

THE CONTRACT MARRIAGE

Chapter 171 Why Are You At His Home?

Sarah stopped a taxi by the side of the road and reported the location of City S. The taxi quickly started and left the city.

When Sarah returned home, it was already past one o'clock in the afternoon. She directly went back to her mother's home. In her current state, she really did not have the courage to stay in Villa of Cooper Family.

Fortunately, today was the weekend, so she did not need to explain anything to her mother.

When the door opened, Samantha looked at her daughter's expression and felt that something was wrong.

"Sarah, what happened to you these two days?"

Because when Sarah left yesterday morning, she said that she would return to the Cooper Family at night, so Samantha did not think too much about it. Only when she saw her daughter now, she realized that her daughter looked a little tired.

"Mom, I want to go and sleep. The feeling of being pregnant is very uncomfortable." Luckily she was pregnant now and could use this as a cover.

Otherwise, Sarah really did not know what to say to her mother.

Her heart was stifled and uncomfortable, but she didn't want her mother to worry about her. So she could only hide in the bedroom by herself.

"Have you had lunch?" Samantha was experienced and naturally understood the pain of pregnancy. For some women, it might not be a big deal, but for some sensitive women, pregnancy was very painful.

"I ate. . ." After taking a taxi all the way, she did not eat anything. She knew that she could not do this when she was pregnant, but now she really could not eat anything.

If she and Christian really ended like this, what would happen to their child?

"Okay, then quickly go and rest. Have a good sleep." Seeing her daughter's exhausted expression, Samantha immediately followed her daughter into the room with heartache. She let her lie down on the bed and helped her daughter cover the quilt. Seeing her daughter close her eyes, she then walked out of the bedroom and casually closed the door of the room.

The moment the door closed, a tear slid down Sarah's eyes. . .

She really wanted to cry out loud but she did not dare to let her mother hear it. So she could only shrink her body into the blanket and keep sobbing. After crying for an unknown amount of time, she finally fell asleep amidst her non-stop sobbing.

These two days to her, whether it was her body or her heart, they both caused her to suffer pain and torment. She had been looking forward to seeing him, to ask him, to believe him. However, when she heard that Christian was going to be transferred away, she was in complete despair.

But what Sarah didn't know was, at the same time she sat in the taxi, an army green off-road vehicle quickly turned on the road up the mountain and sped away.

The person sitting in the car was Christian!

Three days ago, he received orders from the military to attend an emergency meeting, so he left the army. Because the meeting involved military secrets, in these three days, the phones of all the people who participated in the meeting were temporarily turned over and were only returned to the individuals after the meeting ended.

After today's meeting ended, he took the phone to see if there were any calls from his family inside. But after taking a look, he found out that his phone was out of battery and had already turned off automatically.

The off-road vehicle quickly entered the army. Christian went straight to his office because he had some tasks to assign. Fortunately, there was a phone charger in the office. He charged his phone and then went to assign tasks to his subordinates.

In the end, when he was off work, it was night time. When he took his phone home, he realized that Sarah had called him a lot. He immediately picked it up and dialed back, but when he called, he found that her phone was turned off.

Christian put away the phone and wanted to put it in his pocket. However, he found that the notifications and messages in the phone were still ringing nonstop. One by one, until he went home, they were still ringing.

He opened the messages he received one by one and found that all the phones were from Sarah alone.

Worried that something had happened to his wife, Christian immediately called the villa. After the call went through, the one who answered the call was Daphne. After asking a few questions, he found out that his little wife had been staying at her mother's house for the past two days. Christian heaved a sigh of relief in his heart and after ending the call, he quickly called his mother-in-law's house.

"Mom, where's Sarah?" Once the phone was connected, Christian impatiently asked.

"Oh, she's still sleeping. It might be because she is pregnant but she looks a little tired these two days. Should I wake her up now?" Samantha held the earpiece of the landline and looked at the bedroom door.

"No need. Let her sleep for a while more. Mom, when Sarah wakes up, let her call me." When Christian heard that his wife was tired from being pregnant, his hanging heart completely dropped to the ground. As long as his wife was fine, everything would be fine.

"Alright! She will probably wake up soon."

Christian originally wanted to chat with his mother-in-law a little more, but before he could finish, he heard a knock on the door of the living room. He had no choice but to say goodbye to his mother-in-law. He walked over and opened the door of the living room.

When Christian opened the door, he saw Greta standing at the door. Behind her were a few veterans soldier who were his subordinates. They were all holding food in their hands.

"Why are you guys here?" Christian looked at the situation in front of him and asked puzzledly.

Greta looked at him and smiled. "You will be leaving this place in a week. We know that there will be a lot of people sending you off, so the few of us came early. Military Commander Cooper won't mind, right?"

As soon as Greta finished speaking, a male soldier, who was behind her, said with a smile. "Actually, commander is waiting for us. Hurry up and go in!"

Christian looked at them and smiled. He immediately let everyone enter the living room. He called everyone to sit down.

Because all of them were Christian's old subordinates, they often came here to freeload. Therefore, no one was polite. They placed all the things they brought on the table.

Christian saw that it was all some cold dishes but no matter what, they had to eat something warm in this season. Because he was about to leave, this time, he should make some food for everyone no matter what. Thus, he got up and went into the kitchen.

These people did not stop him. Being able to eat commander's food for the last time was also a precious memory for them.

Not long after Christian called, Sarah woke up. Seeing that the sky outside had darkened, she got up and got out of bed. She walked out of the bedroom. No matter how depressed she was, she couldn't let her mother worry about her.

When she walked out of the room, her mother was cooking dinner in the kitchen. Sarah walked over and greeted her mother, preparing to go to the living room to watch television. But before she left, she was stopped by Samantha.

"Sarah, when you were sleeping just now, Christian called back. He said that your phone was turned off, so he called home. He heard that you were sleeping, so he didn't let me disturb you. Call him back."

"Got it!" When Sarah heard that there was finally news of Christian, her spirits were lifted. She did not bother to say anything more to her mother, turned around, and walked towards the sofa.

Her phone had run out of battery in the army. When she returned, she went straight to bed, so she did not charge it. Sarah originally wanted to call Christian through the phone in the living room. But after thinking about it, there were some things that she could not let her mother hear, so she went back to her room.

First, she took out a charger to charge her phone. Then, she pressed the start button. Thinking that she would immediately hear his voice, she excitedly found his number and quickly dialed it.

No matter what she had experienced in the past two days, no matter what Greta said, she still wanted to hear Christian tell her everything. As long as it was what he had said to her, even if it was a lie, she would believe it.

When Sarah called, Christian was cooking in the kitchen. He was very busy, so he absent-mindedly put his phone on the coffee table in the living room. When his phone rang, everyone was chatting excitedly.

Greta saw Christian's phone ring. She silently picked it up and saw that the number on it was Sarah. Her eyes flashed and she looked at the few people on the sofa who did not notice her. She stood up and walked towards the bathroom. As she walked, she pressed the answer button.

"Christian!" When she heard that the phone was finally connected, Sarah could not wait to call out. She wanted to say a lot of things at once, but once she called out his name, her tears fell.

"He's cooking in the kitchen. Is there anything you need from him?" When Greta walked to the middle of the living room, she flashed into the bathroom with her phone and quickly closed the door of the bathroom.

"You. . . Why do you have his phone?" Sarah never would have thought that after she had waited for so long, the sound came from the other end of the phone would actually broke her heart.

At this time, Greta actually held Christian's phone!

"Hehe, look at you asking this question. He's in the kitchen, I'm in the living room. What's so strange about holding his phone?"

"You. . . Why are you at his home?" Sarah's heart broke bit by bit. And now her heart completely turned cold.

"He said that he wanted to personally make dinner for me, so I came. It will probably be too late after dinner. I won't be going back tonight. Is there anything you need from him? I can help you pass on the message when we sleep later!"

Greta's tone was completely like a mistress. Actually, when she came to Christian's house tonight, she also felt uneasy and came with the others. But when she stood at the door and saw the way Christian looking at her, she understood that Sarah did not tell Christian about what happened in the past two days.

Now that she had such a good opportunity, she could not let it go no matter what. There were some opportunities that once grasped, it wouldn't come back again. Perhaps to her, it was the happiness of a lifetime!

"There's no need...!"

Before Sarah could finish her words, a voice that came from the other hand of the phone broke her heart completely.

"Greta, dinner is ready. Come out."

This voice!

This was Christian's voice!

This was the voice which she desperately wanted to hear these two days!

When Greta heard Christian's voice, her hand also trembled. But she adjusted her mood and said with a smile, "He is calling me. If you have something, quickly say it!"

Sarah felt a sharp pain in her heart and did not want to hear this woman's voice again. She quickly retracted her line.

The moment the phone was put down, tears of despair gushed out like a river breaking through a dam!

Greta was still at his place at this time of the day. This kind of thing, was there a need to explain anymore?

If everything was a misunderstanding. . . How could this kind of situation be explained? How could he call her so intimately?

There was no need to explain anything. Greta had already explained everything very well!

Christian was the same as his younger brother!

Perhaps the reason why he chose to marry her was because he wanted to use her to take revenge on Julian. Now that she had lost the value of being used, that was why he was so heartless to her!

If you find any errors (broken links, non-standard content, etc..), Please let us know < report chapter > so we can fix it as soon as possible.

THE CONTRACT MARRIAGE

Chapter 172 | Am Finished With Christian

The phone suddenly rang again.

Sarah picked it up with tears in her eyes. When she saw the colorful letter of Christian in the notification bar, she held onto her last glimmer of hope and opened it to take a look.

However, it was actually a photo taken by Greta in the bathroom!

Seeing the smile of the woman on the phone, Sarah could not take it anymore and raised her hand to fiercely smash the phone onto the ground.

Slap!

The phone hit the floor and made a crisp sound. It instantly broke into pieces.

Sarah laid on the bed and cried loudly.

Samantha, who was cooking in the kitchen, ran over nervously when she heard her daughter crying.

Seeing her daughter crying loudly, she immediately walked to her daughter's side and sat down.

"Sarah! What happened to you? You were still fine just now. Why did you suddenly cry like this?"

"Mom!" Sarah got up from the bed and threw herself into her mother's arms. She hugged her mother and cried loudly again.

In these two days, she had suffered too much. That photo just now had made her completely collapse. The last glimmer of hope in her heart had also been completely torn apart.

Hearing that her daughter was crying so sadly, Samantha hurriedly asked, "Sarah, what exactly happened? Quickly tell Mom!"

Sarah kept shaking her head and did not want to say anything. She did not want to explain anything and just wanted to hug her mother and cry to her heart's content.

"Are you trying to rush me to death? Quickly tell me what happened to you?" Her appearance frightened Samantha. She knew that if it was not a big deal, her daughter would not cry like this.

Samantha pushed her daughter away from her embrace and held her daughter's shoulders tightly as she stared at Sarah and asked, "Quickly tell me. What happened? Is there something wrong with the child in her womb?"

This was the first thing that Samantha thought of.

Sarah shook her head with tears streaming down her face and could not say anything.

"Aiya, you want to rush me to death, don't you? What exactly is going on?" Samantha anxiously asked again.

"Mom. . ." Her throat was choking with pain. She did not know how to open her mouth.

