

Read I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2847

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2847-Thousands of people from Village Pescado moved into Village Pott.

Village Pott was renamed Townlet Pescado, and Cy became the first chief of Townlet Pescado.

No one dared to oppose David's powerful force.

This was the situation in Planet Gorgon.

Whoever had the biggest fist and the strongest strength would make the rules.

It was not just Planet Gorgon but the entire universe.

This was the law of the jungle, and the strong were respected.

After becoming the chief of Townlet Pescado, Cy had gained new vitality. His whole person changed.

This had been his dream all along.

When he was young, he wanted to develop Village Pescado.

However, he was limited by the poor and backward thinking of the villagers of Village Pescado.

Now, he finally got his wish.

Although the way of realizing his dream was a little special, it was still a dream that came true no matter what.

Jade stayed in Townlet Pescado and tried to talk to David many times but was rejected every single time.

His current focus was on how to restore his memory. How would he have the energy to argue with Jade?

Yet, Jade was a very patient woman.

Even though she was rejected many times, she refused to give up.

Perhaps she was genuinely interested in David.

One day, a middle-aged man came to Townlet Pescado.

Like David, he just hovered above Townlet Pescado without relying on any external force.

He was none other than Jade's father, Kian Sharpe, the mayor of Hive City.

He was also a powerhouse who could fly.

As soon as Kian reached the sky above Townlet Pescado, David went to meet him.

Even if his mind power is dormant and unavailable, David could still sense Kian's arrival with his instinct.

He saw a middle-aged man about forty years old when he flew up.

"Who are you? Why did you come to Townlet Pescado?" David asked.

"Isn't this Village Pott? When did it become Townlet Pescado?" Kian asked with a smile.

"Village Pott is a thing of the past. Now, this is Townlet Pescado."

"I see! My name is Kian, and I am the mayor of Hive City. I came to see you."

"See me? Do you know me, Mayor Kian?" David was delighted.

David thought the person before him knew him and his previous identity.

He had been trying to recall his past, but unfortunately, he found nothing.

"No." Kian shook his head.

"Then, did you come here to avenge Ouro? Or do you want to take back Townlet Pescado?" David frowned.

"Of course not! Who is Ouro? Do you think he has the power to make me do that?"

David was confused.

If it was not those reasons, then what was it?

He did not come here to see his son-in-law, right?

Yet, Kian did come forthat.

Jade had yet to return to Hive City since arriving in Townlet Pescado.

According to those who had returned and Kian's knowledge of his daughter, she was probably interested in David and stayed behind.

As Jade's father, of course, Kian had to come and take a look.

When he first saw David, Kian felt this guy was pretty good. No matter from every aspect, he seemed to be one in a billion.

However, this was just superficial. To really understand a person, one had to get in touch with them slowly.

"How about we find a place to chat?" Kian said.

"Okay." David nodded and did not refuse the other party's request.

The two then landed where David lived.

An hour later, Jade anxiously awaited her father on a hilltop outside Townlet Pescado.

She was afraid that her father and David would fight.

Jade would not be able to accept either of them losing.

Cherry seemed to sense her worries, so she persuaded, " Miss, don't worry, the mayor is just going to see Master David. There is no grudge between them, so there won't be a fight."