

Read Novel Married At First Sight Chapter 2372

Married at First Sight Chapter 2372-Trenton's face turned dark. He almost listened to the words of the two aunts before, and turned against his sister.

Fortunately, his sense of justice defeated the evil, and he did not do what the two aunts wished.

Seeing that he couldn't ask his sister's forgiveness, he actually alienated his relationship with his sister.

Camryn: "Who should I hate, who should I blame, I know very well. You have to blame yourself for what happened today, and you can't blame anyone. Of course, you can blame me, I don't care, I just like to see you looking down now. It shouldn't be yours. You can't snatch it away. If you insist on snatching it, it's the end like this."

Camryn felt that there was no point in arguing with them any longer.

She also saw the end of the two aunts, enough!

"Trenton, let's go in." Camryn pulled her younger brother, turned around and left.

"Camryn, you will die badly, you will die badly!" Amy cursed loudly at the backs of the siblings.

Camryn walked to the door of the house and ordered the butler: "Let the two b*tches in the backyard out. If they come to make noise in the future, just let the wolf dogs go. You don't have to be polite to them. Also, from today onwards, me and Trenton severed our aunt and nephew relationship with them."

The butler responded respectfully.

After entering the house, Camryn said to her younger brother: "Twenty years ago, after my father was killed, they did not report the knowledge and covered up the murderer, there is no way to sue them, now more than 20 years have passed, and the prosecution period has passed. Otherwise, how can I tolerate them running here from time to time to meet me?"

“Trenton, the crimes your parents committed not only killed my father more than 20 years ago, they were also involved in gangsters, suspected of kidnapping, wounding, and counting crimes together. We didn’t talk about these things properly. Say, tell you everything today.”

When Camryn mentioned her own mother, she didn’t even want to call her mother, and only said that she was her younger brother’s parents.

If only the murder case more than 20 years ago, the vicious couple could not be sentenced severely.

It was they who committed suicide and committed a lot of crimes in recent years.

Trenton’s face was pale.

His hands were shaking.

No one wanted to have murderous parents.

He knew that it was his parents who were wrong, thinking that they were the ones who killed his sister’s father. It turned out that it wasn’t just that; they also did many illegal things.

Trenton: “Sister...I don’t blame you, I know, you are right.”

Camryn looked at his younger brother and said: “You have been a kind and righteous person since you were a child. I also know that your parents were sent in by me. For you, it is also a kind of injury and a heavy blow. If you can think clearly, I’m very happy that I was not used by them.

Trenton, I never blamed you, you’re innocent, when they did those things, you were not born yet.

We can’t choose our parents by ourselves. God has arranged such parents for you, and you can’t resist. So, it’s not your fault. You don’t have to blame yourself, and you don’t have to worry that your sister will retaliate against you.”

Trenton’s eyes were red. He looked at Camryn and nodded vigorously, “Sister, I believe in you and never worry that you will retaliate against me.”

Camryn sighed, patted the back of her younger brother's hand, and said, "Don't think too much about it, you will always have a share of the Newman family's property, but if you accept it or not, I will divide it and put it there. You can take it whenever you want."