"Quickly say it!"

After crying for a long time, Sarah finally managed to hold back her tears with difficulty. She raised her head and looked at the sadness in her mother's eyes.

"Mom, don't ask anything. Can you let me be alone for a while?"

She didn't want to think about anything right now. She didn't want to explain anything. Even if her mother knew, it was just that there would be one more person who was sad.

"Why do you want to be alone? Even if you want to be alone, you have to explain things clearly to me before being alone!" Her daughter had never been so devastated. How could Samantha leave without listening to her say the reason?

"Mom. . . I am finished with Christian. . ." The moment she said that, her vision turned dark. Sarah rolled her eyes and fell into Samantha's arms.

"Sarah! Sarah! What happened to you? Sarah!" Seeing her daughter, who suddenly fainted after crying this much, Samantha's heart was already on her throat.

Samantha quickly put Sarah on the bed, rushed to the bedside table to bring some water. She then put the water on Sarah's lips and let her drink some water.

Sarah was exhausted these two days by the constant mental torment in addition to her current pregnancy, after crying for a long time, she felt dizzy.

Sarah opened her eyes and looked at her mother who had been frightened. She opened her mouth to say something. But instead of words, what came out of her mouth was loud sobs. She hugged her mother and cried out loud once again.

In the past, she had never known that her feelings for Christian would be so deep. When she thought of the future, she could not control her emotions at all.

Samantha was already scared and now when she saw Sarah again started crying after regaining her senses, she couldn't control her anxiety.

"Sarah! What exactly happened? Why did you say that you are finished with Christian? He just called to ask you about your situation. Aren't you all fine? Why did you become like this in the blink of an eye?"

After speaking, Samantha immediately reached out and pulled Sarah up from the bed. She forcefully brought her daughter into the living room. "There must be some misunderstanding between you two. Call him immediately and ask him about the situation!"

Samantha pressed her daughter onto the sofa beside the landline and then picked up the phone and stuffed it into her daughter's hands. "Call him immediately. I don't believe it! Will he agree to end this with you?"

"Mom. . ." Sarah held the receiver and shook her head powerlessly. If she called now, the person who answered the call might still be that woman. There was no difference whether she called or not.

Samantha looked at her daughter's expression and gloomily took the phone over. She found Christian's number on the phone book and called him.

The phone rang very quickly. However, the phone came was: Hello! The number you have dialed has been turned off!

Samantha heard the voice on the other end of the phone and frowned. She hung up the phone. She felt that she pressed the wrong number and dialed the number again. But this time, the same voice was still heard. She dialed it a few times. In the end, she put down the phone in disappointment.

She looked at her daughter beside her and sighed. "Why is Christian's phone switched off again? Is his phone out of battery?"

Sarah heard her mother's words and sneered while sobbing. "Mom, don't call him again. I already knew it was like this. . ."

After saying that, Sarah stood up and was about to leave when her mother grabbed her hand.

"What happened between you two? Weren't the two of them always fine? How come something happened just in two days?" Samantha could not understand this sudden situation.

"Mom, he married me to take revenge on Julian. Now that he has achieved his goal, I have no use for him anymore. Let's do it this way. . . "

"Impossible! Christian was not that kind of person! Do you all have some misunderstanding?" Samantha did not believe that her son-in-law was the kind of person who would use her daughter. She believed that there must be some misunderstanding between the two of them.

"There might have been in the past, but now there is no more. . . Mom. . . You can have dinner by yourself. I really can't eat it. . ." Sarah stood up after saying that and went back to her bedroom alone.

Samantha originally wanted to say something but when she thought about how Christian's phone could not be called, she could not help but wonder what was going on.

...

Christian quickly stir-fried a few hot dishes and all of them were placed on the table. He called his old subordinates to sit down.

When he called everyone down, he saw Greta was missing. Someone said that she went to the bathroom and didn't come back for a while. So Christian went to call her for dinner.

His transfer order had indeed been issued two days ago. He had been rushing to the military for a meeting these two days. That was why he hadn't had the time to tell Sarah.

Today, seeing his old subordinates come to see him off, he was naturally very happy in his heart. When the dishes were all placed on the table, he even excitedly took out the stored good wine and poured a cup for everyone.

Because he was in a good mood, Christian drank to his heart's content with his subordinates tonight. His alcohol tolerance was not small. Plus, he was in a good mood, so he drank a few more glasses tonight.

When dinner ended, his face was slightly red, and his steps were slightly messy. However, his consciousness was still clear.

When these subordinates left, Greta insisted on staying behind to help him clean up before leaving.

But she was directly rejected by Christian.

He was already married now and had his own wife. He did not want to have anything to do with this woman anymore. If it was not for the special circumstances last time, he definitely would not let her stay overnight.

After sending everyone away, Christian didn't have time to clean up the restaurant. He limped back to the bedroom. After lying on the bed for a while, he suddenly remembered that he had been busy greeting his subordinates and actually forgot to call his wife.

Thinking of this, he propped himself up from the bed and walked to the living room. After looking around for a while, he finally saw his phone on a small cabinet in the living room. He immediately took it and went into the bedroom.

Christian leaned his body against the headboard, picked up his phone and opened it to take a look. He found that none of the calls were from his wife. He looked at the time and felt that it was impossible for Sarah to sleep so early. He found her number and called her.

However, after dialing for a long time, the voice he heard from the other end of the phone was: Hello! The number you have dialed has been turned off!

Christian was stunned for a moment. But when he thought how his wife was now pregnant and must have slept a little earlier than before, so he did not mind.

He put his phone on the bed and went to take a shower first. When he came out of the bathroom, he took his phone and wanted to send a message to Sarah. But after thinking about it, he gave up.

In the next few days, he would be transferred to another city. The army gave him a few days off to go back and take a look at his home. So tomorrow morning, he could go home.

When he thought about the surprise on her face, when he would suddenly appeared in front of her tomorrow, Christian couldn't help but laugh. He didn't know how his son was doing during this period of time.

When he thought about how he would soon become a father, Christian was so excited that he almost couldn't fall asleep. He thought that he would be back to home tomorrow morning and went to the kitchen to tidy up the bowls and chopsticks. Then, he went back to the bedroom.

The next morning, Christian got up and quickly made breakfast. He prepared to drive home right after he finished eating. Halfway through his meal, Jayson came over.

Jayson was also here last night. And today, he would follow Christian back to City S. Christian immediately invited Jayson to have breakfast with him. The two of them sat down.

Jayson had just taken a sip of porridge when he suddenly remembered something. He looked at Christian and reported.

"Oh right, commander, I just ran into the soldier who was standing guard yesterday. He said sister-in-law came to the army to look for you yesterday."

Christian was stunned for a moment, then he smashed the chopsticks down with a bang. He frowned and shouted, "What did you say? Sarah came? Then why didn't I see her?"

"I heard sister-in-law came here the day before yesterday. She stayed here the whole night and waited for you. But when she couldn't find you, she went back yesterday." Jayson answered truthfully.

"Nonsense! Then why didn't anyone tell me?"

"The soldier on duty said that he was busy last night and forgot about this."

Christian heard Jayson's words and stood up from his chair. He quickly walked to the living room, picked up his phone, and called his wife's number. But this time, it was the same as last night, and her phone was still switched off!

He looked at Sarah's number and thought for a while.

He quickly found his mother-in-law's number and dialed it again.

The call was quickly picked up and Samantha answered.

"Hello, who is this?"

"Mom, it's me! Where's Sarah?" Christian asked anxiously.

"Christian? You finally know how to make a phone call?" Samantha asked angrily when she heard Christian's voice.

"Mom, did something happen to Sarah?" From the way Samantha spoke, Christian felt that something was wrong.

"Shouldn't I ask you this? Christian, Sarah is pregnant now. Her eyes were swollen like a ball from crying these two days and she did not eat much. She even fainted from crying last night! Why did you turn off your phone when I called you? What do you want? Did the people of the Wilson Family owe your Cooper Family too much in the previous life? Are we destined to pay your debts in this life?"

The words that her daughter said last night had also dealt a blow to Samantha. Furthermore, she couldn't get through to Christian's phone last night. Now that she finally heard Christian's voice, the anger in her heart instantly rose, and she couldn't help but flare up at him.

If you find any errors (broken links, non-standard content, etc..), Please let us know < report chapter > so we can fix it as soon as possible.

THE CONTRACT MARRIAGE

"Mom, what happened? Why did Sarah faint? Can you tell me what's going on?"

When Christian heard that Sarah actually fainted last night, his expression turned gloomy, as he anxiously walked to the dining room with his phone. He signaled Jayson to stop eating and immediately drove back to City S.

Jayson looked at Christian's expression and understood the matter must be very serious. Without any further delay, he picked up the key and helped Christian lock the door. He brought the car over and drove Christian out of the army.

"How do I know what happened between you two? I wanted to ask you this. Why did Sarah cry so sadly these two days? When I asked her what exactly happened, she only told me that it is over between you two. My Sarah is young. You are eight years older than her. Can't you calm down when you encounter a problem? What did you promise me when you married Sarah?"

"Mom, I'm sorry! It's all my fault. But don't worry, there must be a misunderstanding between Sarah and me!" Christian furrowed his brows and was extremely anxious. However, the person who spoke to him was his mother-in-law. No matter what happened, he had to apologize first.

"I also hope that there is a misunderstanding between the two of you. If there is really something wrong, come back and tell her clearly."

"Mom, I'll rush back today. I've already set off. Can you tell me where Sarah is now? Why can't I get through to her phone?" Christian asked anxiously.

"She hasn't woken up yet. She broke her phone last night." Samantha answered as she looked at her daughter's room. Right after then, she heard a sound coming from inside.

"Then can you let her answer the phone? Let me talk to her first?" When Christian heard that Sarah had broken the phone, he realized that the situation might be more serious than he had imagined. He became nervous again.

Samantha listened to her son-in-law and was silent for a moment. After a while, she nodded. "Wait a moment!"

In fact, she had a good impression of Christian. Moreover, their life after marriage had been very good. Samantha also did not want Sarah and Christian to end just like that.

"Okay!"

Samantha was also angry with Christian, but she also felt that there might be a misunderstanding between the two of them that was not explained clearly.

Putting the earpiece aside, she got up and went to Sarah's bedroom. When she walked in, she saw Sarah had already woken up and was washing up in the bathroom.

Samantha immediately walked to the bathroom door. She looked at her daughter's back and said, "Sarah, Christian called. Come out and answer it. If there's anything, tell him."

Sarah, who was brushing her teeth, heard it was Christian who called and her body froze. She looked up at her face in the mirror. Her eyes were swollen. When she thought about what had happened in the past two days, her eyes darkened and she replied with a hoarse voice. "I don't want to hear his voice!"

Then she continued to brush her teeth stubbornly.

She originally wanted to say too much, but what happened last night broke all her hopes.

The good things of the past no longer existed between them.

Even if she answered his call, what could she do?

Things had already happened. No matter how much he said, he could not change the fact.

Samantha looked at her daughter's back and was silent for a while. She was still somewhat unwilling to give up and advised her daughter, "Sarah, can't you say a few words to him first? I heard what he said just now. There must be some misunderstanding between the two of you!"

