

The Untouchable Ex-Wife

Chapter 701

But right now, she felt like she did not know him that well at all. She did not know what he was thinking and what he really wanted.

“Can you say something that I can understand, please? What does “a real and authentic” wife mean? What does “a wife that only belongs to you” mean?”

Renee could not understand what Stefan was trying to express. She said impatiently, “Let’s keep this simple. What do you want? What do you need from me in exchange for the Rainbow Glaze?”

“I told you, I want you to fulfill your responsibility as a wife.”

Stefan paused for a moment. She thought Renee probably wouldn’t understand what he meant, so he gestured at her to move closer.

Renee foolishly leaned forward and moved her ear close to Stefan’s lips to hear what he had to say.

She then heard Stefan say, “The responsibility to please your husband in bed.”

“.....”

Renee’s face instantly turned red, all the way to the base of her neck. In shame and anger, she picked up her coffee cup and splashed the handsome man’s face with coffee.

“Stefan Hunt, you’re an animal in human skin! You disgust me!”

After yelling at him, she grabbed her bag and left the cafe like she was fleeing for her life.

The scorching sun made her sweat profusely. Her heart was beating really fast for some reason.

She’s so mad!

She’s so mad!

Not only did fail to get the Rainbow Glaze, she was also pranked by that despicable guy. Her time was completely wasted!

She splashed Stefan with red wine yesterday and with coffee today. He probably would not give her the Rainbow Glaze now even if she were to kneel down and beg for it.

In that case, desperate times called for desperate measures...

Renee reflected on her actions and immediately came up with a solution.

“Hmph, you despicable bastard! If you’re not going to play nice, then I’m not going to either!”

Renee clenched her fists, eager to carry out her plan.

Meanwhile, Stefan was still sitting in the cafe. Coffee dripped down his thick black hair onto his handsome face, just like last evening’s wine.

Although he was in a mess, his good looks and dignified aura still made him look like the protagonist in a drama. He attracted the eyes of many girls in the vicinity.

Some had even secretly filmed a video of Renee splashing Stefan with coffee and submitted it to gossip magazines.

Stefan soon received a call from his nervous secretary.

“Mr. Hunt, we have a problem.”

“What is it?”

“A paparazzi sent us a video of Miss Everheart splashing you with red wine and with coffee. He asked for money to keep quiet. What should we do?”

“How much does he want?”

Stefan asked calmly.

“4 million dollars.”

The secretary said indignantly, “That greedy bastard! How dare he blackmail you!”

“Tell the paparazzi, do as I say and I’ll pay him double.”

Stefan’s lips curled into a smile. He also had a plan.

The Untouchable Ex-
Wife

Chapter 702

Renee calmed herself down and returned to the Azure Group. “Miss

Everheart!”

The employees were delighted to see Renee return safely. They happily greeted her.

All the employees that still remained at the Azure Group were loyal people who were determined to follow Renee.

Although there were not many of them and their abilities could not be considered outstanding, they were all passionate, gutsy people. They made sure to properly complete all the tasks they were assigned.

Renee nodded to the employees, then turned to her assistant, Shelley, and said, “Notify every department that we will be holding the monthly meeting right away. All the employees must attend.”

“Yes, Miss Everheart!” Shelley

replied respectfully.

At the same time, Shelley thought to herself that Miss Everheart seemed to be in a great mood. She and Mr. Hunt must have had a great time together last night. That means... the “marriage alliance” between the Azure Group and the H Group would very likely happen.

The conference room was large enough to accommodate over a hundred people. In the past, it would be filled to capacity during monthly meetings, but today, less than a fifth of the room was filled. The rest of the seats were empty. It looked sad.

Renee took the center seat. She could not help but sigh when she saw how sparse the staff had become. The Azure Group went through four years of ups and downs to reach this point.

When Liam Osborne left, he took a bunch of people with him.

