Chapter 1611 Nina's Regrets

There was no way for Queenie to avoid the kiss. Therefore, she allowed herself to enjoy the spellbinding kiss as the last rays of sunlight slowly faded out of the dimming room.

Love overwhelmed the senses. Her heart thumped wildly. A feast was laid out for dinner at Manson Residence. Jonathan and Brenda showered Queenie with affection as they welcomed her with open arms, and even the household staff all knew that the young guest they had today was Nigel's soon-to-be wife.

Once it was time to leave, Brenda saw them off and a maid came over with a gift box in hand. "Queenie, it's your first time here and I didn't get to prepare much, but I would like you to have this."

Queenie was startled by Brenda's generosity. She could tell that it was a set of jewelry, so she quickly tried to decline. "This is too much, Mrs. Manson. I can't accept it."

"It's not much at all. We're going to be family soon." Brenda's words were full of implications.

Queenie stared at her in a daze for a few seconds before blushing shyly, but she didn't continue turning Brenda down. "Thank you, Mrs. Manson."

Once they were home, Queenie opened the box, and sure enough, she saw a set of gorgeous jewelry that looked very expensive

Chapter 1612 Nina's Lies

Nina opened her eyes. Tears of regret continued to flow. With every breath she took, she could smell the stench of mold in the air. The longer she stayed in this tiny holding cell dressed in prison garb, the more she was on the verge of losing her mind.

She couldn't even imagine what her life was going to be like from now on. How am I supposed to live like that? What's the point of living?

In the morning, Nina was woken up by the sound of someone banging on her door. "Someone's here to see you," the police officer said.

Nina immediately climbed to her feet. Her bloodshot eyes, disheveled hair, and post-surgery face without any makeup on made her look like a ghost. "Who is it? Who's here to see me?" she asked at once.

"Go and see for yourself!" Nina didn't want anyone to see her in this state, not even her parents.

However, she did hope that Brandon and Maggie would come and see her. Maybe they'll take pity on me once they see how pitiful I am and appeal for more lenient sentencing.

Are they here? Nina rushed to the visiting room, but when she saw the young woman sitting on the opposite side of the divider, she was overcome with shame and was tempted to head right back to her cell instead.

Freedom was something that Nina would no longer have. She could see the beautiful cityscape just beyond the entrance, and even this was a luxury for her now. Nina didn't want to leave, but the police officer dragged her back to her cell.

After walking out of the detention center, Queenie received a call from Nigel. He had made the arrangements with a prominent media outlet and they were going to give Queenie a segment in their program. When the time came, they were going to broadcast her search for her sister across all their channels. Queenie didn't discuss this with her parents as she didn't want to disrupt them during their trip.

However, she was determined to do this now, and she was even more confident it would work since she had Nigel's help.

If my sister's still alive, she'll definitely come across my search for her. Queenie left the detention center and drove to the media company. At a well-known filming location.

On the plateau of a mountain, a film crew was hard at work under the blazing sun. They were filming a historical drama and the burning sun at summer's noon was setting everyone's tempers alight as well. A loud voice roared across the open space, "Where's the stunt double? Is she in place yet? Where's she? Hurry up and take your place!"

Just then, a slender young woman wearing heavy layers of historical costume ran out from a nearby tent. "I'm here! I'm here."

Chapter 1614 Lexie's Favorite Actor

All of the roles where Jessie had been the stunt double received widespread acclaim from fans. They all said that even her silhouette was ethereal and goddess-like. Many of the actresses who played the lead role would specifically ask for her to be their stunt double as well.

Jessie took the bottle of water that the crew member held out to her and ducked under the shade to drink it. The weight of the heavy, veiled hat and many layers of costume made her exhausted.

Just then, an assistant came over and said to her, "Jessie, that's Miss Mabel's costume. You better be careful, or you'll have to pay for ruining it."

Jessie quickly lifted the hefty skirt and carried it in her arms before nodding. "Don't worry! I'll be careful."

Seeing how easy it was to bully Jessie, the assistant added, "If Miss Mabel isn't pleased with the result, you'll have to shoot the scene again."

Jessie nodded. "Yes, I got it."

