

The Day I Kissed An Older Man by Cher the Cherished

Chapter 1018

“We made several calls to each other today to talk about how to get rid of Corinne, how to make it seem like we weren’t the culprits, and how to make sure she’s dead before asking for help... Anya was involved from the start. In fact, she taught me everything,” explained Rosie.

Lucas took Rosie’s phone and, after scrolling through the call history, noted the many phone calls made between both girls. Thus, he started to believe Rosie over Anya.

As disappointed as he was with Anya, he never expected her to be so vicious and cruel. Not only did she get rid of Corinne, but she was smart enough to get Rosie to do all the dirty work!

Lucas glared at Anya. “How do you explain the call history if you had no part in this, Anya? Is there no end to your scheming ways?!” roared Lucas.

Anya was so frightened that she started trembling. Still, she kept up the act.

“I knew it, Lucas! I knew you’d rather believe someone else’s words over mine... But I can explain the call history,” she whimpered, wiping away her tears. “All the calls were me trying to talk her out of hurting Corinne. She promised me she wouldn’t do anything stupid after I exhausted myself reasoning with her. But as you can see, she went back on her promise!

“And the last call she made to me was to ask me to come to the hospital to save her after you all started suspecting her. I told her I wasn’t going to do that ’cause it’d be wrong for me to hide a crime!”

Rosie laughed hysterically when she heard what Anya said. “I can’t believe you said all that with a straight face! You tried to talk me out of hurting Corinne? As if! You were fanning the flames! You couldn’t wait for Corinne to be dead so you can get back with Jeremy!”

Anya looked at Rosie disappointedly. “Rosie, must you drag me down with you? Besides, the call history alone isn’t enough proof to say I was involved with the planning. After all, you could be lying about what we talked about during the phone calls.”

Rosie scoffed. “I could say the same about you!”

Anya sighed. “That’s where you’re wrong, Rosie,” she said sadly. “I have proof.”

Rosie was shocked. “You have proof? What proof do you have? Stop lying, Anya!”

Anya sniffled pitifully and wiped away her tears before taking out her phone from her pocket. “I’m not lying. I do have proof, and it’s in my phone!”

Rosie frowned in confusion. “What is it, then? Don’t tell me it’s a call history too!”

“No. I secretly recorded all of our phone conversations. I never intended to use them, but you left me with no choice, Rosie.”

“You recorded all of our conversations?” Rosie started to think back to all the things she said during the phone calls. “Well, that’s even better! Everyone can hear for themselves which of us two is the one telling the truth!”

Rosie snatched Anya’s phone away from her hand. She played the recording at full volume. “Listen to this, Lucas. Then you’ll see Anya was the one who taught me how to get rid of Corinne!”

The recording started off normal. It was just regular chit-chat between two best friends, but then...