Laura Osborne then took advantage of the Azure Group’s moment of weakness to loot them. Not only did she empty their company treasury, she even took away a group of elites.

Among those elites were R&D experts that Renee admired and designers that Renee valued very highly...

In short, the Azure Group had been bled hard. The only reason they could continue operation was purely because they were tough enough.

However, the days of humiliations were coming to an end. The era belonging to the Azure Group was about to begin!

“Today is our first monthly meeting after our company has gone through a major adjustment. I believe all of you who stayed behind are people who believe in me. You might feel lost and confused right now, you might even be worried that the Azure Group won’t last long, but today... As the Chairman and CEO of Azure Group, I assure you that as long as you follow my orders and complete your tasks well, we have a bright future ahead of us.”

Renee’s voice was not loud, but it was powerful, and it made the staff boil with excitement.

It all sounded like a pie in the sky, but because it was Miss Everheart who said it, they believed that it would definitely come true!

But the expression of Jay Yassin, the manager of the Market Expansion Department, remained solemn. He hesitated a few times, but finally decided to raise his hand to say something.

Renee turned towards Jay Yassin with a sharp gaze and asked, “Is there a problem, Mr. Yassin?”

“Miss Everheart, first of all, allow me to express my respect and trust for you. However, I have to be honest. While completing the tasks you assigned, I had some doubts... To be more precise, I don’t agree with your decision.”

A commotion rose among the staff. They cast hostile glances at Jay Yassin.

After all, they saw Renee as a “goddess”. How dare he openly question the decision of the “goddess”?! “Please elaborate, Mr. Yassin.”

Renee remained calm.

She knew that all the people who stayed behind were those who sincerely wanted the company to do well. Even if they had disagreements, they all merely wanted what’s best for the company. She naturally had to respect their opinions.

“I actually agree with what Ms. Osborne said. I don’t understand why you would keep spending money to establish a Research and Development Department and a Production Department even though the Azure Group is facing financial difficulties. Do we really have that many things to research and produce?”

“If our company isn’t operating at such a large scale, why do we have to establish large-scale R&D and Production departments? It’s a waste of money.”

The Untouchable Ex- Wife

Chapter 703

Jay Yassin got more and more emotional as he spoke.

That was because he was the person in charge of establishing the R&D Department and the Production Department. He watched money flow out of the accounts every day without any income, so he was very anxious!

“That’s a good question.”

Renee snapped her fingers, then addressed the company employees with a calm expression, “I believe many of you here have the same question as Mr. Yassin. I didn’t want to explain too much before, but everyone here stayed behind for me, so we’re all on the same boat now. You have the right to know about all the decisions made by the company.”

“The reason why I want to quickly build an R&D Department and a Production Department is because the company is about to enter a high-speed operational period. In half a month to a month’s time, we will become the largest “G6 chips” manufacturer in the entire Beach City, and maybe even in the entire Aeos. If we don’t start to prepare now, when the order comes in, we won’t be able to process them. We’ll become a joke in the industry.”

Everyone looked at each other awkwardly after hearing that. They wondered if Renee was delusional.

Jay Yassin said, “Miss Everheart, are you kidding? Everyone knows that the “G6 chip” is KCL’s flagship product, and KCL would only cooperate with the H Group. There’s no way the production rights of “G6 chips” would fall to us.”

“It wouldn’t happen unless you’re a relative of KCL’s CEO or a relative of H Group’s CEO... But I heard that KCL’s new CEO is a very mysterious old man and he’s Jewish, so I don’t think he’s your relative. As for H Group’s CEO, well...”

Jay Yassin did not finish his sentence, but everyone understood.

It was impossible for Renee to be a relative of KCL’s CEO, and everybody knew about her and Stefan Hunt, so it was impossible for them to obtain the production rights of “G6 chips”.

Renee’s lips curled into a meaningful smile. “Nothing is impossible in this world. As long as there’s enough profit to be made, even pigs can fly.”

