

Read I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2659

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2659-David gave this some thought.

It would definitely not work out for him if he spent too much time escorting them to the Imperial Capital.

Considering the speed of the convoy, if they encounter any difficulties along the way and are delayed, they may not be able to reach within three or five days, perhaps even eight or ten days.

This would mean months. Who could guarantee nothing would happen in Leila during this time?

Emperor Lufian was a ticking time bomb that could go off at anytime. He had to rush back as soon as possible.

“Madam Chandler, since you’ve discovered my identity, there is no need for me to hide it any longer. I was the one who saved you the last time you were in danger. I came here merely to find someone to have a chat with and cure my boredom. That is all. I currently have something very important to attend to and I don’t have the extra time to escort you to the Imperial Capital,” David rejected her as gently as he could. >

David was rejecting Leticia again.

Leticia felt her breath being beaten out of her as she almost fell to the ground.

She had thought that they had built up a rapport after spending two to three days together, and David would be willing to escort them to the Imperial Capital.

Leticia did not expect to be rejected so many times.

“Mas... Master David!” Leticia called out to him but did not know what else to say.

“Dave! Please help us!” Little Zion began begging as well.

“Madam Chandler, Zion, it’s not that I’m unwilling to help you out, but I really do have something very important that I need to do urgently. But I can offer you a choice right now.”

David was willing to give them a choice, and that ignited hope in Leticia.

“What is it?” Leticia could not help asking.

“I don’t have time to escort you with the convoy, but I can take you to the Imperial Capital of the Great Quinn Empire on my own. It depends on whether you are willing to accept this, or you can choose to travel with the guards out there. It is all up to you.” This was the compromise David offered.

He was short of time, and this was the only thing he could offer.

David could take Leticia and Zion straight to the Imperial Capital of the Great Quinn Empire before leaving for Leila. This would not take too much time.

“I choose the first choice, Master David. Please take me and Zion to the Imperial Capital,” Leticia immediately replied without a second thought.

Their guards were all wounded. They could not escort them safely to the Imperial Capital.

If they encounter another ambush like the last time, all of them would probably end up dead.

Leticia could not leave without David.

If she did, they might never make it to the Imperial Capital.

Leticia was not stupid.

She knew what the right choice was.

“Are you sure? If you let me take you to the Imperial Capital, you won’t be able to prove your identity. That might incur unnecessary trouble. You have to think this through,” said David.

“Don’t worry, Master David! We have a way to prove our identities. All you need to do is to bring us to the Emperor of the Great Quinn Empire.”

“Alright! Since you agree to this, we won’t waste any more time. Let’s go right now!” David stood up and said.

“Master David! Please let me inform Captain Himmel and the others about this. Those guards had given everything they had to escort me and Zion safely to this point. Most of them have been sacrificed, and those left are wounded. I can't leave without informing them," Leticia begged in a soft voice.

*

"Sure!!! Go ahead and tell them! We have to leave as soon as possible."

"Thank you, Master David!!!" Leticia replied happily.

She could not disappear quietly and leave Captain Himmel and the others in the lurch.

Leticia went out of the carriage soon after.

The convoy was still moving speedily ahead.

"Captain Himmel!!!" Leticia shouted at the person at the front of the convoy.

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2660-When he heard her voice, the man riding an unusual beast immediately turned and came to Leticia's side.

"What do you need, Madam?" Captain Himmel asked respectfully.

"Captain Himmel, thank you for escorting me and Zion safely so far. Without you, Zion and I would have died many times over. Don't any of you worry because no matter how high a position Zion gets to, he will never forget what all of you did for him." Leticia was sincerely grateful.

"This is nothing, Madam! It's our duty to escort you and the young master safely to the Imperial Capital. In fact, it's been hard on you during this time with all the shock you've suffered," Captain Himmel immediately replied.

"Don't say that, Captain Himmel. Too many of you have died to protect me and Zion. For the safety of the rest of you, I have decided to head to the Imperial Capital on my own. Once Zion and I leave, you can split the convoy into different teams to move. That way, more of you would be able to survive."

Leticia's words confounded Captain Himmel.

Did the madam just say she would leave for the Imperial Capital on her own?

What did she mean?

Before he was able to process her words, Leticia continued, "Captain Himmel, Zion and I will wait for you at the Imperial Capital. I hope all of you will arrive safely. Zion and I will be waiting there to welcome you."

With that, Leticia turned to enter the carriage.

It was only then that Captain Himmel snapped out of it and quickly asked, "What do you mean, Madam?"

Leticia did not reply because she was not sure if David was willing to reveal his identity.

Another voice came from inside the carriage.

"She means that I'll be in charge of taking her and Zion away first. You can split up your team and head to the Imperial Capital separately. That way, you would have a bigger chance of arriving safely."

David held Zion's hand and came out of the carriage after saying that.

"What are you doing, you rascal? I'm warning you, if you hurt Madam or Young Master, there would be no place in this world for you to hide," Captain Himmel warned him sternly.

Zion was a prince of the Great Quinn Empire, the only heir to the throne.

Madam was the Emperor's woman.

Their noble status was not something David could trifle with.

Captain Himmel's words attracted the attention of the other guards.

Everyone surrounded them while giving David hostile looks.

They did not have a good impression of David from the very start.

However, they did not dare go against the Madam's orders before this.

Yet, now, David wanted to leave with Madam and Young Master?

That was not possible.

If that fellow decided to do bad halfway through their journey, the Madam and the Young Master would be trapped with nowhere to get help.

They could not allow such a thing to happen.

This would implicate everyone's life and fortunes.

'This is a big world. Do you really think there is no place for me to hide?'

David smiled and repeated that sentence. He looked up at the sky before continuing.

"Captain Himmel, your idea of the world and mine are different. Your world is limited to the Great Quinn Empire, my world is the vast and limitless Universe and Galaxy. Do you think they are comparable?"

He did not wait for Captain Himmel to process his words.

David immediately took Leticia and Zion with him as they slowly ascended into the air.

Captain Himmel had no time to think as he shouted.

"How dare you!! Put Madam and Young Master down!!!"