

Chapter 94 Tyler Pursuing Yolanda

As Liam walked out of the ward, his lips still tingling from Yolanda's kiss, he found himself lost in a daze. He couldn't believe what had just happened.

With a self-deprecating smile, Liam wondered, "What the hell was I doing?"

He took a deep breath, trying to calm himself down, as the frigid wind whipped around him in the corridor.

He knew he couldn't act on his impulses until he found out if Yolanda had cheated on him with Dennis.

Liam's mind cleared and he pulled out his phone to call Andrea. "Meet me at the cafe beside Kingland Group. I have something you'll be interested in," he said.

"Okay," Andrea replied, her voice sounding eager.

Liam hopped in his Maybach and made his way back to the Kingland Group.

Once there, he collected the necessary documents from Julie and headed to the cafe alone.

Upon arrival, he found Andrea already waiting for him.

Despite her attempts at light makeup, her haggard expression was difficult to hide.

As Liam sat across from Andrea, he decided to get straight to the point. "I plan to buy your shares in the Sunrise Decoration Corp."

Andrea was taken aback by his proposal and couldn't help but chuckle.

Her feelings towards Liam were complex and multifaceted, to say the least.

It was because of Liam that the Caldwell family was on the brink of bankruptcy and she was at the mercy of Jerry's wrath.

Despite this, when no one else cared about her, Liam had come to her aid and helped to clear up the rumors.

As she looked at Liam's attractive face, Andrea couldn't be mad.

She smiled and replied, "Even though I don't love the Caldwell family, Dennis is still my son. Why should I go against him?"

Liam had known that it was not simple to get those shares. After a brief pause, he handed over the documents to Andrea.

The truth was harsh, but everyone had the right to know. He let out a heavy sigh and said, "Don't you find it a bit too coincidental that you slept with Jerry after being drunk? Take a look at these."

Andrea's eyes widened as she read through the documents, each page unraveling another layer of Jerry's deceit.

Her once-rosy cheeks had now turned into a pallid shade, reflecting the shock and disgust she felt toward Jerry.

These papers were filled with damning evidence of Jerry's wrongdoing, including rape and infidelity.

Andrea had never been in love with Jerry, but she had always believed he was loyal and treated her well.

Now, she realized that she had been living a lie all along.

Liam, ever the level-headed one, poured her a glass of water and calmly suggested, "With these documents, you can secure more shares in the Sunrise Decoration Corp during the divorce proceedings. Then you can finally leave the Caldwell family and start a new life. What do you say?"

Overwhelmed by her emotions, Andrea tossed the documents on the table and sank into her chair. "What is there to think about?" she asked with a self-deprecating laugh. "I'll sell you the shares."

The memories flooded back to her of how her father had disapproved of her marriage to Jerry and even threatened to have him killed. She regretted ever pleading with her father to spare Jerry's life.

With a determined look in her eyes, Andrea turned to Liam and implored, "Will you accompany me to the Caldwell family's house tomorrow? I need to speak with Jerry."

"Okay." Liam didn't hesitate to agree. He didn't want her to face the wolves alone.

Meanwhile, in the hospital, Yolanda walked towards the bathroom in her hospital gown.

Suddenly, a well-dressed man caught up to her, his dark green suit impeccably tailored, his hair expertly combed.

With a bright smile on his face, he addressed her, "Miss Lambert, what a pleasure to meet you!"

But Yolanda was not impressed. As the most beautiful woman in Ninverton, she was used to men approaching her.

She looked at him with a cold expression and continued on her way to the bathroom, ignoring his presence.

However, the man was not deterred. He hurried after her and stood in front of her, presenting a business card with a charming smile.

"Don't worry, Miss Lambert. I just want to get to know you. I am Tyler Riley, the general manager of the Riley Group and the only heir of the Riley family."

As soon as Yolanda heard the words "the Riley family," her mind was filled with curiosity. Tyler Riley?

Wasn't he Dennis' cousin? Why would he come to see her at the hospital?

