

Ex Wife 1314

Chapter 1314

"Mr. Stuart, hold on tight. These mountain roads are rugged, so don't fall out of the car!"

Adam yelled at Xavier as he gripped the car railing tightly.

Xavier was speechless. His thick dark hair had become messy because of the wind, and it made him look even more attractive.

"Who is Santiago?" Xavier finally asked Adam, unable to contain his curiosity.

"Santiago is an actor, Mr. Stuart, and a very good one at that. He keeps a low profile and only appears while shooting films, so it's normal that you don't know him," Adam said loudly over the roaring wind, grinning widely at Xavier.

"An actor?"

When Xavier heard that, he felt even more frustrated.

"How old is he? What does he look like? What kind of man is he?"

"I guess he's two or three years younger than you. He's very handsome, and was definitely born to be an actor. He's a refined, melancholic Prince Charming. He's very attractive, so he has a lot of loyal fans even though he keeps a low profile. Miss Osborne is also a fan of his. She agreed to be our fixed guest just to shoot the show with him."

Adam enthusiastically chatted with Xavier, failing to notice his crestfallen expression.

Leia could not hear what they were talking about in the backseat because of the loud engine.

Suddenly, she stopped the car and got out quickly.

"The wildflowers by the road are so pretty. I want to pick some for Mr. Dalton. It's the first time I'm meeting him, so I have to give him a gift."

While talking, Leia leaned down and started picking some of the colorful wildflowers by the road.

The wildflowers swayed in the wind under the bright sunlight, creating a very beautiful scene.

Xavier grew more upset, and growled at her, "Don't you know that we can't pick wildflowers by the road? What a terrible citizen."

Leia had picked a small bouquet, and used grass to tie them up carefully.

She glared at him and said, "Don't you know that the more wildflowers you pick, the more will grow? It's better to look ahead instead of fixating on a tree that yields no fruit. I can pick whatever flowers I want, and I'm in a great mood!"

Adam wiped away his sweat anxiously.

'I don't think they're talking about flowers anymore..'

Eventually, they reached the entrance of the village.

A tall man in a white shirt, sunglasses, and black trousers was standing quietly under a banyan tree. His features were charming and he exuded a melancholic aura.

When the breeze ruffled his hair, he looked like a model posing for a shot.

"Mister...Mr. Dalton!"

Leia stammered as she sat in the pickup, holding the bouquet of wildflowers. She did not dare to get out of the car.

Xavier had never seen such a shy look on her, so he was very jealous.

Scowling, he shouted at Santiago, "Hey, there's a lovestruck fool waiting here for you!"

When Santiago heard Xavier, he looked over and smiled. He strode toward them, staring at Leia curiously.

"Oh, my! I'm so nervous!"

Leia's heart was pounding, and she blushed, unable to look at him.