Sarah stopped what she was doing and once again replied coldly, "There is no misunderstanding between us! Mom, I really don't want to hear what he wants to say now. Please don't make things difficult for me anymore."

After Sarah finished speaking, she put away her toothbrush and then silently washed her face.

"Sigh, alright! Then I'll go and tell him first." Samantha looked at her daughter's stubborn back and sighed heavily. She turned around and walked out of the bedroom.

She walked to the sofa and picked up the earpiece again and put it beside her ear. "Christian, are you still there?"

"Mom, I am! Where was Sarah? Why didn't she answer the phone?" Christian was a little disappointed when he heard it wasn't his wife's voice.

"She said she doesn't want to hear your voice now. Let her take her time first." Samantha felt helpless when her daughter insisted on not answering the phone.

"I know, Mom. If she doesn't want to answer, it's okay. Don't forget to let her have breakfast this morning. Two days ago, I went to the military for a meeting. I don't know why my phone was turned off. I just heard from Jayson this morning that Sarah came to the army. Mom, there must be some misunderstanding between Sarah and me. You should talk to her about it later. I think I will be home by noon. I'll talk to her face to face, okay?"

When he heard that Sarah didn't want to hear his voice, Christian immediately explained to Samantha.

"Mm, alright! Then be careful on your way."

"Thank you, Mom."

"Sigh, we're all family. I don't have any other thoughts. I only hope that you can live a good life with her. Alright. Enough, I'm hanging up. "

"Goodbye, Mom!"

Not long after Samantha put down the phone, Sarah walked out of the room. Samantha had already prepared breakfast. When she saw her daughter come out, she immediately called her to eat at the dining table.

Sarah also did not refuse. She did not eat anything last night and her body could not take it anymore. She quietly walked to the dining table and sat down. She first picked up the porridge on the table and took a sip.

"Sarah, don't be sad anymore. Christian will come back this afternoon. He said that he went to the military to have a meeting two days ago. His phone was turned off for some reason. I think there must be some misunderstanding between the two of you. When he comes back, you guys can talk about everything. The misunderstanding will be resolved." Seeing her daughter's haggard face, Samantha's heart also felt indescribable discomfort.

Sarah silently nodded her head. After a long while, she replied with a hoarse voice. "Mom, I understand. Let's eat. "

Right now, she did not want to hear Christian's name at all, much less say anything. She didn't even want to think about what she had experienced in the past two days.

To her, that was a form of torture!

Before Greta's incident, she had always felt that she only liked Christian. She had a good impression of him, and had even doubted whether her feelings were love or not.

But the moment she saw Greta's photo on Christian's bed, She finally understood how important he was in her heart. If she did not really put him in her heart. . . She wouldn't have collapsed and fallen into despair like this now!

Love had already quietly settled in her heart before she could understand it.

However, she never would have thought that before she could understand, everything would be completely shattered!

That man did not like her at all!

He even said something that he wanted to spend the rest of his life with her! In the end, she realized that those were all lies!

She used to think that he and Julian were two completely different types of people, but now, she realized that they were bleeding the same kind of blood! So they were the same kind of people!

Misunderstanding?

Hehe, if there was a misunderstanding between them, then what was Greta doing with him last night? Why was he calling her so intimately? And what was up with the picture of her lying on his bed that night?

That was not a misunderstanding. That was the truth!

Even if he came back and asked her to meet him face to face, what could he do?

If she heard and saw, wouldn't she wipe them out one stroke at a time?

Of course not!

Sarah did not speak much from the beginning until the end of the breakfast. Her heart felt like a huge stone was pressing down on it, and she was so stifled that she could not catch her breath. If it was not for the child in her womb, even this breakfast. . . She didn't have the mood to eat anymore.

Samantha knew that her daughter was in a bad mood and did not say anything else.

After breakfast, Samantha saw Sarah's haggard look and advised her not to go to the company to work for the time being. But Sarah still stubbornly left home and drove to the company.

The current her did not want to think about anything. She just wanted to work properly and forget everything!

If she were to stay at home alone, she might break down.

The car slowly drove out of the neighborhood and headed towards the Wilson Group. Sarah looked at the road in front of her with an indifferent expression. Her eyes were clearly staring at the road in front of her, but in her heart. . . She flew away with him.

Because she was distracted, there were a few times on the way when she almost ran into the red light. Fortunately, she was still thinking about the child in her womb. No matter how uncomfortable she felt, she could not joke around with her child!

Child?

Sarah remembered that she had previously thought that the child in her womb was the crystallization of her and Christian's love.

Love?

Now that she thought about it, it was simply ridiculous!

But no matter how she and Christian broke up in the future, the child was a difficult problem that she had to face.

Since everything between her and Christian had ended, why would she keep the child?

Kill the child?

The moment this thought popped up, Sarah was shocked. She shook her head with all her might and immediately made herself give up on this idea.

No matter what happened between her and Christian, no matter what their future was, she would not joke about children. Because this child was not only Christian's, but also hers!

The car finally drove slowly to the square in front of Wilson Group. Sarah parked the car in the square. When she thought about what had happened in the past two days, she started to get distracted again in the car.

Bang, bang, bang!

There was a knocking sound on the window. Sarah turned her head to look and found that it was David. She immediately stopped thinking, picked up the bag, opened the car door, and got out of the car. She closed the car with a bang.

"Mr. David, Good morning." Sarah knew that besides her mother, the person who cared about her the most was David. She didn't want him to worry about her. So when she opened the car door, she looked at David in front of her and forced a smile.

But she wasn't the kind of girl who was good at disguising herself. Sarah originally wanted to smile at him, but the corners of her mouth moved for a long time. That smile was still very stiff.

David looked at Sarah in front of him and frowned. He stood still and looked at her without moving.

"What happened?" They had not seen each other for two days. The cute and pretty girl he liked had completely changed. Her eyes were extremely red and swollen. Although she had only said a few words to him, her voice sounded like she had cried before. Although she was trying her best to hide the pain in her heart and forced out a smile to show him, but that smile was especially dazzling in his eyes.

If you find any errors (broken links, non-standard content, etc..), Please let us know < report chapter > so we can fix it as soon as possible.

THE CONTRACT MARRIAGE

Her smile had always been like the sun in the winter, like the breeze in spring, always giving people a warm feeling. But she in front of him now had completely changed.

Sarah did not expect David to see through her change at first glance. She quickly lowered her head and was about to walk towards the lobby of Wilson Group with the bag.

But before she could take a step, David grabbed her arm.

"Tell me what happened." David's big hand tightly grabbed her arm. Looking at her current appearance, his heart was filled with indescribable pain and discomfort. If she had married him back then, he would never let her suffer any harm.

Sarah forced the corner of her lips again, but she still did not dare to look David in the eyes.

"Mr. David, I have had a cold these two days and I am not feeling well. I am fine. You misunderstood." Sarah said as she pushed David's big hand.

"I have known you for nine years. Do you really think me as a fool? Even if you have caught a cold, you can't be in such a state. Who do you think has a cold and have swollen eyes like yours? You didn't even pull out the car keys when you got off the car. And you say you're fine?"

From the moment she got out of the car, David had been staring at her every move. He looked at the car keys that was still stuck in the keyhole, then looked at her appearance. He instantly knew that she must have encountered something.

David's words hit Sarah's heart. The corner of her mouth twitched, and she swallowed all the grievances in her heart. She held back her tears and said with a choking voice, "Mr. David, don't ask me anymore, okay? I still have work to do. . . "

"Did Christian offend you? Tell me what he did to you." David's big hand did not move. Seeing Sarah like this, how could he be at ease and let her leave?

Sarah shook her head powerlessly. "Mr. David, he did not do anything to me. Can you let me go to work?"

"Since he didn't do anything, why don't you look up at me? Sarah, raise your head and look at me!" David commanded her in a domineering manner.

"Mr. David. . ." Sarah's tears could not help falling. Facing David's question, she really did not know how to answer. She really tried her best, but her tears could not stop falling.

David looked at her tears falling and his heart instantly hurt. He lowered his head to look at her and slowed down his tone. "Sarah, even if I can't be your lover, I am still your best friend, your Mr. David. No matter what happens to you, you can tell me. Do you understand? "

Sarah nodded silently but still did not say anything.

"Then can you tell me what happened between you and Christian now?" From her expression and reaction, David had already guessed that something must have happened between her and Christian, which was why she was so shocked.

"Mr. David, can I tell you in a few days? Don't make things difficult for me anymore, okay?" Sarah finally raised her head and looked at David with tears in her eyes, begging him.

When he saw Sarah's teary eyes, David's heart instantly softened. He sighed and nodded compromising. "Alright. But can you still work in your current state? Why don't you go home? I'll tell the president about work."

Seeing how uncomfortable she was, he was very worried about her body.

"I'm fine. When I get home, I'll think about these things. When I get to work, I don't have to think about anything anymore. . ."

"Okay. . ." David let out a long breath. He reached out and opened Sarah's car again. He helped her remove the car keys and lock the car for her. Then he handed the keys to her and looked at her. "Let's go!"

Sarah put away the car key and nodded silently. She followed David to the lobby of Wilson Group.

Just as the two of them were about to walk up the stairs in front of the company, Syrus's yellow Ferrari quickly drove over from the side of the slope. It stopped in front of the two of them with a squeak. Following closely behind Syrus's car was Jasmine's red Maserati sports car.

The car door quickly opened. Syrus and Jasmine got out of the car almost at the same time. David and Sarah immediately greeted the two of them.

Jasmine looked to be in a good mood today. When her eyes fell on David, there was a bit of ambiguity in her eyes. Seeing David and Sarah walk around the car and walk over, she looked at the two of them half-jokingly. "Are you two coming to work together?"

"I just happened to meet her in the square." Knowing that Sarah did not want to speak, David immediately explained.

Jasmine raised her eyebrows and looked at Sarah who was by the side with her head slightly lowered. She did not care about anything and lifted her chin as she walked towards the company's elevator.

Syrus looked at Sarah beside him and blinked his eyes. Then he smiled and said: "Let's go!" After saying that, he also followed his sister's footsteps.

Because Syrus and Jasmine were there, Sarah and David followed them into the CEO's special elevator.

Sarah was afraid that her two superiors would notice her strange behavior, so she kept her head down and stood behind Syrus. Luckily Syrus kept chatting with Jasmine and did not notice her change. This made her heave a sigh of relief.

The elevator stopped at Syrus's floor. Sarah followed Syrus out of the elevator and walked along the corridor towards the Secret Room. They had just walked a few steps when Syrus suddenly stopped and looked back at her.

"Is there anything wrong in your house?" The girl's eyes were red and swollen. The moment he saw her at the lobby door, he realized something was wrong. But he didn't want to make her feel too awkward. So he pretended not to notice anything.

Sarah immediately shook her head when she heard it.
"No! Thank you, CEO!"

"What's wrong with your eyes? Don't tell me you watch me drive different sports car every day and get jealous to the point of getting eye disease and become like this?"

Seeing that her mood was a little low, Syrus smiled and continued to walk forward jokingly.

"No. . ."

"Then what is going on?" Syrus put his hand in his pocket and walked to the door of his office. He stopped and looked at her. "Come in!"

