

Chapter 1605 Audrey's Trick

Brandon was taking a shower in the bathroom. He curved his lips slightly and hurried up when he heard footsteps outside.

A few minutes later, he was done showering. Entering the bedroom, he saw "Janet" already lying under the covers. Drying his hair with a towel, he casually asked, "What did Audrey want? She didn't bully you, did she?"

"Janet" seemed sleepy and only reacted with a muffled sound.

Brandon hadn't detected anything unusual. He continued drying his hair on the couch and reassured her, "Don't worry, I'll send Audrey away tomorrow. She won't bother you anymore."

Even after his reassurance, "Janet" kept quiet, shifting only her body.

Brandon didn't think too deeply about her lack of response and thought that she was just really exhausted.

After drying his hair, he approached the bed slowly and teased in a gentle tone, "Feeling sleepy already?"

"Hmm..." "Janet" gave another muffled response.

It then struck Brandon that something was amiss. Typically, Janet wouldn't go to bed this early. She wouldn't ignore him when he was speaking to her too.

His pupils immediately shrank, and he became more alert. He looked around searchingly and realized an extra bottle on the nightstand.

This bottle seemed... familiar.

Brandon took a step back abruptly.

This was the medicine bottle that Jeremy often used!

That meant the person in bed wasn't Janet at all!

After a brief moment of panic, Brandon quickly regained his composure. He quickly turned around and headed for the door.

Hearing footsteps gradually fading into the distance, Audrey's heart tightened. She wondered if her intentions had been exposed. However, before the door closed, she heard Brandon say, "Wait for me here. I need to deal with something in the study."

Audrey let out a sigh of relief. However, she couldn't help scolding Brandon in her mind for being so busy. It was in the middle of the night! Why must he still be busy with his business?

However, when she thought she could finally have him for herself, she relaxed and continued waiting in bed comfortably.

Meanwhile, after Brandon left the bedroom, he rushed towards the guest room. His heart was in his throat. He was afraid he might be too late, and something terrible might have happened.

The bodyguards were puzzled by Brandon's fluster. When they were about to greet him, he had already kicked the door open.

When the door opened, Brandon saw Janet lying naked on the couch. "Don't come in!" he shouted as he closed the door hastily, blocking the guards' view.

The moment Brandon saw Janet unconscious and naked on the couch, he wished he could kill Audrey immediately.

But this wasn't the right time to settle scores. He quickly removed his shirt and wrapped it around Janet's body before lifting her gently onto the bed. After covering her with the blanket, he instructed the guards to call the doctor over.

Although the guards had no idea what had happened, they understood the urgency and anger in Brandon's voice. Without hesitation, they went to fetch the family doctor.

A few minutes later, the doctor rushed into the guest room and gave Janet a thorough examination. When he was done, he breathed a sigh of relief and informed Brandon calmly, "Mrs. Larson is fine. She's just been drugged. The effects will wear off tomorrow, and she will naturally wake up."

Brandon looked at the unconscious Janet, and his heart was still filled with concern. "Will the drug harm her body in any way? Do we need medication to wake her up?"

The doctor shook his head and said, "Her physical condition is unstable. I don't recommend medication. It's better to wait for her to wake up naturally. The drug is a harmless sedative that is commonly used."

Brandon breathed a sigh of relief when he heard the doctor's assurance. However, as soon as he calmed down, he felt anger start surging in his heart.

How dare Audrey do this to Janet? She must pay for this!

Brandon tucked Janet in and returned to his bedroom with a heavy heart, his bodyguards following close behind.
