

Chapter 38 Liam's Counterattack

Julie was still in Liam's office when she received a phone call.

She looked at the screen of her phone and said to Liam, "It's someone from the Lambert family."

Liam nodded. "It's business. Go ahead with your work."

Julie nodded, turned around, and left his office.

Then she answered the call. Andrew immediately said respectfully on the other end of the line, "Miss Fiber, I'm calling now because we want to confirm if it's true that you are willing to cooperate with us."

Julie frowned and said indifferently, "Yes, it's true. Mr. Hoffman and I made the contract together. Is there any problem?"

Andrew's eyes widened, and shock was written all over his face.

He turned to Vera and told the news in a low voice, covering the mouthpiece of his phone with his hand.

Vera was so thrilled that her hand holding the walking stick couldn't help trembling.

Andrew continued to ask, "Miss Fiber, did Liam beg you to give us this project? Or Kingland Group intended to cooperate with us in the first place?"

Julie didn't expect he would ask this question. Then she remembered the attitude of the Lambert family towards Liam.

If she told them that Liam was the CEO of Kingland Group, the Lambert family would definitely try to flatter him.

And if Yolanda knew who Liam really was, she would get back with him. With his feelings for Yolanda, it was not impossible for them to remarry.

Julie would never let this happen.

She paused for a moment and answered, "We think highly of the strength of the Lambert Real Estate Company."

What she said was true. It was just that she didn't mention Liam.

Now that Andrew got Julie's confirmation, he was overjoyed. He knew it! Liam was just a loser. How dare Yolanda lie! Liam and Yolanda were indeed a perfect match. They were both idiots.

He tried his best to restrain his excitement and immediately began complaining to Julie, "Miss Fiber, I know that Liam is working for you now. But he keeps claiming to be the CEO of Kingland Group. Isn't it a disrespect to Mr. Hoffman?"

If someone malicious hears it, I'm afraid it will be taken against you. You should talk to him about it."

When Julie heard that Andrew was slandering Liam again, she said coldly, "You don't have to worry about it, Mr. Lambert. You'd better focus on your own business. Your family should take this project seriously."

After saying this, she hung up the phone without waiting for Andrew to retort.

But Andrew was not unhappy, even if Julie hung up on him.

He felt like a general who had returned from victory. He said arrogantly, "Julie said Kingland Group gave us this project because they value us. Your ex-husband, Liam, is still a loser."

With these words, everyone looked at Yolanda mockingly. Yolanda could only lower her head and slump into the sofa, feeling weak all over.

Vera snorted coldly and said, "Even if it wasn't Yolanda who got the project, she still contributed to the family. What's that attitude of yours? Alright. William will be in charge of the project. Yolanda and Andrew, you two will be his assistants. As for the position of the vice president, we will talk about it next time."

The position of the vice president was gone just like that. Yolanda was extremely disappointed. Tears streamed down her face, wetting her clothes.

She took out her phone and sent Liam a message. "Liam, I trusted you so much. It's such a shame, you bastard! You didn't do anything to help me. Why did you lie to me?"

Liam was still in his office when he received the message. He frowned after reading it. His calm mood became irritable again.

He decisively deleted the message and sighed, "Out of sight, out of mind."

Liam looked at his watch. It was time to get off work.

He put aside his work and prepared to go to the bar to have a drink to vent his anger.

As soon as he got in his car, he opened the navigation and searched for the nearest bar.

Suddenly, he saw a familiar name.

He muttered, "Pandora Pub..."

Liam suddenly remembered that one of the people who banned him during the wedding was the owner of Pandora Pub.

"Booker Natt..."

He sneered and said, "You will be my first target then."

He drove his Maybach out of Kingland Group and headed for Pandora Pub.

At this moment, a Mercedes Benz also started at the basement parking lot, and it closely followed Liam's car.

The driver was none other than Klaus.

 I want no ads >