

An Understated Dominance By Marina Vittori

Chapter 1836

“What? Escape from West Lucozia? Wouldn’t that mean giving up the throne to Dustin Kate?” Thorian Rhys looked ugly.

“As long as we keep the green hills, we don’t have to worry about running out of firewood. As long as we don’t die, we still have a chance.” Wen Wen said with sincerity.

“The throne has been snatched away, the military symbols have been taken away, and the 500,000 Black Dragon Army have all obeyed Dustin Kate’s orders. Under such circumstances, what chance do we have?” Zhou Bo shook his head.

If he had known that this would be the case, he should not have been greedy and entered into a marriage with the Rhys Family.

It’s better now. I didn’t take advantage of anything. Instead, I got myself involved, which puts me in a dilemma now.

“I think Marquis Wen is right, we must prepare for the worst in case of unexpected events.” Princess Elara nodded.

Although they don’t want to admit it, the current situation is very unfavorable to them.

If the military talisman really falls into Dustin Kate’s hands, then they will no longer have the capital to make a comeback and will have no choice but to leave West Lucozia.

With her status as the eldest princess of the Dragonmarsh Kingdom, even if she leaves West Lucozia and goes to Stonia, she still has a place, but her son will not be wronged.

“Of course, don’t be too pessimistic. General Shi’s strength is no weaker than Nangong Po. If we really get the soldier talisman back, we still have hope.” Wen Shun encouraged.

“You’re right, there are no absolutes in this world. We haven’t lost yet, so don’t be so sad and cheer up!” Cornelius Ao said loudly.

“Everyone, let me excuse you for a moment.”

Thorian Rhys hugged a few people and then turned around and walked out of the side hall.

Now he has no one to think about. The first thing he thinks of is his elder brother, Dustin.

In order to avoid exposing his identity, Thorian Rhys called Dustin, who was dressed as a guard, into his room, and then ordered everyone around him to guard the yard and not let anyone get close.

“Thorian, I saw a figure flashing across the roof before. Did something happen?”

After confirming that it was safe, Dustin was the first to ask questions.

“Yes, something happened.”

Thorian Rhys nodded and said solemnly: “Nangong Po is a traitor. He just snatched the marshal’s talisman and has already escaped.”

“What? The weapon talisman was robbed? How could this happen?” Dustin frowned.

“It’s my fault for being too careless.”

Thorian Rhys did not hide anything and simply told what happened.

After listening, Dustin nodded thoughtfully: “So that’s it... I didn’t expect that Nangong Po was actually a chess piece planted by Dustin Kate. Now we all made a mistake.”

“Brother, what should we do now? If we can’t get the military talisman back, the position of King of West Lucozia will probably fall into the hands of Dustin Kate.” Thorian Rhys said solemnly.

“It’s not that easy for Dustin Kate to become the king.”

Dustin shook his head: “Let’s stay put for the time being and wait for news to see if General Shi can regain the military talisman. If not, I will personally deal with Dustin Kate.”

“Brother, how are you going to deal with Dustin Kate?” Thorian Rhys asked tentatively.

“The secret must not be leaked. You will know it when the time comes.”

Dustin smiled and patted Thorian Rhys on the shoulder: “Okay, don’t think too much. You are tired from running around these two days. Go to bed early and keep your spirits up. We two brothers will tide over the difficulties together.”

“Yes!” Thorian Rhys nodded heavily, seeming to have regained his confidence.

After Dustin gave a few instructions, he left the room.

Those words just now were just to comfort Thorian Rhys, not wanting him to be too depressed.

As for the method, he hasn’t thought of it yet.

The capture of the military talisman was indeed a bit unexpected.

Even he didn’t expect that Nangong Po would collude with Dustin Kate.

You know, when the two of them went to the Wuling Marquis Mansion, Nangong Po took the initiative to be honest, without any concealment, and even killed Dustin Kate’s envoy to show his determination.

Chapter 1837

Now it seems that this is a bitter trick.

Dustin Kate not only knew their whereabouts, but also understood their intentions.

From the beginning, they fell into Dustin Kate’s trap.

Everything they did was what Dustin Kate expected.

Because of this, Dustin Kate was able to make arrangements in advance and ask you to enter the urn.

And its ultimate goal is to capture the soldier symbols.

In the final analysis, they themselves lured the wolf into the house and fell into Dustin Kate's plan, which led to the loss of the soldier talisman.

I have to admit that it is really extraordinary to be able to become the General of the West Lucozia Hussars and sit firmly below one person.

In terms of intrigue, they are still a little green.

Time passed quickly, and it was already dawn in a blink of an eye.

After a night of cleaning, the corpses in front of the palace gate have been cleared away.

But the blood stains that seeped into the ground could not be cleaned away.

The troops and horses of the four major princes have been placed in the city defense camp, not far from the palace. If there is any situation, they can provide support at any time.

Because of the loss of the military talisman, most people in the palace stayed up all night.

The Dragon Guards led by Shi Changning also chased him outside all night, but they have not been found yet.

After breakfast, Princess Elara called the three major princes together again and began to discuss countermeasures and inquire for information.

It's just that the situation is unclear now, and no amount of discussion will help.

Just when everyone was at a loss what to do, Shi Changning, who had disappeared all night, finally came back.

When they chased him out last night, there was a group of people. When they came back, only Shi Changning was left, and he was seriously injured.

As soon as he entered the meeting hall, he fell to his knees and vomited blood.

“General Shi! Why are you injured like this?”

Princess Elara’s expression changed, and she quickly ordered someone to help Shi Changning to the chair.

“General Shi, how are you? Did you catch the soldier talisman?” Zhou Bo asked immediately.

Compared to Shi Changning’s injury, he was naturally more concerned about the whereabouts of the soldier talisman.

“Princess, your humble position is a disgrace to your mission. Not only did you not catch up to Nangong Po, but you were ambushed halfway, resulting in the sacrifice of a team of dragon guards and the loss of their military symbols. Please convict the princess!” Shi Changning said in a weak voice.

“What? Didn’t you catch him?” Zhou Bo frowned and looked a little ugly.

“General Shi, you have tried your best, there is no need to blame yourself.” Princess Elara forced a smile.

Nangong Po was still impressed and must have been prepared in order to snatch the soldier talisman.

It is indeed difficult for Shi Changning to succeed if he catches up, and it is also easy for him to get involved.

“Princess! On my way back, the Black Dragon Army has already been dispatched. You hurry up and don’t delay. Otherwise, the army will overwhelm the border and it will be too late!” Shi Changning was a little excited.

While talking, he coughed up two mouthfuls of blood.

“General Shi, we have made corresponding preparations. You don’t have to worry. You are seriously injured. Go down and rest first.”

Princess Elara waved her hand and ordered someone to help the seriously injured Shi Changning up.

Just as Shi Changning left, a personal guard suddenly ran in the door in a panic.

“Princess! It’s not good! A large number of black dragon troops suddenly appeared at the gate of the royal city, and all the entrances and exits have been sealed!” the guard reported.

As soon as these words came out, everyone’s expressions changed drastically.