Sarah heard his words and had no choice but to follow him in. She walked to Syrus's table and stopped. She still did not dare to look up to let him see her eyes.

Syrus sat down in his leather chair and looked at Sarah in front of him. He smiled and said, "Still don't want to tell me?"

"President, I really am fine. . ."

Syrus heard what she said and raised his eyebrows. He crossed his hands on the table and nodded.

"Okay! If you don't say it, it will not be hard for me to do it for you. I have two meetings to attend in a while, so don't follow me."

After saying that, Syrus opened the drawer next to him. He took out a piece of information and placed it in front of her. "Arrange this information according to the time and type. I will use it in the morning the day after tomorrow. Go and do your work."

Sarah immediately nodded and reached out to take the information on the table. She turned around and wanted to leave but was stopped by Syrus again.

"Oh right, wait a moment!"

"President, what is it?"

Syrus looked at her and was silent for a moment. He tapped the table with his finger and after a while, he slowly asked her, "Half a month later is my grandmother's 84th birthday. I have a favor to ask of you, is that okay?"

"Go ahead, President."

"Can you attend my grandmother's birthday?"

"Sure."

How could she refuse such a thing? She just couldn't understand why Syrus would make such a request to her.

Sarah looked at him and asked in confusion. "Is it because I am your secretary or is there any other reason for me to go?"

Syrus blinked his eyes and answered frankly, "For another reason."

"Can you tell me the reason?"

"When you go there, you will definitely understand!"

Sarah nodded her head in understanding. "I understand."

Syrus smiled and waved his hand at her. "Go and do your work."

"Yes."

...

It was Jasmine's birthday the night before yesterday.

Looking at David's attitude towards her that night, Jasmine originally thought that he would not appear in the company the next day.

But she did not expect that he would still come to work like usual these two days. This made her very happy in her heart.

When the two of them walked out of the elevator, Jasmine let him into her office. When she walked to the center of the room, she turned around and saw David closing the office door and walking towards her. She smiled faintly and looked at him with a bit of scrutiny.

"Do you have any instructions, Vice President?" David walked over and stopped in front of her. He looked at her and asked slowly.

"Do you have to call me that?" This kind of address made her feel a little depressed.

"We're at the company now."

Jasmine heard his words and smiled helplessly. "Did I always hurt others when I spoke in the past, so now I have to face retribution?"

"Vice President is thinking too much. I did not mean that."

"You also know that sometimes your words hurt people?"

Jasmine looked at him and smiled.

"What should we do? My family likes you very much."
Jasmine looked at him very directly.

Although David was an assistant, in front of her family the night before yesterday, his every move was seen by the people of Wilson Family, especially Jasmine's father, Joseph. He felt that David was a very calm young man.

"Is that so? Thank you." David heard Jasmine's words and smiled faintly. In fact, he only saw Jasmine as a good superior. As for other matters, he really did not think about it.

After experiencing Sarah and Mila's matter, he only wanted to do his career well now. As for other matters, he did not want to think too much about them for the time being.

"My dad wants to talk to you alone." Jasmine went straight to the point again.

"Chairman?" David was slightly stunned.

"Yes!"

"Vice President, I want to clarify with you again."
David really did not want to deepen the misunderstanding between them, but he was interrupted by Jasmine's words before he could finish his sentence.

"He is waiting for you in his office. No matter what you want to clarify with me, go and meet him first."

If you find any errors (broken links, non-standard content, etc..), Please let us know < report chapter > so we can fix it as soon as possible.

THE CONTRACT MARRIAGE

Chapter 175 You Are The Person She Likes The Mos

Actually as a smart person Jasmine knew what he wanted to say. So not giving him a chance to speak, she turned around and walked towards her leather chair.

When she sat down in front of the boss's table, seeing the silent David, she waved her hand again. "Go quickly. I will be waiting for you here. If you have something to say, come back and tell me."

David looked at her and hesitated for a moment. After a moment, he nodded and walked out of Jasmine's office. He took the elevator to the chairman's office.

As an employee of Wilson Group, David had been working in the company for a while. However, this was the first time he had been alone with Joseph. He had only been following Jasmine before. So he felt somewhat awkward when it came to her father.

In fact, he had heard some things about Joseph in the newspapers and the news. He knew that Joseph was very capable when it came to managing a company. His life was also very legendary. It was just that in the past two years, he had grown older and older. He had already started to retreat behind the scenes.

David had always admired this person, but he had never had the chance to be alone with him. But he had never thought that Joseph himself would actually take the initiative to request to see him.

When David walked out of the elevator and walked to the secretariat room, Joseph's secretary told him that the chairman was waiting for him. The secretary opened the office door for David and watched him walk in. He then gently closed the door of the room.

Joseph was sitting on the boss's desk and leaning against the leather chair. He had basically handed over the company's matters to his son and daughter, so even if he came to the company now, he rarely dealt with work matters.

As soon as David walked in, Joseph looked at the young man and nodded with a smile. He gestured for David to sit down in front of his table.

"Thank you, Chairman. I can just stand there."

Joseph smiled and looked at him as he stood up from the leather chair. He walked slowly to the sofa and asked David to sit down with him.

David knew that it would not be good if he refused again, so he nodded and sat on the sofa beside Joseph. He looked at Joseph and asked respectfully, "Chairman specifically asked me to come here. Is there something you need?"

Joseph smiled. "I wanted to talk to you about a few things, so I called you here. You wouldn't mind, would you?"

"I've seen the chairman in magazines and TV shows before. I've also heard some of your legendary experiences. It's my honor to have the opportunity to be alone with the chairman today. How could I mind?"

"Haha! I have always thought that you are a person who does not know how to flatter others. Now it seems that you are not."

David immediately replied respectfully, "I only said what I felt from the bottom of my heart."

"Haha! Good! How about I tell you something from the bottom of my heart today?" Joseph smiled and nodded.

"Chairman, please speak."

"Okay! Then I will speak frankly." Joseph nodded and looked at David as he went straight to the point.

"I have three daughters. My elder daughter and the younger daughter are married. I am not worried about my son, Syrus. But among these children, the one I'm most worried about is my second daughter, Jasmine. Because her personality is too strong, sometimes she also appears too domineering. So many boys who liked her at the beginning, after getting along for a while, many of them could not stand her personality. So her marriage had been delayed until now."

"The reason why I called you here today. . . Because you are the person she likes the most. Before I called you here to see me, I also understood some things about you. As well as my previous relationship experiences, although I also know that I shouldn't interfere in this sort of thing and the matters of you young people should be settled by yourselves, but I don't want my daughter to regret it for the rest of her life. So today, I wanted to call you over to ask about your true thoughts. I hope you don't mind. Can you tell me what you think of Jasmine?"

David listened to Joseph and thought for a while. He then looked at Joseph sincerely and said, "Thank you, chairman, for saying these things to me. I have been with Jasmine during this period of time. I know she is a good boss. Although she has a strong personality, she can always find the potential of her subordinates. To be able to accurately find your weakness can also bring out your strengths. I really have nothing to say to her in terms of work. But in terms of feelings. . . "

David paused for a moment, then he looked up at Joseph and continued, "Since the chairman said that he knew something about me, I will tell the chairman the truth today. I have not thought about the relationship for the time being. I hope the chairman can forgive me."

"Have you thought about it? If you agree to date Jasmine, you don't have to worry about anything for the rest of your life. I don't think many ambitious young men will give up such a good opportunity so easily. If you leave the Wilson Group in the future, won't you regret your decision today?" Joseph looked at David and asked slowly.

David smiled when he heard what Joseph said. "I will work hard for my career. If I try my best but fail, it only means that there is something wrong with my fate. No one can blame me. But if just for the fact that I do not have to worry about food and clothing in the future, I go out with Jasmine, not to mention others will look at me with colored glasses, even I will look down on myself!"

"Then what you mean is that it will never be possible between you and Jasmine? Can't you give her a chance?" Joseph listened to him and appreciated this young man even more.

"I don't dare to say something too absolute because no one can say anything about relationships. I just hope that the two of us can go with fate. . ." David answered truthfully.

Joseph smiled and nodded. "Okay! I understand. Thank you for saying these things to me. I hope it will not affect your relationship with Jasmine. You can go back now."

David immediately stood up and nodded respectfully at Joseph. "I will be leaving first."

Joseph smiled and nodded. He watched David walk out of the office slowly and then close the door. A satisfied smile appeared on his face.

...

Although Sarah kept trying to make herself forget about Greta in the entire morning, she was still a little absent-minded at work. There were several times when she made mistakes in the statistics. Fortunately, she rechecked the data over and over again so she found about the problems.

It was almost noon. She received a call from David and he asked her out for lunch.

Sarah knew that David was worried about her. And with his personality, if she refused to have lunch with him, he would definitely find her, so she nodded and agreed.

After 12 o'clock in the afternoon, Sarah took her bag and took the elevator to the company's lobby. When she walked out of the elevator, she saw David waiting for her not far away. She immediately lifted her foot and walked over.

"Mr. David!" When she saw David in front of her, her mood became much better.

"Let's go eat today. Just treat it as going for a walk with me, is that okay?"

"Okay, okay!" Of course, Sarah was happy to go with him.

David nodded and looked at her thoughtfully. He took her out of the square in front of Wilson Group, turned on the sidewalk, and walked forward.

"By the way, why didn't you come to the company the day before yesterday?" David asked as they walked forward.

"I didn't feel well, so I took a leave of absence." Sarah did not want him to worry about her, so she looked at the building not far away and lied.

David heard her words and smiled. "Actually, you have never been good at lying since you were young. Do you know why?"

Sarah shook her head guiltily.

"Because people say that the eyes are the windows to the soul. When lying, the eyes will keep dodging. Your eyes are like this now. . ." David looked at her as he spoke.

Sarah pursed her lips and looked at the road in front of her. For a moment, she did not know how to answer his words.

"Did Christian do something to let you down?" There must be no other person besides Christian who could make her so sad.

"No," Sarah said quietly.

"Then something happened at home?"

Sarah shook her head again.

David grabbed her arm and asked her to stop. "Sarah, no matter what, I am your Mr. David. Do you really not believe me?"

"No, Mr. David. I am just a little confused right now. Give me two days. I will tell you in two days." Sarah looked up at David and begged. She really did not know where to start about the matter between her and Christian. Her mind was in a mess. She just wanted to think quietly by herself.

David looked at her in silence. After a while, he nodded in agreement. "Okay! Then let's go eat lunch now."

"Okay. . ."

Knowing that Sarah would not take the initiative to tell him for a while, David did not continue asking. The two of them went to have lunch.

Although Sarah felt uncomfortable, she still managed to eat a little. It was not for anything else. It was only for the innocent child in her womb.

After lunch, the two of them walked back to the company. When they were almost at the company, David, who had been silent the whole time, blocked her way.

"Mr. David, what's wrong?" Sarah looked at David, who was blocking her way and looked up at him.

"What do you think? When we were eating, I was afraid that you wouldn't be able to eat, so I didn't ask you anymore. Now tell me, what did Christian do to make you so sad? Sarah, if you don't tell me today, then I will go directly to Christian's troops. As long as I want to find him, I will definitely be able to find him!"

Sarah heard what David said and blinked her big eyes. "So what if you find him? The relationship between me and him is already over."