After the meeting, every employee left the conference room with a hopeful smile. They now knew that they had made the right choice. They were right to follow Renee Everheart!

Renee returned to her office and sat at her desk to browse through some documents.

Shelley walked in with a grin, carrying a cup of freshly brewed coffee.

“Miss Everheart...”

Renee lifted her eyes. She took one look at the girl and went back to her work.

“Miss Everheart, you’ve been working so hard. Why not have a cup of coffee and rest for a while.”

Shelley obediently placed the coffee next to Renee, hoping that Renee would stop to chat with her for a bit to satisfy her curiosity.

“If you have something to say, say it.”

“Oh, it’s nothing. I was just worried that you would overwork yourself so I came in to persuade you to take a short rest.”

Renee saw through Shelley’s intention immediately. She smiled wryly, “You want to ask me about Stefan Hunt, don’t you?”

“That’s right! Did you have a great time yesterday? Have you conquered him? Is that why you said we have a good chance of collaborating with the H Group during the meeting? Aren’t you grateful to me?”

Renee was so mad that she almost laughed. “Yeah, thank you so much. Before this, me and Stefan merely ignored each other, but now, we’re mortal enemies!”

“No way! What happened? I thought you were getting along well! Why...”

“Some things are better left unsaid.”

Renee said solemnly, “I just want to warn you that if you dare to “matchmake” for me again, I won’t let you off lightly next time!” “Yes, ma’am! I... I understand.”

Shelley thought Renee must have her own secrets, so she did not dare to inquire further.

But she soon saw the breaking news posted by a famous paparazzi and... instantly understood everything!

The Untouchable Ex- Wife

Chapter 704

Renee was busy with work. She did not have much time to browse the internet on her phone, let alone pay attention to entertainment gossip.

Therefore, even if the “hot gossip” posted by the paparazzi was already a hot topic online, she remained oblivious to it. By the time she was done with work, it was already time to go home.

She stretched, leaned back against her chair, and looked up at the white ceiling while planning in her mind how to obtain the Rainbow Glaze in secret.

She picked up the coffee Shelley brewed for her to give it a sip. “Ah, Miss Everheart, stop!”

Shelley rushed in like a flying arrow, snatched the cup of coffee from Renee’s hand, and said with a serious expression, “How can you still drink coffee?”

Renee was confused. “Why can’t I drink coffee?”

“Coffee...”

Shelley took a quick glance at Renee’s stomach. She thought that Renee’s stubborn personality was preventing her from admitting the truth, so she said vaguely, “Coffee’s not good for your body. Drink milk instead. I’ll heat up a glass of milk for you. It’s nutritious and will warm your stomach.”

“Uhh...”

Renee pondered for a moment and actually agreed, “You’re right. I’ve been feeling a bit unwell lately, so milk will be better for me.”

“That’s normal. My mom told me it happens to every woman who experiences it for the first time. She said they have to be very careful. They shouldn’t even get out of bed if they can help it. The consequences can be very dire.”

“What? I can’t even get out of bed?”

The more she listened, the more confused Renee became.

Shelley thought Renee was just feigning ignorance, so she went along and said, “It’s okay. Maybe you’re just feeling unwell because you work overtime so much. Just make sure you rest well and make up for lost sleep, or accidents may occur!”

“What’s wrong with you today, girl? Why are you behaving so strangely?”

“Maybe it’s because my period is coming soon. Don’t mind me, Miss Everheart. Just take care of yourself...”

While saying that, Shelley helped Renee organize the documents and turn off the computer. She said meaningfully, “Miss Everheart, you have to stop working. Your body can’t take it. You should stay at home and stay in bed for the next few days. If anything happens in the company, I’ll give you a video call. Go home and rest!”

Renee checked the time and frowned. “I do have some important personal matters to take care of in the next few days, so I won’t be coming to the office. If there are any issues, report to me immediately.”

She stood up from the office chair to leave.