As she accepted his business card, Yolanda couldn't help but feel intrigued. "I have nothing to do with the Caldwell family now. What can I do for you?" Yolanda asked, trying to keep her tone neutral.

"It has nothing to do with the Caldwell family. To be honest, I'm here to see you, Miss Lambert," Tyler replied with a charming smile, making Yolanda's heart skip a beat.

Tyler's admission that he came to see her specifically filled her with a sense of warmth.

Though she had just started mending her relationship with Liam, she couldn't deny that Tyler was also a handsome and wealthy man who piqued her interest.

A smile tugged at the corners of Yolanda's lips as she asked, "Why do you want to see me?"

Tyler's words were like a gust of wind, rushing through the air with blunt force. "You know that Liam and the Caldwell family are enemies now.

I came to aid the Caldwell family, but I must confess, I've fallen deeply in love with you, Miss Lambert, ever since I laid eyes on your photo. Will you be my girlfriend?"

"What?"

Yolanda's reaction was one of shock and disbelief.

Though she never expected someone like Tyler to be taken with her so easily, the attention of a rich and handsome man was the fantasy of every woman.

Her heart raced with sudden joy, but she refused him politely, "Mr. Riley, we barely know each other yet. I cannot give you an answer at this time."

Compared with Tyler's impulsive approach, she liked Liam's calm and collected demeanor more. Yet, Tyler's pursuit tugged at her heartstrings, causing a flurry of emotions within her.

She had politely declined his advances, but she still wondered if they would have a chance to be together.

Despite Yolanda's polite rejection, Tyler remained undeterred. With an unwavering gaze, he declared, "My heart has already been captured by you from the moment I laid eyes on you. Regardless of your feelings towards me now, know that I will never stop pursuing you."

Yolanda was initially taken aback by Tyler's bold declaration of love, but as he continued to express his feelings, she found herself unable to drive him away.

As Tyler and Yolanda conversed in the corridor, Tyler's wit and humor drew out Yolanda's infectious laughter.

"What are you doing? Yolanda?"

Suddenly, a shout interrupted Yolanda's pleasant conversation with Tyler.

Frowning, Liam appeared out of nowhere and inquired in a stern voice, "Who is this guy?"

Tyler, who was not one to shy away from a challenge, stepped forward with a charming smile and explained, "This is a big hospital, and I was just asking where the director's office is."

Yolanda couldn't help but admire his quick wit and lied, "I had just stepped out to use the bathroom. He asked for directions and I helped him out. Let's head back now."

Without missing a beat, Yolanda took Liam's hand and led the way back to the ward, leaving Tyler to stare at their departing figures with a tinge of envy.

At this moment, Tyler's heart was consumed with a burning envy towards Liam, wishing he could replace him in Yolanda's grasp and hold her in his arms.

Initially, Tyler didn't pay much attention to the compliments about Yolanda's beauty.

He thought, how could a woman in a small city be that beautiful?

However, that all changed when he saw her photo, for he fell in love with her at first sight.

From that moment on, Yolanda became a constant presence in his dreams, even in his deepest slumber.

As he left the hospital, his mood was somber and his face reflected his disappointment. Tyler climbed into his sleek Maserati, his mind filled with thoughts of Yolanda and her undeniable allure.

Dennis, sitting on the passenger seat, beamed with pride and bragged, "What do you think? Isn't she a rare beauty? Her charm is unparalleled."

As Tyler reminisced about Yolanda's gentle demeanor and alluring features, his throat went dry and he admitted, "Yes, she is indeed captivating. But tell me, have you ever slept with her?"

Dennis's answer was swift and firm. "No, never. Not me nor Liam. She's pure and untouched, a virtuous lady."

Tyler was filled with satisfaction as he burst into laughter and said, "Excellent. I will avenge you and vanquish the Kingland Group."

Dennis was effusive with gratitude, thanking Tyler repeatedly.

Dennis gazed at the colossal hospital and vowed to himself that Liam would pay dearly for his past deeds.

