

Ex Wife 1328

Chapter 1328

Xavier lifted his chin and said arrogantly, "I'm her boyfriend."

When he made that statement, everyone was in an uproar. It was shocking to see a big shot of the entertainment circle admit to a relationship so openly.

Leia was confused. She didn't expect that he would reveal this, and snarled at him angrily, "Xavier, are you out of your mind?"

Why did he announce their relationship to others at that moment? He even did it before her idol. He merely wanted to stop her from dating her idol. Damn it, how could he do such a cruel thing? She could not accept it at all!

"Did I say something wrong? We're indeed a couple. If not, why would we sleep in the same bed in the same room the first day we got here? I think anyone with a brain would get the idea." Xavier smirked, happy that Leia was so affected by him. At least she wasn't fawning over Santiago, and was focusing on him.

"I..." Naturally, Leia was at a loss for words. She knew that people would scold her regardless of what she said.

Santiago quietly sipped his wine and raised his brows. "If being in the same room with another person means that you're dating them, then wouldn't you be dating Miss White, Mr. Stuart? See, I can't tell whether your girlfriend is Miss White or Miss Osborne based on that condition. Or... are both of them your girlfriends? Are you having two lovers at the same time?"

Leia immediately figured out how to attack Xavier. "Yes, I did stay in the same room with you but there was only one room available at that time. We were left with no options because we didn't want to sleep in the cowshed, but we didn't do anything. You and Miss White stayed with each other for so many days, and you took such great care of her. You guys look more like a couple. Don't pull me into this mess, I'm single and happy!"

When Xavier saw Leia work with Santiago to cut off her relationship with him, his pride crumbled. He stood up coldly. "Don't forget what happened tonight. This is your choice."

After that, he turned and left.

That day, Leia and Xavier both returned to Beach City, but they went back separately. Leia called a cab. Xavier drove and took Shirley home.

It was a bumpy ride just like their relationship, and they had their ups and downs. At last, they were separated. It was afternoon the next day when they arrived at Beach City. Leia rushed to the hospital where Quinton was without any delay.

Renee was still waiting outside the surgical room, looking exhausted.

"Ren, how's everything?" When Leia walked out of the elevator, she saw Renee leaning against the wall. Leia felt sorry for her friend.

Renee was overjoyed when she saw Leia, and ran to her and hugged her as if she was her sister. "This is the last surgery. If it's successful, Quinton will be out of danger and he'll wake up."

During this period, Quinton had undergone three surgeries by Owen, and all of them had gone smoothly. It all came down to the fourth surgery and its result.

"How high is the success rate?" Leia asked nervously.

"I think it should be fine. Doctor Wagner has exceptional medical skills, and I trust him." While talking, Renee glanced at the surgical room and took a deep breath. "Not just anyone can hire him. If this surgery is successful, I have to thank that person properly."