Shelley quickly went over to support Renee like Renee was an Empress Dowager. “Be careful, Miss Everheart.”

After that, she fetched Renee’s bag for her and asked Renee, “Will you be fine by yourself, Miss Everheart? Do you want me to escort you home?”

Renee was incredulous. “Of course not. Do you take me for a baby? Why are you taking care of me so meticulously? Act normally!”

Shelley chuckled and said, “You can’t be too careful. You’re the heart and soul of Azure Group after all.”

After Renee left the company, several employees who stayed back to work overtime immediately gathered around Shelley. “Shelley, have you seen the news? Is it true?”

“Is Miss Everheart really pregnant with Stefan Hunt’s baby?”

“It must be true. The paparazzi made things very clear. Miss Everheart is pregnant with Mr. Hunt’s baby, but Mr. Hunt wouldn’t take responsibility, so Miss Everheart splashed him with both wine and coffee to try and force him to take responsibility!”

The Untouchable Ex- Wife

Chapter 705

They continued to gossip and argue. The topic originated from a batch of photos posted by a famous entertainment industry paparazzi on a certain forum.

The photos showed Renee splashing coffee and wine on Stefan Hunt's face.

The caption was: "H Group's CEO rekindled his relationship with his ex-wife. The woman is three months pregnant, but he insists on breaking up!"

"If this is true, then Mr. Hunt is such a scumbag. Poor Miss Everheart!" They started to talk bad about Stefan and sympathized with Renee.

Shelley cleared her throat and told everyone, "The news is not entirely true, but it's not entirely false either. First of all... Miss Everheart is definitely pregnant, but she's proud and she likes to keep a low profile, so she doesn't want to make it public. So from now on, we must take good care of Miss Everheart, but don't mention the matter in front of her. Understand?"

"As for Mr. Hunt not wanting to take responsibility, I find this part questionable. At least based on my understanding, Mr. Hunt still cares about Miss Everheart a great deal. I'm guessing this is also one of the reasons why the two groups will cooperate sooner or later."

Everyone immediately understood what happened after listening to Shelley's analysis.

"That's great! Miss Everheart is pregnant with Mr. Hunt's baby! This little fella will become a winner in life the moment they're born. How lucky!"

The employees of Azure Group could not help cheering.

The protagonist of the incident, Renee Eveheart, was currently dressed in all black. She sneaked into Stefan's bedroom, her steps as light as a swallow's, completely unaware that she was "pregnant"!!!

She must get the Rainbow Glaze within a week. Since she could not get it through negotiations, she could only use underhanded methods.

Her plan was to infiltrate Stefan's residence and steal the Rainbow Glaze.

Doing this was a bit unethical, but considering that she took nothing from Stefan when they divorced, surely taking the Rainbow Glaze was not too much.

Besides, she would return it sooner or later, so it should not be a big deal.

However, Stefan had a lot of properties under his name, so she did not know where he kept the Rainbow Glaze. She could only try her luck and search one place at a time.

The first place she tried was the Hunt Residence.

After all, it was where Stefan regularly stayed in the past year or two. In addition, Grandpa Timothy also liked antiques and artifacts, so the possibility of the Rainbow Glaze being kept in the Hunt Residence was the highest.

Renee moved skillfully and cautiously. She easily slipped into the Hunt Residence and successfully infiltrated Stefan's bedroom on the second floor.

Truth be told, considering her relationship with Grandpa Timothy, she could solve the problem by just talking to him. There was no need for her to steal.

But Renee did not want him to misunderstand. She also did not want to have anything more to do with Stefan. Therefore, stealing the treasure was the easiest way.

It was already late at night. Grandpa Timothy usually went to bed early. The entire Hunt household seemed to be asleep. The house that was as big as a palace stood quietly in the middle of the night.

In Stefan's bedroom, Renee did not dare to turn on the lights. She searched with the help of the flashlight that came with her phone.

