what did sha say?”

“Of coursa, sha did not agraa. I raally don’t know what sha was thinking. Evan if thay got marriad, with that crippla’s body, ha can’t avan go to tha bathroom alona. Tall ma, isn’t sha looking for troubla?” Julian falt it was unbaliavabla why Sarah was so parsistant.

“Your Brothar doasn’t hava a good tampar. Sha insistad on marrying him. I think, thay just want to saa tha two of us maka a fool of oursalvas!” Whan Vivian thought of Sarah’s idantity, sha could not halp but faal angry.

“Thay want to saa us maka a fool of oursalvas? What kind of joka can wa maka?”

Vivian pokad Julian’s haad angrily. “Think about it. Thay hold a wadding. Although I am pragnant, I navar antarad tha Coopar Family. If I don’t marry into tha Coopar Family, thay will laugh at you. Your fathar had such a good imprassion of har. Wa ara alraady marriad, but ha still won’t lat ma into your family. Wa’ra jokas. Julian, I hava always baliavad in your ability to do things in your family.”

Julian immadiatally comfortad har. “My Brothar will laava aarly tomorrow morning. Ha will only ba back in thraa months whan ha goas to tha army this tima, so wa hava plenty of changas. My daar, baar with it a littla longar.”

“Raally?” This naws was raally good for har. Vivian had a surprisad smila on har faca.

“Of coursa it’s trua! Don’t worry, I dafinitely won’t lat my son wandar outsida.” Julian kissad Vivian’s forahaad. A complicatad light flashad through his ayas.

“Graat! Than I will wait for your good naws!” Vivian movad closar to his lips and kissad him. Tha two of tham lookad at aach othar and smilad.

Sarah angrily returned to Cooper Family Villa. When she walked into the living room, Daphne just came with a plate of fruits. When she saw Sarah, she immediately smiled and greeted her, “Sarah, this fruit is imported from overseas. Quickly come and try it!”

“Aunt, you eat it. I will go and see Christian first...”

Sarah was not in the mood right now. She smiled apologetically at mother-in-law and walked into Christian’s study.

Daphne looked at her back and pouted. “Isn’t he a paralyzed person? What is there to see about him?” After saying that, she twisted her waist and went to the sofa to eat by herself.

When Sarah opened the door, she saw Christian looking at the computer attentively. She stood at the door and hesitated for a moment.

“Come in...” Christian looked up at her and put the mouse aside.

Sarah nodded slightly and walked into the study to close the door. She walked to the sofa and sat down, as if she had something to say.

“What do you want to say?” Christian remotely controlled the wheelchair to stop beside her.

Sarah slightly pursed her lips and looked at him as she slowly spoke.

“Can I really go with you to the army?”

Hearing her words, Christian could not help but smile.

“Of course! I have said it before, as long as you are willing!”

“Do we have to stay in the army for three months?”

“Of course not! If you want to come back first, you can come back at any time. I will arrange for someone to send you back.”

Sarah silently looked at him and lowered her eyelids.

“Then bring me along tomorrow...”

After Christian heard her words, his eyes flashed and he nodded. “Okay!”

“Then does the agreement between us still count?”

Sarah was somewhat worried.

“Of course!” Knowing that she still had some concerns, he said slowly, “Three months. You can’t possibly stay in your house all the time. If you don’t come with me, you definitely won’t stay here either. There are many military wives in the army. You can talk to them. You can also go online and learn something in the army. Three months will quickly pass.”

Sarah nodded and looked at him. “I want to go back to my mother’s house and also want to find Kendall...”

Christian looked at her and controlled his wheelchair to the front of the desk. He picked up the phone and dialed Jayson’s number, telling him to be Sarah’s driver for the whole day.

Seeing him hang up the phone, Sarah looked at him and said with some embarrassment. “Actually, I can take the car myself.”

She really did not want to trouble others, but she was still grateful that he thought of her so well.

“Jayson is fine anyway. Go.” Christian said and then went back to his desk.

“Then I will go.”

“Okay.”

Sarah went to her room and picked up her bag. She greeted her mother-in-law, got into the car and left the villa.

The moment she stepped out of the villa, she immediately took out her phone and called Kendall. The two of them arranged a meeting place and Sarah immediately told Jayson to send her over.

The meeting place was a tea shop in the pedestrian street in which they usually meet.

“Sarah, I found that your current clothing taste has increased by more than one level. You are too beautiful now!” Kendall looked at Sarah’s attire and sincerely felt happy for her.

Sarah smiled in embarrassment. “These cloths were all bought by Regimental Commander Cooper!”