Chapter 1615 Bump

Just one look is good enough. Lexie might be chubby, but she could run, especially when she could meet her idol. Jessie had no choice but to get dragged along with her friend. Just then, three black off-road vehicles showed up around the corner. One look, and they knew someone important must be in these cars.

An excited Lexie gasped. "Whoa, that's Julian's car!" Jessie stared at the cars, but their tinted windows stopped them from seeing who was inside.

Lexie dragged Jessie forward once more. She might be in a hurry to see her idol, but she wouldn't leave her friend behind. And just like that, Jessie found herself jostling among a horde of raving fans. Their shouts were deafening. Lexie managed to squeeze herself forward, but just when she was about to get in the lead, some of the female fans shouted at her.

"Hey, stop pushing me!" a girl roared. "I didn't push you!" Lexie turned around and snorted. "This is our spot! You can't take it!" "Sorry, sorry," Jessie apologized.

This was the best spot to meet Julian, and she would never back off. Thanks to her size, she was in a black shirt and a pair of black pants, and his face was covered with a mask.

"Oh my god. You just hugged him. What does he smell like?" Lexie happily pulled her friend away from the crowd. The raving fans were leaving the spot as well.

Jessie took Lexie to a quiet spot and held up the necklace. "I got this from him by accident. I have no idea what to do with it." "Whoa. How did you do that?"

"I have no idea. I don't want him to think I stole it, though. I didn't mean it." She looked at the clasp and was surprised to see that it was loose. No wonder he felt nothing when I pulled it off him.

"Alright, calm down. We'll just wait for him to come to us. Maybe we'll get to meet him up close and personal," Lexie gushed.

"She thinks Julian's going to fall for her because she's pretty. Yeah, right. She's ugly as f*ck. Dream on."

The fans kept staring at Jessie. Even though they called her ugly, they still were jealous of her looks. Dammit. Didn't see it last night, but this girl's hotter than some celebs.

It stoked their flames of envy, and they only felt enmity toward Jessie.

All the mockery was getting on Jessie's nerves. She turned around to face the stupid fans and explained, "This is a misunderstanding. I didn't mean to do that."

"Keep saying that."

"I bet you think you're really pretty."

"I don't." A frown creased Jessie's forehead.

Jessie was staring at him as well. Her heart fluttered the moment their eyes met. His eyes are beautiful. No wonder people call him the most innocent celeb. The look in his eyes tells me everything I need to know.

Unbeknownst to her, Julian was shocked as well. Impossible. She looks just like Queenie. He just had lunch with Queenie and Nigel the day prior when he was at work. Naturally, he was shocked to see someone who resembled Queenie so much.

The difference was Queenie had the air of a wealthy lady, while this one felt more down to earth.

“Let me go. You’re hurting me.” Dammit, it’s starting to hurt.

The bodyguard shoved her away. “I know you like him, but you have to be calm. Hurt him, and we’ll hurt you.”

The fans thought they were going crazy. Why is Julian staring at this hater? Because she’s pretty? No, please! Don’t fall for this hater, Julian. She’s hot, but you can’t fall for her!

Julian was having breakfast in a restaurant alone, but he gave Nigel and Queenie a video call.

“Hi, Julian. Did something happen?” Nigel asked curiously. Just now, Julian had texted them to take his video call.

“I met a fan earlier. She looks just like Queenie. I think she might be her sister.”

“Really? How much does she resemble me?” Queenie was excited.

“Let’s put it this way. I thought I was looking at you when I saw her for the first time. She’s about your age and height, and her name is Jessie Landry. She’s a stuntwoman.”

Chapter 1620 A Call from Julian

Jessie sat down and looked at her phone. All three calls had come from the same number. Whom can it be? She made the call while gulping down some water. I’m thirsty. And then the call went through. She asked, “Hi, may I know who you are?” She took another big swig of water.

A calm, sexy voice said, “Hi, it’s Julian Gilmore.”

Jessie spat out all her water. Never in her wildest imagination did she expect Julian to give her a call.

“Is something the matter?” Julian asked curiously.

“N-Nothing. Do you need anything?” Jessie was almost stammering, but then a shrill voice spoke.

“Hey, you got your water all over Miss Cotton’s dress. Watch it!”

“I’m sorry. I didn’t mean it.” Jessie covered her phone and apologized to Mabel.