Stefan's bedroom in the old Hunt Residence was completely different from his bedroom in the Hunt Manor.

The color theme of his bedroom in the Hunt Manor was gray, black and white. It felt cold, serious and restrained, just like him. But his bedroom in the Hunt Residence completely shattered what Renee knew of him...

The Untouchable Ex- Wife

Chapter 706

With the help of the light from her phone, Renee was surprised to find on Stefan's desk rows of merchandise from various popular animes.

There was Luffy from "One Piece", Conan from "Detective Conan", Naruto, and even Sora from "Gag Manga Biyori"!!!

"Hahaha, this is too funny! Does he have multiple personality disorder or something? He behaves like an iceberg all the time, but he's actually an otaku!"

Renee could not stop staring at the palm-sized action figure of Luffy.

It was hard to imagine Stefan sitting at this desk every day, playing with these merchandise with a straight face. She could not help but burst out in laughter.

She herself was half an otaku. When she was young, besides playing with the bottles and jars in the laboratory, she also liked to read some hot-blooded or funny manga.

And the animes she liked were actually very similar to the animes Stefan liked.

Renee suddenly sighed. She only found out that she shared a common interest with her ex-husband years after the divorce.

Besides anime merchandise, there was also a huge glass cabinet in Stefan's room. It did not contain any rare treasures. Instead, it was filled with all sorts of LEGO models, including the Eiffel Tower, heavy spaceships, motorcycles and Transformers.

"I can't believe he likes LEGO too. He even managed to construct such a difficult spaceship!"

Renee once again discovered something they had in common, which was their passion for LEGO.

She stared at the LEGO spaceship in the glass cabinet in shock. It was over a meter wide and was made up of 9999 pieces of various sizes. Unless someone was really passionate about LEGO, they would not have the patience to complete it.

Renee loved that spaceship model too. She had always wanted to attempt to construct it, but she could never find the time. Moreover, the spaceship was a limited edition model, with only 99 sets available worldwide. She missed the timing and was still eagerly waiting for the second release so that she could buy a set!

Now that her "dream spaceship" had appeared before her, she wanted to touch it. She could not help herself.

She put down her phone and was about to open the glass cabinet when suddenly, her keen ears detected the sound of footsteps coming from the door, accompanied by the sound of people talking.

She instantly got nervous. Was Stefan coming to the Hunt Residence today? No way her luck would be that bad, right? She did not have much time to react. She looked around in panic and could only slip under the bed.

"You brat, you're finally willing to come back. I heard you've been living the good life lately, getting very close to that lass from the Murphy family. Old man Murphy has come to me several times to drop hints. What are you planning to do?"

Grandpa Timothy asked Stefan sternly. He walked slowly, supporting himself with his cane. Although he was limping, he exuded a powerful aura.

"What was he hinting at?"

Stefan took off his suit jacket and hung it on a solid wooden coat rack. His voice was nonchalant.

After all, he got scolded by the old man every time he came here. Sometimes, he would even get beaten. He had long grown immune to the old man's scolding. It went in one ear and out the other.

"You damn brat, stop feigning ignorance! What do you think he was hinting at?"

Grandpa Timothy glared at his precious little grandson and cut straight to the chase. "He asked me, what's going on between you and his precious granddaughter? Why have you two grown so close? I heard Seraphina has even moved in with you. That manor belongs to you and Ren. How could you let another woman stay there? What are you young people doing?"

"She came to my house for a barbecue the other day and accidentally burned her foot. She had a hard time walking, so I let her stay at the manor for a few days. You know very well what our relationship is. We're sworn brothers."

Stefan explained to Grandpa Timothy.

The Untouchable Ex- Wife

Chapter 707

Although Stefan was cold and unfriendly, he always treated his elders with respect and patience, especially his grandfather who doted on him ever since he was a kid.

“Brothers my foot! You’re a man and she’s a woman. If you live together for a prolonged period of time, even if you’re innocent, people would talk. That’s why Old Man Murphy is so anxious. He’s asking me for an explanation every day.”

