

Chapter 637 The Hell

Liam kicked the dagger aside without hesitation.

"Death won't come so easily for you!"

With a smirk, Liam moved in a flash of shadow, eliciting an even louder scream from Black Fiend. In an instant, all of Black Fiend's limbs were shattered.

After a gut-wrenching shriek, the intolerable agony knocked Black Fiend unconscious.

Just as Liam was about to proceed, a hesitant voice resonated from behind.

In a soft murmur, Yolanda said, "Liam..."

As Liam turned, his eyes met hers. The former lovers found themselves face to face once more.

Yet, with barely a glance, Liam exited the private room without saying anything.

As she watched his retreating form, Yolanda's emotions stirred, with unexpected resentment mingled with a tinge of lingering affection.

So, Liam was of such high standing.

What she'd once considered a fortune paled in comparison.

She had been oblivious all along. Now that she saw the truth, remorse consumed her.

Had she not left Liam, could her family now have been worth hundreds of billions of dollars, or even trillions?

She might have been the most content woman alive.

But the past was irreversible.

Emotions she hadn't felt in ages stirred within her, causing tears to leak from her eyes.

Once he exited the room, Liam didn't left the club. Instead, he teamed up with Yusuf.

Tonight, the Flower Club had become a living hell! Yusuf and Liam swiftly navigated through the Flower Club, snapping the necks of Blaze Gang members before they even had a chance to respond.

A lesser enemy like the Blaze Gang posed no challenge for even Yusuf, let alone for Liam.

Though the Black Spider members who accompanied Black Fiend were more formidable, they were still effortlessly eliminated by Liam.

Rivers of dark red blood cascaded from the fourth floor to the ground floor, turning the Flower Club into a nightmarish scene. No one among the Black Spider members escaped with their lives.

However, Liam and Yusuf spared the guests and the workers, except for a select few who were loyal to the Blaze Gang. For those, Liam showed no mercy. The rest were allowed to leave.

The chaos unfolded so quickly that the Flower Club was left in shambles within minutes. Afterwards, Liam and Yusuf retreated to their earlier private room.

What greeted Liam there took him aback.

Yolanda was on her knees next to Ms. Red, rummaging for something.

Eventually, she discovered a small bag of white powder from Ms. Red's underwear.

A gleam of euphoria crossed Yolanda's face. Though her hands shook, she adeptly ripped open the bag and inhaled its contents.

After she consumed the powder, Yolanda's demeanor shifted instantly. She seemed thoroughly pleased, and her actions grew increasingly erratic.

"Hahaha!"

She let out a maniacal laugh and began to roll around the room, eventually stopping next to Liam. She struck a pose mimicking a dog as though she'd found a new focus.

Wiggling her hips as if wagging an imaginary tail, Yolanda looked up at Liam.

Laughing uncontrollably, she groveled before him.

"Liam, please forgive me, alright? From this moment on, you're my master and I'm your loyal dog. Your wish is my command!"