Sarah's words made David frown in disbelief. He reached out and grabbed her arms. He stared at her and asked, "Is it over? Why is it over? Tell me quickly, what happened between you two?"

His guess was right. She was so sad because of Christian.

If you find any errors (broken links, non-standard content, etc..), Please let us know < report chapter > so we can fix it as soon as possible.

THE CONTRACT MARRIAGE

Chapter 176 I Have To Show You Something First

Sarah shook her head sadly. "Mr. David, there are some things that I can't change even if I tell you. I only hope to end it with him as soon as possible."

"Okay! Since that is the case, I will tell you now. If you really end things with him, I will still wait for you."

"Mr. David. . ." Sarah did not expect David to say such words to her. She looked at David in front of her and her heart was filled with mixed feelings.

David looked at her and smiled. He suddenly reached out and held her in his arms. "Sarah, I said that no matter when, as long as you turn around, I will wait for you."

Listening to his warm words, the grievance in Sarah's heart surged up to her heart and tears also flowed out.

At this moment, a military-green off-road vehicle parked on the road beside the two of them. The car door opened with a swoosh and a tall person quickly got out of the car. He stepped beside them in a few steps.

"Let her go!" Christian's familiar voice sounded.

As soon as she heard the voice, Sarah struggled out of David's arms in shock. She looked at the man in front of her and froze on the spot.

He is back!

He is finally back!

Is it time to end everything?

David saw Christian in front of him and his anger rushed to his head. He reached out and pulled Sarah to his back. He stared at Christian, who was in front of him, angrily. "Christian, I let go last time. This time, I will never let go again!"

"Mr. David. . ." Sarah did not expect David to be so agitated. She wanted to walk out, but David stopped her.

"Sarah, didn't you say that you have finished with this person? Don't worry. As long as I am here, no one will hurt you again!"

Christian looked at Sarah behind David and was a little anxious. He wanted to drag her away, but seeing David's angry face and hearing what he said, he was also a little angry. "What does Mr. Brown mean by this? Sarah is my wife. How could I hurt her?"

"Humph! If you didn't hurt her, would she be so sad? What was the state she was in when she decided to be with you? Look at her now! Christian, if this is the happiness you gave her, then you'd better let her go! Return Sarah her freedom, and also return her some happiness!"

"Return her happiness? Heh, David Brown, regardless of whether she is happy or not, this seems to be a matter between us husband and wife. There is some misunderstanding between Sarah and me. Can you not interfere for the time being?" Christian frowned and said.

He then looked at Sarah, who was blocked by David, and called out in pain, "Sarah. . ."

The two of them had only been separated for a few days, but his cute and gentle little wife had completely changed into a different person. At this moment, her face was indescribably haggard, and her large eyes were red and terribly swollen.

What exactly happened in these two days that made her become like this?

"Mr. David, you should let me talk to him alone."

Sarah called softly and helplessly.

David frowned. "Talk about what? Talk about how he hurt you?"

"Mr. Brown, can you calm down a little? I know you have a good relationship with Sarah, but this is between Sarah and me!" Christian looked at David gloomily.

"When you decided to be together, Christian Cooper, what did you promise me? You said you would definitely give her happiness in the future, but did you do it? Look at what she has become now." After David saw Sarah in the morning, he had been very irritated the entire morning. Now that he saw Christian, all his anger had been vented out.

"It seems like you don't want to let go?" Christian looked at David in front of him and frowned slightly.

"Yes! If it wasn't for you, I would never let go! Don't think that you can hurt her just because she marries you! Sarah, let's go!" After saying that, David grabbed Sarah's hand and was about to leave.

"David Brown!" Christian's patience had reached its limit. Looking at his little wife in front of him, his heart was filled with indescribable pain and anxiety. He wanted to drag her over and ask her everything in the next second, but seeing David's persistent look, he had to solve this problem first.

David heard his shout and sneered. "What? Is Regimental Commander Cooper going to get angry?"

"If you insist on taking her away, don't blame me for being impolite!" Christian looked at him angrily.

"Hehe, is that so? Then you can try! I would like to see how powerful Regimental Commander Cooper is!" David listened to him and looked at him without any politeness.

Sarah listened to their conversation and looked at their tense expressions. She threw David's big hand away and took a few steps back to look at David.

"Mr. David, let us settle the matter between us. There are some things, we will have to make things clear sooner or later. Please help me take a leave of absence from the CEO." After saying that, she turned around and walked along the sidewalk without looking back.

"Sarah!" David looked at her stubborn back and called her unwillingly. Seeing that she did not have any reaction, he clenched his big hand tightly.

Christian's eyes darkened. He looked at his wife's back and quickly chased after her.

Sarah kept walking forward and footsteps kept coming from behind. Even after knowing that he was behind her, she did not have any intention of stopping.

"Sarah!" After the two of them walked for about a dozen meters, Christian grabbed her arm.

Sarah's body froze and her footsteps instantly stopped on the spot. Raising her head to look at the road in front of her, everything that she had experienced in the past two days surged into her heart again. She held back the tears in her eyes and looked at the distant sky.

"When do you plan to go with me to settle the divorce procedures?"

Christian frowned slightly when he heard her words, but he also understood that there must be a misunderstanding between the two of them. He reached out and pulled her body over. When he saw that there were tears flowing down her face, he raised his hand and wiped the tears from the corners of her eyes. "Silly girl, why did you suddenly say such things to me? What happened?"

After waiting for two days, she finally saw that familiar face of his and heard him call her so intimately. The grievances in her heart immediately surged up and her tears rolled down uncontrollably. She looked at him with tears in her eyes.

"What happened? Shouldn't I be asking you this? Christian Cooper, since you like Greta so much, why did you still want to break the agreement with me when the three months were up?"

"Greta? What happened to her? Is the matter between us related to her? When did I say that I like her?" Christian was confused by her words. He held her arm tightly and asked.

"Christian, can you not pretend in front of me? Since you are a soldier, then be honest with me!" Listening to what he said, looking at his expression again, she couldn't help but shout at him while crying.

Christian looked at her excited expression and sighed slightly. He knew this was not the place to talk. He looked at her and said slowly, "Sarah, I went to the military for a meeting two days ago. All the phones were turned off. When I got my phone, I realized that the phone was out of battery. When I called you later, I found that your phone was turned off as well. I still don't know why you have become like this. Even if you want to sentence me to death, shouldn't you give me a chance to appeal before that?"

Sarah's heart softened when she heard his words, but she still looked at him with tears in her eyes. "Okay.

Then say it. I will listen."

"Then come back to the apartment with me. We'll talk after we sit down. You're pregnant now. Even if it's for the sake of our child, just listen to me once, okay?"

He slowed down his voice and said.

"Okay." He was right. Even if the two of them really had to get a divorce, she still wanted to hear how he would defend himself.

Hearing that she had agreed to his request, Christian felt slightly relieved in his heart. He held her hand and led her to the car.

Jayson had already quickly opened the car door. Christian let Sarah sit in, then he turned around and sat beside her. Jayson quickly started the car and drove the two of them to Christian's apartment.

Once Christian sat in the car, he grabbed Sarah's hand without saying anything. Sarah struggled for a while, but he did not show any intention of letting go. She turned his head and looked out the window, letting him hold her hand.

Christian put his wife's hand in his palm and gently rubbed it. He looked at her side profile.

Christian recalled the attitude and words she had said to him when he first saw her. He remembered the countless missed calls on his phone. He also remembered the words Jayson said that Sarah had gone to the army to look for him. He felt an unspeakable guilt towards her.

Something big must have happened to make her completely disappointed in him!

But what was the reason?

Why did she say that he liked Greta?

Even if Greta stayed at his house that night, nothing happened, right?

Along the way, Christian could not figure it out.

But he knew that no matter how many problems there were, he had to return home first.

The car drove all the way back to the apartment and stopped in front of Christian's apartment. Sarah opened the car door herself and got out of the car. She walked towards the door of the unit. Christian immediately followed her.

The two of them took the elevator to the floor where Christian lived. Christian opened the door. Sarah walked in first.

Sarah walked to the middle of the living room and turned around to see that Christian had already closed the door. She then looked at him and said coldly, "Alright, now you can tell me about you and Greta."

Christian looked at her silently and grabbed her hand without saying anything. He took her to the stairs. "Before talking about the matter between Greta and me, I have to show you something first!"

"What is more important than Greta? Oh yes, you also have a child with her, right? What's more important than them?" Sarah did not move and looked at him and asked coldly.

Hearing her words, Christian frowned but did not let go of her hand.

"You will know when you see it. Let's go." He brought her up to the second floor after saying that.

In the past when Christian's legs were not good, Sarah had come up to the second floor. At that time, she was even caught by him. After that, she never came again.

Following him, she walked up again. Christian brought her directly to the locked door of the room. He took out the key and opened the door. He then brought her in.

If you find any errors (broken links, non-standard content, etc..), Please let us know < report chapter > so we can fix it as soon as possible.

THE CONTRACT MARRIAGE

Chapter 177 Do You Remember Me?

Sarah had never entered this room before. The room was not big and there was a single bed and a small bookshelf beside it. There was a desk beside the single bed and there were a few old photos on it.

However, those few photos made her eyes locked on it and could not move away.

Christian held her hand and walked to the bedside to sit down. He took one of the photos and put it in front of her. He smiled and said, "This is the second year I was in the army. I stole it from my dad in the photo frame at home. Although this photo is a photo of you and your dad, I stole it when it saw you."

Sarah looked at the photo of herself and her father. She was so excited that she didn't know what to say. She raised her hand and gently caressed the photo. Tears rolled down her face when she saw her father's appearance back then.

"I accidentally lost this photo a long time ago. I didn't expect you to have. . . But why did you take my photo?"

She had been married to him for such a long time. He had never told her about this, and she had never been to this room before.

Christian reached out his hand and wiped the tears from the corner of her eyes. "The year your father passed away, I came back from the army to visit my mother in the cemetery. Actually, I've seen you before, but we basically never talked. That day, I came back from the army in a hurry. I didn't bring anything for my mother. At that time, I met a little girl in the cemetery. She was crying very sadly in front of her father's tombstone. I don't know if she heard what I said but she took a few pieces of desserts and a few chrysanthemums and placed them in front of my mother's gravestone. And she told me to be strong in the future. . ."

Christian stopped and looked at her as he spoke. He caressed her cheek with his large hand. He looked at her with tender eyes. "Silly girl, do you remember me?"

Sarah shook her head. "I forgot. . ." At that time, she was too sad. Even if she had done that kind of thing, she had already forgotten about it.

"But I will never forget it for the rest of my life because the death of my mother had a huge impact on me. In addition, with the addition of a stepmother in the family, very few people care about me. At that time, I recognized who you were at first glance. When you turned around and left, I was thinking. . . If you grow up, I'll take care of you. But at that time, you were already engaged to Julian. . . "

Her heart slowly softened. This was the first time she heard him talk about this. Looking at the photo in front of her, she actually somewhat believed what he said.

"What you said. . . Is true?"

Christian reached out and pulled her into his embrace. "If it's fake, why would I keep these photos here? When you agreed to marry me a few months ago, you don't know how happy I was. But the reason I didn't let you come to this room. . . I originally wanted to give you a surprise on your birthday. Sarah, I wanted to tell you that before you marry me, I already like you."