Grandpa Timothy was anxious too. Years had gone by, but his grandson would not reunite with Renee nor start a new relationship. Did he want to remain single his whole life?

Then the Hunt family line would end with him!

“I don’t have any other explanation except that we’re brothers. If we had feelings for each other, we would have gotten together a long time ago. I believe Seraphina has no special feelings for me either, so stop speculating.”

Stefan spoke calmly. He was a bit tired, so he wanted to take a shower and get a good night’s sleep. His gaze suddenly fell on the anime merchandise on the desk. His thick eyebrows furrowed slightly. He keenly noticed that Luffy’s position had shifted.

Someone had moved him.

It could not have been the servants.

His room was strictly off limits to the servants. He did not need the servants to clean his room for him. He would clean it himself regularly.

It could not have been his grandfather either.

The old man hated Stefan’s room. He would always make a fuss whenever he came in here and would try to leave as soon as possible. He said the room was so childish that it gave him a headache.

It could not have been his parents either.

Those two had left him completely to his own devices ever since he “came back from the dead” and regained control of the H Group. They were currently on vacation in Europe. There was no way they would come into his room.

So, who would dare to... break into the Hunt Residence and more importantly, break into his room?

The security of the Hunt Residence had always been tight. Ordinary burglars would not be able to break in at all, nor would they have the courage.

Therefore, Stefan concluded that the intruder was not here to steal money. Could it be an assassination?!

His expression suddenly became serious.

“Grandpa, it’s getting late. You should go to bed.”

Stefan planned to send the old man away first, then conduct a thorough investigation. If there really was someone hiding in his room, at least it would not frighten the old man.

“No, I can’t sleep until your problem is solved.”

Grandpa Timothy sat down on the sofa and continued to pressure Stefan. “You have two options... One, remarry Ren. Two, marry Seraphina. You’re almost thirty now, so you can’t stay single anymore. I need a great grandson!”

“In my opinion, Ren is still the best wife for you. Even though she’s way out of your league, you can still pursue her back if you work hard. Seraphina is a good lass too. She visits me often. But she’s no match for Ren. I’ve always regarded Ren as my own granddaughter. I’ve been hoping for years that you two would get back together...”

Renee, who was hiding under the bed, was moved to tears upon hearing what the old man said. She was completely unaware that Stefan had already discovered her from the reflection in the glass.

The Untouchable Ex- Wife

Chapter 708

Renee did not know that the glass of the cabinet containing the various LEGO models had a special surface. It was not reflective from the front, but it was reflective from the side.

Coincidentally, Stefan happened to be standing to the side of the glass cabinet. He only had to lower his gaze slightly to see Renee, who was hiding under the bed.

After discovering that the person hiding in his room was not an assassin but was just Renee, Stefan suddenly did not feel tired anymore. As if he had been injected with stimulants, he suddenly felt really energetic.

His thin lips unconsciously curled into a smile.

Unless he was mistaken, she must be here to steal the Rainbow Glaze. What a crude solution she came up with! Stefan gently raised his thick eyebrows, determined to play a trick on her.

He sat on the sofa and crossed his legs, sitting elegantly.

He rubbed his forehead with his long fingers and shook his head helplessly. He started complaining to Grandpa Timothy, "Grandpa, you have no idea. I've tried to salvage this relationship before, but you don't know Renee. She's not the gentle and obedient woman that you think she is. The real her is a tigress. She bullies me a lot. My heart has long shattered into pieces..."

Renee: "....."

"What? Really?"

Grandpa Timothy took his words seriously. His aged face turned grave. "She bullies you?"

Stefan nodded, his eyes even turning slightly bloodshot as he exclaimed, "She deceived all of you. When we're alone, she would hit me and curse at me whenever she felt like it. She would even splash wine or coffee at my face. However, I'm a forgiving person and I don't want to damage her image in your heart, so I chose to endure all this silently."

