

Chapter 765 Unwanted Intruders

Just at that moment, the mother and daughter came again.

After spending a few days in their company, Liam had gotten to know them and also found out their names. The little girl was named Emmeline, and her mother was called Claudine. Emmeline's father used to be part of the Salvation Society but mysteriously disappeared years ago during a mission.

With the main breadwinner gone, Claudine and her daughter lost their stable source of income and couldn't afford the costs in the central area, so they had to relocate.

Now, upon spotting Liam, Emmeline eagerly exclaimed, "Good news, Liam! My mom and I just consulted with the Salvation Society, and they've agreed to accept you!"

Claudine also appeared content and took a card out of her bag, placing it in front of Liam.

"I've already handled the formalities for you. From now on, you're a member of our Genesis Island!"

Liam had seen these cards from Claudine and Emmeline before. They were issued to every resident of Genesis Island by the Salvation Society.

Although it was a small card, it held great importance on Genesis Island. Not only did it serve as proof of one's identity, but it also functioned as a payment card for transactions on the island. However, residents had to earn their own consumption points.

Liam accepted the card and once again expressed his gratitude and said, "You both have worked tirelessly on my behalf. I won't forget this kindness."

At this point, he felt more at ease, knowing that he now had a better chance of joining the Salvation Society by staying.

Just as he began contemplating further details of the test, a large group of people suddenly burst into the room.

Liam furrowed his brows. Leading the group was a young man who appeared to be around twenty years old.

Upon seeing Liam, the young man's eyes brimmed with hostility.

He turned to Emmeline and yelled, "Alright. Now I understand why you rejected me! It's because of him! I didn't expect a single mother and her daughter to be secretly harboring a man. You accuse me of lacking shame, but you two are the truly shameless ones!"

The moment the young man appeared, Claudine's and her daughter's faces turned extremely unpleasant, especially Emmeline's.

Her eyes were filled with anger and disgust as she gazed at the young man.

Now, in the face of the insults from the young man, Emmeline's face turned red with anger, and she sharply replied, "Shut your impertinent mouth! Liam was just injured, and we happened to save him. It's not as sordid as you're making it out to be!"

Liam, who stood nearby, also wore a stern expression. He clenched his fists discreetly as he slowly moved behind Emmeline.

Claudine and her daughter had shown him great kindness. Even though he hadn't fully recovered, he would not stand idly by if anyone dared to harm them. The young man scrutinized Liam and his eyes harbored even more hostility. Liam distinctly sensed a momentary hint of murderous intent from the young man.

After a brief standoff, the young man coldly said to Emmeline, "Alright, no matter what this useless guy is doing here, I won't pursue this matter today. Think about the conditions I mentioned earlier."

When she heard the young man's words, Emmeline's anger flared even more. "You're deluding yourself! I will never agree to your despicable conditions!"

The young man had now composed himself and sneered, "Don't get too cocky. I'm ready to participate in the test now. After it's over, I'll come find you. Things won't be the same as they are now!"