"In the past, when you were with Julian, I could only look at you from afar. Every time I saw you smile so happily, I felt very gratified. I never thought that there would be a day when. . . You would really come to my side. Say. . . I've liked you for so long, will I easily be with another woman?"

His words instantly reduced the anger in her heart by more than half. But when she thought of Greta's photo, she still felt depressed in her heart. "Even if I believe what you said just now is true, how do you explain Greta's matter?"

"A few days before I went to the military for a meeting, she came to my house one night to look for me. She said that she couldn't find a place to eat, so she went to my place to freeload. You also know that she treated my leg injury before, so she can be considered my benefactor. So I let her stay for dinner. But before dinner starts, she told me that she liked me, so I let her leave. She then walked out the door. I wanted to close the door quickly, but I didn't expect her to suddenly extend her leg to block it. It hurt her leg."

“Later, I said to send her back. She said that her key was lost and the door is new and hard to open. I originally wanted to send her to the guest house, but she said that it wouldn't be good for others to see it at such a late hour. In the end, I had no choice but to let her stay at home for an entire night. I admit that I didn't think it through properly that day, but I slept on the sofa. Sarah, I didn't do anything to her.”

“That day, when I returned to the army after the meeting, because I was going to be transferred, I was busy all the way until night. I wanted to call you, but my phone was out of battery. Then I called mom. She said you were sleeping. I know you're pregnant now and want to let you sleep a little longer. After I called Mom, Greta brought a few of my comrades and brought some things over. She said she wanted to send me off in advance. When I send everyone away, I called you but you turned off your phone. Sarah, this is everything I know in these few days. Until now, I still don't understand why you want to tell me about divorce. Why did you drag Greta into the middle of us?"

"Sarah, I have never thought of doing anything that would let you down. Think about it, if I really like that Greta, why should I keep these photos in this room? I know there must be some misunderstanding between us. Tell me everything that happened in the past two days. Let me know what exactly happened, okay?"

After Sarah heard what he said, she raised her hand to wipe away her tears. She somewhat understood that she might have been tricked by Greta. She looked up and looked down at him as she replied, "She came here specifically to look for me a few days ago and even brought me a photo to take a look. . ."

"What photo?"

"It was taken by her lying on our bedroom bed. She hasn't put on much clothes and your clothes are still on the bed. . . I got anxious when I saw it. . ."

Christian frowned and instantly understood what had happened. He suppressed the anger in his heart and looked at Sarah as he asked, "And then?"

"She told me to leave you, saying that you were already together. She then took out a bullet necklace and showed it to me. The bullet shell was engraved with the name Greta darling. She also told me that she is pregnant and that's why you two got together again."

"Although I was angry that night, I still didn't believe what she said. The next day, I went to the army to look for you. But you weren't there. Greta told me, you left a long time ago. The reason why you turned off your phone was because you didn't want to see me. I tried my best to call you but your phone was turned off. I waited for the whole night then I came back.”

“Then I called you last night. I finally got through, and I wanted to ask you what happened. But she was the one who answered the phone. She said she missed you, so she went to see you at home. She also said that she wouldn't be going home at night. Then I heard you calling her for dinner. Later on, she even took a photo in the bathroom and showed it to me. I got angry when I saw that photo and broke my phone. . .”

After Christian heard Sarah's words, he instantly became angry. He stood up from the bed with a whoosh. "This Greta! I have always treated her as a good person. How could she do such a dirty thing?"

He was really angered to death!

After Christian said that, he did not care about Sarah and quickly went downstairs. Sarah saw his expression and also ran downstairs.

When she went down to the living room, she saw Christian holding his phone and making a call. She nervously walked over and grabbed his phone to look at him. "Who are you calling?"

"Of course it's Greta! Even if she likes me, she is a soldier after all! She should know her current behavior. She has already violated the law. My marriage with you is protected by the law. Anyone who breaks the military marriage will be severely punished! What she did is too disappointing!"

Christian replied angrily. After saying that, he reached out to grab the phone in his wife's hand, but Sarah immediately dodged it.

"Wait a moment!" Sarah became a little nervous when she heard Christian's words.

"Tell me!" Christian looked at his wife and slowed down his tone.

"Then what will you do if you call her and she admits it?"

"Since she admits it, she will definitely be punished!"

"If we pursue her responsibility, what kind of punishment will she receive?"

"As long as I call her, she will definitely be expelled from the military, and even sent to prison!"

"Ah? So serious?" Sarah was scared when she heard Christian's words.

"Of course! This kind of thing seems to be a small matter, but it is actually a big matter! Think about it, if a soldier's marriage is not stable. . . If the morale of the army is unstable, the country will be unstable. She has been doing this since the beginning, even after knowing that she can't do it, this is the most detestable!"

When he thought of what Greta had done, Christian couldn't control his anger.

When Sarah heard Christian say it was so serious, she became afraid. She looked at him and said nervously, "Forget it. Now I know it was just a misunderstanding between us. She only did this because she liked you. Anyway, you will leave in the future. Let this matter pass."

Although she was also angry at Greta's actions, when she thought that Greta would probably go to jail because of this matter, she could not bear to do so.

A girl... If she were to go to jail, wouldn't her future life be completely ruined?

Christian listened to Sarah's words and sighed heavily. He held her hand and walked to the sofa to sit down. He lifted his arms and let her sit on his lap. He gently hugged her waist. Looking at her haggard little face, he first went over and kissed her.

"Let her go like this? Then what about the grievances you've suffered these past two days? You still have our child in your womb. I, Christian Cooper, finally have the chance to become a father in my thirties. What if something happened to our child?"

Christian was a little scared when he thought about it. Fortunately, although his little wife was angry, she did not do anything she did not want to do.

"I'm fine now, right? In any case, I just cried a few times. It wasn't easy for her to make it to the Colonel. If you really let her go to jail, then her life would be completely ruined." She didn't want to do things too extreme. No matter how much Greta went overboard, Sarah couldn't force her into a dead end.

Christian listened to Sarah's words and understood that there were some things that he should take care of. He also could not let her know what he would do to Greta.

Greta's actions were seriously beyond his bottom line, and it's impossible to just let her do whatever she wants. But he knew his little wife was a soft-hearted person. So after listening to her, he looked at her and nodded slightly. "Alright. For the sake of my wife, I won't hold her accountable for now! But wife, even if I won't hold her accountable, shouldn't we discuss holding you responsible now?"

Sarah immediately blinked and looked at him. "Why do you want to punish me? I didn't do anything wrong!"

If you find any errors (broken links, non-standard content, etc..), Please let us know < report chapter > so we can fix it as soon as possible.

THE CONTRACT MARRIAGE

Chapter 178 There Is Nothing Wrong With Fighting Between Husband And Wife

Christian deliberately frowned when he heard her. He rubbed her little hand with his big hand. "You have a big responsibility. Why don't you trust me? Am I such a person that you don't trust in your heart?"

Sarah lowered her head in embarrassment. "That photo was taken on the bed we slept on. How can I trust you?"

"No matter where that photo was taken, did you see me in the photo? Even if you see me in that photo, you must first verify the authenticity of the photo. Although we have known each other for a short period of time, what kind of person am I, I think you should have a judgment in your heart. How could you deny me just because of a few words from Greta and those few photos? It hurts my heart too much. . ."

Sarah was embarrassed by his words and lowered her eyelids. She thought that she had indeed been a little impulsive these two days. After a long silence, she looked up at him and said, "I'm sorry."

Christian held her face and kissed her. He said with some emotion, "Actually, I was wrong too. I knew you called me, so I should have called back to ask about the situation. And the most ridiculous thing was that I shouldn't have kept Greta there. In the end, it was all my fault. I apologize to you. In the future, no matter where or when, I have to draw a clear line between myself and other women. I absolutely can't let the enemy take advantage of this loophole!"

At the end of his words, Christian raised his hand and swore the same thing.

Sarah finally laughed when she heard him. "It is now a peaceful era. Where did the enemy come from?"

Looking at her smile, Christian also grinned. He looked at her and asked slowly, "Are you still angry now?"

"Yes!" Sarah nodded.

Christian raised his eyebrows. "Still angry? Wife, can you reveal some information? Why are you still angry?"

"What's with that necklace?"

"What necklace?"

"It's the one made from bullet shells and bullets, the one made from a cross!" Sarah was still thinking about this.

Christian heard his wife's words and smiled. "Wife, don't say it. I really made one for you. I originally wanted to give you a surprise. But after being disturbed by Greta like this, I think we should forget about it. Next time, I will make you a better one!"

He did make a necklace. He originally wanted to give it to Sara when he came back. However, when he heard about Greta, he had an indescribable feeling in his heart. He would go to new military camp in the future and she would think of this bad experience, every time she saw the necklace.

Sarah heard his words and stretched out her hand in front of him. She then looked at him and blinked.

"What is it?"

"Give it to me."

Christian chuckled and hugged her and kissed her.

"Wife, it's not night yet. I'll give it to you at night, okay?"

Sarah couldn't help but blush when she heard him.

She glared at him angrily. "Disgusting! I didn't mean it that way!"

"Then what do you mean? Your husband is stupid, so he doesn't understand!" Christian interrupted with a smile.

"Give me the necklace you made."

"We don't want it anymore. I'll make another one for you in the future!"

"No! I want that one!"

"Why?"

"Because you made it! Aren't you going to be transferred elsewhere? When you're not around in the future, if I miss you, I'll take a look at the necklace."

Christian listened to her words and hesitated for a moment. After a while, he nodded. "Alright! You don't have to say, I have it with me right now."

Christian took out the necklace from the pocket of his shirt and handed it to Sarah.

Sarah picked it up and looked at it. The necklace was purely handmade. Although it could not be compared to the necklaces sold outside, she could tell at a glance that he had really put in a lot of effort. She held the warhead and turned it for a while. On the shell, she clearly saw two words: Sarah Baby!

Her heart immediately warmed. She handed the necklace to him and looked at him. "Help me put it on!"

"Why don't we just forget about it?" Christian still hesitated.

"Put it!" Sarah looked at him a little coquettishly.

Christian smiled. "Okay! I will put it." After saying that, he put the necklace he made on her's neck and looked at her with a smile.

Sarah looked down at the two words on it and looked at him with warmth in her heart. Thinking about the room upstairs and thinking about how she misunderstood him these two days, he still did not get angry with her. Sarah reached out and wrapped her arms around his neck and kissed him on the lips. She looked into his eyes sincerely. "Hubby, I'm sorry!"

No matter how much she suffered these two days, it was because she did not trust him that Greta took advantage of the loophole. If she had waited a little longer, everything would not have happened!

When Christian heard her words, he was slightly stunned. This was the first time she had heard her call him “Hubby”. It was somewhat unexpected, but at most, it was a pleasant surprise!

"Wife, I didn't hear what you just said. Say it again!" Christian looked at his wife and said with a smile.

"Hubby, sorry!" Sarah looked at his face and shouted again.

Christian's face was filled with joy. He moved closer to his wife and kissed her hard on the lips. "Wife, remember this. You will call me Hubby like this from now on. Do you understand?"