"What? Splash wine and coffee at your face? I find that hard to believe."

Grandpa Timothy frowned and looked skeptical.

He did not believe that Renee, who was always as gentle as a rabbit in front of him, would splash wine and coffee on someone's face.

"Grandpa, you know I never lie. If you don't believe me, you can ask her yourself. Call her right now."

Stefan suggested.

Call?!

Renee's heart sank. She quickly pressed her phone's power button with her thumb to turn it off.

If Grandpa Timothy called her right now and found her lying under his grandson's bed, she would be so embarrassed that she would kill herself!

However, her phone decided to lag at that crucial moment. No matter how long or how hard she pressed the power button, there was no reaction. It would not turn off the phone nor turn on the screen.

"Do you want me to call her and ask? If you want, I'll call her right now."

Stefan took out his phone and asked Grandpa Timothy seriously.

"I don't believe you. Call her."

Grandpa Timothy did believe that his docile granddaughter-in-law may have a strong and aggressive side to her. She was General Everheart's granddaughter after all. She could not be that meek. It was in her blood.

But he would never believe that she would splash coffee and wine on his grandson's face.

She loved his grandson too much to do that!

"Okay, I'll call her."

Stefan slowly searched his contact list for Renee's number.

Renee was so anxious that her forehead was covered in sweat. She debated whether she should crawl out from under the bed to turn herself in.

"Actually, forget it..." Stefan suddenly said.

The Untouchable Ex- Wife

Chapter 709

“Why? I knew it, you’re lying. You’re slandering her.”

“That’s not it.”

Stefan continued to complain and paint himself as the victim. “I just remembered that she blocked me. See? Not only did she splash wine and coffee on me, she also blocked off my attempts to make contact with her... She’s giving me physical and mental abuse. No matter how strong I am mentally, I’d still feel sad and hurt.”

Oh, that’s right, she already blocked him a long time ago. His calls could not reach her. Renee heaved a sigh of relief, but what he said next made her furious.

That bastard! He’s completely slandering her!

He made it sound like she’s a cold-blooded demon while he’s an innocent angel. He never explained why she blocked him in the first place and why she would splash drinks on his face!

“I’ve tried my best to win her back. I gave her my everything, but she...”

Stefan covered his handsome face with his large hand. Depression and pain enshrouded his body. He looked like he was on the verge of tears. “Grandpa, I’m so hurt, so tired. I can’t deal with her at all. What should I do?”

Grandpa Timothy had always been a shrewd man, but his grandson was even shrewder. He could not help being deceived.

The old man let out a long sigh and patted Stefan on the shoulder, comforting him. “Don’t feel too bad. I know women are really hard to understand. As long as you’ve tried your best, that’s enough for me. Ren is the one in the wrong here. I’ll give her a talking to. I won’t let her keep hurting you...”

Renee clenched her fists and gritted her teeth. She thumped the floor a few times in anger. She was going to explode!

‘Aaah, Grandpa Timothy, don’t believe him! When have I ever bullied him? How can I bully someone who’s as cunning as a fox and as cold as an iceberg?!’

Renee secretly decided that after she escaped, she must tell Grandpa Timothy the truth as soon as possible to give Stefan a proverbial slap to the face.

Grandpa Timothy finally left Stefan’s room. The room suddenly became really quiet.

Renee held her breath and dared not move an inch. She felt even more nervous now.

Her eyes were glued to Stefan’s feet. She wanted to be aware of his position at all times in order to find an opportunity to escape.

But that bastard Stefan would sit on the side of the bed from time to time, as if he was deliberately toying with her. Every time he did, it would scare the hell out of her. Then, he would walk away, but never too far off.

After repeating this a few times, Renee could not take it anymore. She debated whether she should just rush out of the bed and get it over with.

