

Chapter 213 Punishment

---

With a slap on his face, Kenton fell to his knees.

"I slapped you because you are a social trash who even dared to mess up the orphanage."

After that Maison slapped Kenton again and it made him lose his front teeth!

"This is because you are so reckless that you didn't even take me seriously!"

"This is because... Damn it! I can't think of another reason. Anyway, I want to beat you up!"

As Maison wasn't well-educated, he couldn't think of another reason. Therefore, he just cursed.

Then, he slapped Kenton again.

Now, Kenton's cheeks were red and swollen and there were tears and snot all over his face.

At that time, he got so frightened that he immediately knelt in front of Maison and begged, "Please stop, Mr. Ellis. I'm really sorry. I was just a fool and a social trash."

Seeing that even their leader was beaten up by Maison, the other gangsters didn't even dare to breathe.

Trevor, who was standing still in silence, wasn't still satisfied with the result. In a cold voice, he said, "He even beat the orphanage director."

In an instant, Maison knew what Trevor was trying to say.

Therefore, he dragged Kenton into the orphanage.

The other gangsters looked at each other in fear, but none of them dared to run away. So, they just followed their leader while shivering with fear.

In the orphanage, the director was conscious and his wound was being bandaged.

The moment the boys heard the footsteps, they felt as if they were going to face the formidable enemies.

However, they were shocked when they saw that it was Kenton who was beaten up and dragged in!

They were in dilemma as they didn't know whether they should stop Maison or not.

Once they got in front of the injured orphanage director, Maison threw Kenton directly in front of him.

Stepping hard on Kenton's knees, Maison spat coldly, "Apologize!"

Obviously, Kenton didn't dare to resist his order. He cried and said, "I'm sorry. I was reckless. I shouldn't bully old people and children! I'm really sorry!"

When Maison stole a glance at Trevor, he found that he was still frowning. Instantly, he kicked Kenton hard again while saying, "Do you think you can solve this problem just by a mere apology? You should compensate him for the things you did to him!"

Immediately, Kenton took off all his gold and silver accessories on his body. Taking out his phone from his pocket, he said, "I'll compensate! I'll pay for all his medical fees!"

After that, he transferred all the money in his card to the account of the orphanage.

Maison couldn't help but think that it was still not enough. Therefore, he turned to look at his men and said, "Take this scumbag to the police station and let him tell them about what he did!"

After Maison's men dragged Kenton away, Maison glanced at the other gangsters coldly and told them to stay here and be volunteers.

Of course, none of them dared to disobey his order. Therefore, they could do nothing but to stay and work in fear.

Even though they had to do all kinds of jobs such as repairing the toilet and cleaning the building, they didn't dare to complain at all.

Nonetheless, the atmosphere in the orphanage was still very tense.

After all, although one of the bad guys was sent away, Maison who was more ruthless stayed behind. Everyone was still a little confused as they didn't know what intention Maison had.

Looking at the faces of the children who looked as if they were going to cry in fear, Trevor cast a dissatisfied look at Maison.

Only then did Maison come back to his senses. Scratching his head awkwardly, he put on an honest look on his face and said gently, "Oh, you must be the director of this orphanage. Actually, I'm here to be a volunteer. I was an orphan before. I came here because I heard that you need help."

After hearing his explanation, all the people in the orphanage finally understood and expressed their gratitude.

However, he didn't dare to take the credit. Therefore, he quickly looked away.

On the other hand, all the gangsters were dumbfounded as they had never heard that Maison had that kind of background.

The thing that surprised them the most was that the powerful leader of the underground in Jork was playing along with the children.

He even let one of the children named Dilan ride on his neck!

Truth be told, Maison didn't think that it was embarrassing to play with these cute children. Instead, he was even happy as he hadn't had this kind of feeling for a long time. Moreover, he wanted to get closer to Trevor so, he found an excuse to stay.