Hearing her call him hubby, his heart felt even sweeter than honey.

Sarah looked at his happy expression and smiled. "Are you that happy?"

Christian heard her and smiled. "Of course! From Christian to Hubby, this was a qualitative leap! It seems like there is nothing wrong with fighting between husband and wife. At the very least, won't the relationship get better and better?"

"If everyone's relationship gets better and better, then many people wouldn't get divorced." Sarah smiled and refuted him.

"I don't care about others. I only hope that we have to trust each other in the future. We can't hurt our relationship because of some unnecessary things, right?"

"En, I'll remember it. . ." Sarah lowered her head like a primary school student.

Christian looked at his wife and smiled. He saw that her big eyes were still red and swollen. His heart ached when he saw her. He thought about how he would not be by her side for the next year. He sighed a little worriedly. "Wife, I'm leaving here in two days. I'm not worried about the others, but I can't let go of you and the child. What should I do?"

Sarah heard his words and felt a little disappointed, but she also understood his identity as a soldier. Most of the time, she could not do anything about it. She looked at him and asked softly, "Are you really going to transfer them away?"

"Yes, the transfer order has been issued. The chief knows that I am newly married, so he gave me a few days of leave. Once the holiday is over, I will be leaving. The new military camp is in province X, about a thousand miles away from here. Because I just went to that place, there must be a lot of things to start from scratch. So in less than a year, I don't think I'll be able to come back a few times, come with me. Okay?"

When he thought about leaving his little wife here alone, he couldn't help but worry.

Sarah heard his words and felt a little uncomfortable in her heart. One year was really too long for her. But if she really wanted to leave with him, she wouldn't be able to let go of her mother either. She could only look at him and reply.

"Forget it. If I leave. . . What about my mother? She was originally so lonely, and every weekend, she would look forward to my return. If I leave, she would be too lonely. Besides, even if I really go with you to the army, my belly will get bigger and bigger, and no one will take care of me when I give birth. So it's better for me to stay at home. Oh right, Will you be back a year after you go there?"

"That depends on the situation, but the current task is one year's time." Christian felt guilty for Sarah when he thought about how long he would be gone.

"Then. . . When I give birth next year, will you come back?" Sarah looked at him with anticipation.

"I will apply for family visit leave, but even if I come back, it is very likely that I will only have one or two days. I will try to buy as much time as possible, okay?"

Sarah lowered her eyelids, "Okay. . ."

As soon as she finished speaking, she heard a scream from his stomach. She then remembered that he had just returned from the army. He must have been worried that he did not even eat on the way, so she looked at Christian. "You must not have eaten yet, right?"

"My wife was so angry, how could I be in the mood to eat? Forget it. I'll just starve. Consider it my punishment this time. Let's see if this Christian Cooper still dares to make such a mistake in the future."

"How can that be? Take me back to my mother's house. Anyway, she must be worried about the two of us right now. We can go back and explain it to her." Sarah stood up from his lap as she spoke and pulled him up from the sofa.

"Okay. I will go wherever my wife says." Christian looked at Sarah and chuckled as he took her away from his apartment.

When the two of them arrived downstairs, Jayson had already finished lunch and returned. Seeing the two of them walk out of the apartment with smiles on their faces, his heart also dropped.

When Christian brought Sarah to the side of the car, seeing Jayson open the car door, he directly bent down to pick up his wife and put her in the car.

Jayson looked at Christian and could not help but smile. He then looked at Sarah, who was a little embarrassed in the car, and smiled. "Sister-in-law, Commander did not even eat breakfast this morning. He did not eat lunch either. Don't you feel bad?"

"Stinking brat!" Christian heard Jayson's words and smiled as he sat beside Sarah.

Sarah looked at him with some heartache. "Why didn't you eat breakfast?"

Christian smiled as he pulled his wife into his arms and replied, "Wife, don't worry about two meals, even if I didn't eat for two days, I would still be fine.

Besides, you definitely didn't eat well and didn't rest well these two days. It's all my fault. It's only right when I don't eat for two days to compensate, right?"

"Even so, you can't skip your meal! Don't do this again in the future! If you go to the new military camp, you have to take care of yourself. Don't forget to eat when you're busy."

"Yes! I will follow my wife's orders!" Christian immediately replied as if he had seen the chief.

Sarah could not help but smile when she saw his expression.

If you find any errors (broken links, non-standard content, etc..), Please let us know < report chapter > so we can fix it as soon as possible.

THE CONTRACT MARRIAGE

"Will Jayson go with you?" Sarah looked at Jayson and asked Christian. If Jayson followed her, she would feel more at ease.

Christian smiled. "Do you really think your husband is a child? Jayson will not go with me. Don't worry. I will have a new operations soldier. You don't have to worry about me. Your biggest task now is to take care of my son. Do you know?"

Christian placed his big hand on his wife's abdomen as he spoke. When he thought about how a new life was being nurtured there, he couldn't describe the excitement in his heart.

"Are you so sure that he must be a son?" Sarah heard his words and smiled as she asked him back.

Christian looked at Jayson in front of him and whispered into his wife's ear, "Believe in your husband's fighting ability. He is definitely a son!"

Sarah heard what he said and could not help smiling at him. She glanced at him and said, "If I give birth to a daughter at that time, I will find you to settle the score!"

Christian heard his wife's words and immediately smiled and kissed her. "It's okay. If it's a daughter, then we will give birth to another one."

"Christian Cooper, you value men over women!" Sarah immediately gave him a blow.

"Wife, I really don't have this. Do you know why I want a son?" Christian held her and asked.

"Because you like little boys!"

"Of course not! A daughter is a mother's considerate little jacket. Actually, it is also very good if we have a daughter. But I want a son because I am not by your side all year long. In the future, when my son grows up, he will be able to protect you. This way, I will be more at ease."

Sarah heard his words and her heart warmed as she looked at him. She understood that he was still worried about her. "Don't worry, I will really be fine."

"Of course you will be fine." Christian smiled and kissed his wife.

The car soon reached Sarah's house. Christian and Sarah went upstairs. When the door opened, Samantha looked at Christian in front of her and then at her daughter's expression. She let the two of them enter the living room.

"Christian, what happened these two days?"

Samantha was still worried about her daughter and son-in-law. Now when she saw Christian, she couldn't help but ask him worriedly.

When Sarah heard her mother ask Christian, she didn't want Samantha to have any misunderstanding about him anymore. Without waiting for Christian to speak, she looked at her mother and replied, "Mom, it's all my fault. I misunderstood him. We are fine now."

"Mom, it's all my fault. It was I who did not communicate with Sarah in time. I made you worry." Christian took the initiative to admit his mistake. Although this was a misunderstanding, it must have made Samantha worry a lot.

When Samantha heard their words, her originally worried heart instantly fell to the ground. She also heaved a sigh of relief. "It's good that it's a misunderstanding! Between husband and wife, there are many times when the relationship breaks up because of a misunderstanding. The two of you usually live separately. It's more important to make a phone call to communicate with each other."

"Christian, you are a man, and you are eight years older than Sarah. If she does not do well, you must tolerate her. Do you know?"

Although her daughter was married, her age was a lot different from Christian's. In terms of handling matters for others, her daughter is definitely not as mature as Christian.

"Mom, don't worry. Something like this will never happen again." Christian immediately promised his mother-in-law.

"Mom, Christian came in a hurry in the morning. He hasn't even had breakfast and lunch yet. Please make some for him!"

Sarah said anxiously. She was not feeling well these two days and coupled with her pregnancy reaction, she did not want to go into the kitchen at all, so she had to let her mother make some.

"Is that so? Then Christian, you sit. I will do it right away." Samantha also felt sorry for her son-in-law when she heard that. She immediately turned around and wanted to go to the kitchen to prepare lunch.

"Mom, let me do it." Christian wanted to do it but was stopped by Samantha.

"You didn't come back for long. It was not easy to resolve the misunderstanding with Sarah, so you should talk with her for a while." Samantha said as she entered the kitchen. No matter what, she did not let her son-in-law take action.

"Thank you, Mom." Christian shouted behind his mother-in-law and then pulled his wife's hand into her bedroom. As soon as he closed the bedroom door, he picked up his wife, strode to the bedside and laid down with her.

They hadn't seen each other for a while, and they had misunderstood each other this time. He realized that he was more and more concerned about his little wife. He looked at her delicate little face, which was still somewhat haggard. He could not help but kiss her face in pain, then raised his head to look at his little wife. "Wife, I really can't bear to leave you!"

Sarah saw his appearance and couldn't help but smile. She also felt reluctant to part with him. She looked at him and blinked. "Your army will definitely have an Internet, right? Can you go online?"

"Of course I can."

"Right, add my WeChat! This way, even if we don't see you in the future, we can still chat on the internet. When the time comes, we can even video chat. Won't you be able to see me often?"

Christian sat up from the bed and sat down in front of his wife's computer. He reached out his hand to start the computer and logged into his WeChat first. He then logged into his wife's computer and personally added the two of them as friends. Only then did he smile at ease.

He turned around and saw his wife sitting by the bed. He walked over and put his arm around her shoulder and suggested: "Wife, since I have a vacation these two days, let's go do something, okay?"

"What is it?" Sarah looked at him and asked.

"We are going to take wedding photos. I still remember what you said before. You only want to wear wedding dresses for the person you love. Wife, let me ask you now. Can you wear a wedding dress for me once?"

Christian's words surprised Sarah. She did not think that she would say those words back then. He actually remembered what she had said in his heart.

Sarah looked at his expectant eyes. She thought of the hardships they had faced back then, and the things that had happened to them now. Tears welled up in her eyes. She reached out and wrapped her arms around his neck and kissed him lightly on the lips. Then she looked at him and nodded heavily.

"Hubby, I am willing!"

Christian's eyes flashed. He held her waist and kissed her hard on the lips. He had missed her for a while, and when he heard what she just said, he kissed her crazily. The passion and craziness were so strong that he wanted to suck her into his body.

When his lips fell, Sarah gently opened her lips and took the initiative to entangle with him. Although what she had experienced in the past two days had been somewhat torturous for her, she had discovered her feelings for him during these two days. She liked him even more deeply than she had imagined.

The two of them kissed for a long time. In the end, it was unknown who took the initiative to end the kiss. Christian slightly lowered his head to look at his little wife, whose face had turned red from the kiss. His big hand gently caressed her little face and looked at her with a sigh. He smiled and said, "I really hope it's night now. I definitely won't let you off so easily."

After saying that, he lowered his head and kissed her wife's lips again.

Sarah heard his words and smiled with a red face. "I am pregnant now, okay?"

Christian replied with a laugh. "It is fine even if you are pregnant. My son is very resistant to attacks."

Sarah immediately raised her hand and hit his chest in a reproachful manner, "Disgusting. . ."

"Ha ha!"

...

Christian quickly finished lunch and looked at the time. It was still early. He brought his wife out the door.

Although he knew that Sarah had been feeling wronged these two days, but when he thought about how he would be leaving in a few days' time. . . No matter what, he had to make use of these few days' time to do more things for her.

When the car drove out of the neighborhood, Sarah's phone suddenly rang. She took it out to take a look. The number showed that it was David calling.