When she saw him take off his shirt to go take a shower, she finally heaved a sigh of relief. She planned to leave as soon as Stefan walked into the bathroom.

But before he did, his phone suddenly rang.

The caller was Seraphina, the other option Grandpa Timothy gave Stefan.

As Grandpa Timothy said, both the Murphy family and Seraphina were very anxious. They hoped the matter between Stefan and Seraphina could reach a conclusion soon. If the two strong families could unite, the future would be bright for them.

Stefan returned to the bedside, picked up his phone that was charging, and accepted the call.

“Lil’ bro, are you home?”

Seraphina asked in a cheerful voice. “What’s the matter?”

“To thank you for taking care of me, I’ve got a surprise for you. Trust me, you’ll love it.” “If you’re home, I’ll bring the surprise over to you right now!”

Stefan was not interested in the so-called surprise, but thinking of the “audience” under the bed, his thin lips curled into a smile and he said eagerly, “I’m at the Hunt Residence. You can bring it here!”

The Untouchable Ex- Wife

Chapter 710

Who was that? Bring what here?

Renee could not hear the conversation very clearly from under the bed.

But what was certain was that she would have to stay under the bed for a lot longer.

‘Damn it... Are you serious? I’m not gonna be stuck here all night, am I?’

Renee thumped the floor in frustration. She was gonna go crazy!!!

About ten minutes later, Seraphina knocked on the door of Stefan’s room.

“That was quick.”

Stefan expressed his surprise when he opened the door.

“Of course!”

Seraphina’s smile was as bright as the sun. She pounced on Stefan, put her arms around his neck, and said, “I actually called you after I’ve already reached the Hunt Residence. I knew you must be here, and I was right! We understand each other so well. We really are brothers!”

Stefan had long gotten accustomed to Seraphina’s intimate behavior. He did not feel like there was anything inappropriate with how she behaved.

He let the woman hug him and rubbed her freshly-styled hair, then said mockingly, “You came to my place so late at night and even styled your hair. Be honest... What kind of mischief are you planning?”

Seraphina’s cheeks reddened slightly with a faint blush. She deliberately said in a casual manner, “What? This is natural beauty, man. Have you fallen for my charm?”

“Oh no, you got me. I’m so fascinated with you that I’m losing my mind.”

Stefan hugged her back and joked.

They all liked to joke with Seraphina like this. In truth, they never saw Seraphina as a woman and had always treated her like a man.

From Renee’s perspective, she could see their legs being very close together. They hugged each other for so long and spoke so intimately with each other. Sure enough, there was something going on between those two!

Seraphina knew that Stefan was joking, but she could not help feeling moved. With a bright smile, she said, “You stinky brat, you have such a sweet mouth. As expected of my favorite lil’ bro.”

“I guarantee you’ll like the present I got you. You’re gonna become even more infatuated with me after you see it!”

After declaring that with confidence, she clapped her hands and told the two maids who were waiting outside the door, “Thank you. Please bring it in.”

The two servants cautiously carried a huge present into Stefan’s room.

“What is this?”

Stefan could not help feeling a little curious.

“Open it.”

Seraphina said with a smile with a hand around Stefan’s shoulders.

Stefan unwrapped the gift. When he saw what was inside, his eyes couldn’t help but light up a bit. He generously expressed his delight, “You do know me well. I love this gift.”

Renee stretched her neck to try and catch a glimpse of the present. She was so curious to know what kind of gift could make the CEO of H Group so happy.

“This is LEGO’s star product this year, the X3 spacecraft. As far as I know, they’ve only published the concept ads for it so far. Not only is it a limited edition product, it hasn’t even been officially released yet. How did you get your hands on this?”

Stefan really loved the present. He asked Seraphina curiously while unboxing the LEGO set.

“You’re not the only one who’s fallen head over heels for me. That company’s boss is also one of my many admirers. It’s just a LEGO model. If I wanted it, of course he would give it to me.”

Seraphina raised her chin and said smugly.