Sarah looked at Christian, who was beside her. Because at noon today, the two of them looked like they were ready to fight, she was a little worried that he would be jealous. "It's Mr. David."

Christian smiled generously. "It seems that your Mr.

David is worried about you. Tell him not to worry anymore. Take it."

David's reaction to him was only because he was worried about his little wife. That was why David had that kind of attitude towards him. Therefore, he didn't mind at all.

Sarah listened to him and nodded. She picked up the phone and put it beside her ear. "Mr. David!"

"Sarah, how are you guys doing now?" Ever since Sarah and Christian left, David had been worried. He was afraid that Sarah and Christian would argue and Sarah would do something she did not want to do.

"Mr. David, thank you. We are fine now. It was all a misunderstanding. I'm really fine now, don't worry."

"Really?" David asked in disbelief.

"Yes, it's true." Sarah nodded. Just as she was about to say something else, Christian took the phone away. He then put it beside his ear.

"The misunderstanding between Sarah and I has already been explained clearly. You don't have to worry anymore. I will go to your hotel to drink with you tomorrow night."

Once he left. . . David was the best person to his little wife besides himself and his mother-in-law. In the future, Sarah would inevitably encounter some problems here. He still needed to ask David to take care of his little wife.

"Okay. Since that is the case, then I am relieved. I'll wait for you in Savid Tower tomorrow night."

"Alright. See you."

Christian hung up the phone and returned the phone to his wife. He looked at her and smiled. "Wife, can I give you a small opinion?" This topic was somewhat sensitive to her, so he paid more attention to his tone.

"What's wrong?" Sarah looked at him in confusion and blinked, not knowing what he wanted to say to her.

Christian picked up her hand and smiled. "Can you put some distance between you and David in the future?"

Sarah heard his words and blushed slightly. "We are not like what you think. . ."

Christian heard her words and could not help but smile again. "Silly girl, I know there is nothing between you two. It's not that I don't trust you.

Actually, I know what kind of person David is better than you. Although you didn't marry him, up until now, his concern for you isn't any less than mine. Don't you agree?"

If you find any errors (broken links, non-standard content, etc..), Please let us know < report chapter > so we can fix it as soon as possible.

THE CONTRACT MARRIAGE

Chapter 180 Love Is The Most Real Thing

Sarah nodded in agreement. "Yes. . ."

She completely admitted this. Even though she knew that it was impossible between them, David did not distance himself from her because of this. No matter what happened to her, he would still spare no effort to help her like in the past. This was the thing that moved her the most.

"He is a rare good man. Actually, I admire him a lot of times. Because giving up a woman that you have liked for nine years, not everyone can turn around freely. Just because of this. . . I admire him."

Christian was speaking the truth. He actually admired David a lot. Because David did not have that kind of worldly thing on him, and his love for Sarah made Christian truly admire him.

"Yes, you are right. Then what do you want to say to me?" Sarah heard his words and nodded, then slowly asked him back.

"Think about how he treats you so well, you should think about him more. He is still young now, if your relationship with him is too close, he will never let you go, nor will he truly find his own happiness. When he can truly let go of your hand, only then will he be able to find his own true love. Think about it, just like how he wants you to be happy, you also want him to live a better life in the future, right?"

Sarah nodded in agreement. She did not deny this point at all. "Yes. What you said makes sense. If he continues like this, I will feel that I owe him in my heart. I hope that he can be like us. He can also find the other half of his true love."

To her, although David was not her lover, he is still her best friend, the best Big Brother.

David's happiness was the true happiness between her and Christian!

"So you have to pay attention to your relationship with him. Don't let him have any more fantasies about you, understand?"

"I didn't make him fantasize about me." Sarah looked at him with some grievance.

"Then what did he say in front of the Wilson Group today, did you forget? Although there was a misunderstanding between us, look at him. Even if we are already husband and wife, he still doesn't care about anything. What does this mean? On the surface, he turned around. In fact, he has always been thinking about you! If he continues like this, you will harm your Mr. David. Do you know?"

Sarah slightly pursed her lower lip and nodded in agreement. "Yes, I understand. In the future, I will make sure to keep a distance from him."

"I am not talking about distance between you and him. I am talking about maintaining a space and treat him as a brother. It will make him give up on you in terms of feelings, do you understand?"

"Yes, I understand." Sarah nodded her head again.

Christian heard his wife's words and smiled.

The car passed through a few streets. Sarah originally thought that he would take her to take wedding photos. She did not expect that when the car stopped, it was actually a high-end shopping mall. She got out of the car with him, puzzled, and followed him into the shopping mall.

"Christian, what are we doing here?" Sarah looked at him and asked in confusion.

Christian heard what she said and immediately frowned. "What did you call me? Call me again!"

Sarah immediately changed her words with a smile,

"Hubby!"

Christian smiled. "That's more like it! If I hear you call me that again, you might get beaten up!"

Sarah looked at him and smiled coquettishly. She looked at the shopping mall in front of her and still did not understand. "Hubby, what are we doing here?"

"Buy a wedding ring." Christian's answer was quite straightforward.

"Didn't we already have one?"

Christian heard her words and stopped walking. He looked at her with a smile and said with some emotion, "At that time, you had no feelings for me. You didn't want to live with me for the rest of your life, but now it's different. You like me and care about me."

“Even though Greta's matter this time has caused us to have a huge misunderstanding, I am actually very happy in my heart. Because I only know now that my wife cares about me so much. If you don't react at all when you see those photos, that would be the most heartbreaking and sad thing for me. Although we don't necessarily have to buy the most expensive ones today, Love is the most real thing, don't you agree?”

In fact, after Christian heard his little wife's words, other than anger, he was also the most happy after the misunderstanding this time. The fact that his wife was so sad could only mean that she cared about him too much. There was nothing that made him happier and more satisfied than this discovery.

Sarah heard his words and deliberately looked at him with a reproachful look. "I am already so sad, yet you are still happy. You have no conscience."

Although she said that, her heart was sweet like a blooming flower.

"Haha! Wife, I promise you that I will never make you sad again."

Sarah smiled and followed him to the jewelry counter on the first floor.

Christian brought his wife to the counter. After choosing for a long time, he finally bought a pair of rings and gave them to his wife.

He was right, although they didn't buy the most expensive ones. They weren't the most beautiful ones either, but their hearts were the most genuine.

After Christian bought the ring with her, he personally put it on her hand. The ring with bright white diamond looked very beautiful in her snow white hands. After putting the ring, Christian smiled with satisfaction.

He then brought her out of the mall and walked towards a wedding dress shop on the pedestrian street.

When Christian thought about how he would probably be back in half a year or a year after he left, he felt that he owed his wife too much. She was too young, furthermore she was pregnant now. He really couldn't let her go.

Although he was a soldier, but he was also a husband and he was also a father. . . He wanted to give his little wife a safe home. But right now, he still couldn't do it.

So before leaving this place, he had to do his best to do everything he could for her.

Christian brought Sarah into the wedding dress shop and told the owner about his situation. When the owner knew about this, he immediately agreed to arrange for the filming for the two of them tomorrow.

Christian nodded his head in satisfaction. After paying, he left with his wife. When the two of them walked out of the wedding dress shop, it was still early.

Christian looked at Sarah who was beside him. He was worried that her body would not be able to take it.

"Wife, why don't you go home first?" Christian was really worried that she wouldn't be able to take it.

"Why? Then what are you going to do?" Sarah looked at him in confusion.

"When our child is born next year, I don't know if I will come back or not. Since I am at home now, I want to buy something for him. I think it will be very late and you are still pregnant. I am afraid your body will not be able to take it."

"It's not like I can't walk after becoming pregnant. He is only about the size of a peanut now. Don't worry, I'll be fine. Didn't you say that your son's endurance is very strong? Now is the time to test him!" Sarah imitated his tone and replied with a smile.

He would leave in a few days. After experiencing Greta's matter, she did not want to leave him now and just wanted to stay by his side.

"Haha! Good! Then let's go to the mall now."

The two of them crossed the pedestrian street and walked towards the mall opposite them. Christian was tall, his figure was good, and his appearance was outstanding. So when they passed through the pedestrian street, there would occasionally be young girls who would look at him with appreciation.

Sarah was sensitive to those gazes and held onto Christian's arm even tighter.

"Hubby, do you have any female soldiers in your new group?"

"Of course. What's wrong?"

"Then you have to be careful. If you touch any more Greta or Gabriella, be careful that I won't let my son recognize you as his father!"

"Haha! Wife, don't worry. This kind of accident definitely won't happen a second time!"

"Remember what you said. . ." Sarah heard his reply and laughed happily.

"I must remember!" Christian looked at his wife and puffed out his chest as he promised.

He had left home a long time ago. Although he didn't show it, deep in his heart, he longed for a warm home. Now, he finally got together with his little wife. And in another nine months, he would have his own child.

When he thought about his child that was about to be born, his heart was filled with indescribable excitement.

As soon as they walked into the baby goods section, Christian bought whatever he saw. He wished he could buy everything that his son would use from birth to when he was in his teens.

Sarah had never thought that Christian would also have such a childish side. She looked at him and saw that he wanted to buy this and that, whatever came into his sight. Even though it was unnecessary, he still bought them.

Looking at his curious expression, she could not help but laugh. However, what she felt the most in her heart was indescribable happiness and sweetness.

Sarah understood Christian's feelings for her and his child, so she didn't stop him at all. She quietly stood by the side and watched him asking the clerk questions like a father. Looking at the complacent smile on his face, deep in her heart, she felt a strong sense of happiness and satisfaction.

There was a child who was about to be born, and there was Husband who loved her so much. This kind of life should be called happiness, right?

In the past, she had always felt that her father's love for her mother was something that she would never have the luck to obtain in her life. But now, looking at that man called Christian Cooper, in front of her, she began to understand what happiness was!

Happiness is not how much you get from your lover. Instead, when you saw the smile on his or her face, you felt a kind of happiness and satisfaction that came from the bottom of your heart.

Christian bought things from the milk powder to the baby bed, to the clothes and toys that his son would wear. When he saw books and paintings, he wanted to buy them all, but he gave up after thinking about it.

In his words, if he bought all of them now, what would he buy when he came back?

Christian bought a whole cart of things for the baby, and all of them were brought back to Sarah's mother's house, because the two of them had thought about it.

Now Vivian was also pregnant and there was not much time difference between her and Sarah. If the two children were born at the same time, then Sarah would definitely not be taken care of by anyone. So the two of them decided to wait until the child was born then they would let Sarah go back to Cooper Family Villa.

Letting Samantha take care of her, Christian would feel more at ease. That was why he dragged all the things he bought back to Sarah's mother's house.

Samantha watched Christian move things up from downstairs and then looked at the dazzling display of baby goods on the floor. She was indescribably satisfied with her son-in-law's performance.

Although Christian was a little older than her daughter, she could tell that Christian was really good to her daughter. He really loved Sarah with all his heart and soul just as he promised her.

When Samantha was making dinner, Christian packed up all the things he bought. He even moved the baby bed to his wife's bedroom and placed all the toys on the baby bed. Sarah smiled when she saw it.V

If you find any errors (broken links, non-standard content, etc..), Please let us know < report chapter > so we can fix it as soon as possible.