

The Day I Kissed An Older Man by Cher the Cherished

Chapter 236

Chapter 236

Annie burst into laughter as she hugged her abdomen, her head raised in laughter. “Was I talking about you? I didn’t mention anyone in particular. What makes you think I was talking about you?”

Sunni’s eyes widened in anger. “You...

Before they could start arguing. Corinne put a stop to it. ‘Alright. Keep quiet and eat your breakfast. Don’t speak when you’re eating, or you might choke yourself.’”

Annie nodded obediently and listened to what Corinne said. Sunny, on the other hand, looked at Corinne and snorted proudly before he continued eating his omelet.

Meanwhile, Rosie witnessed everything, and evil consumed her eyes. She had no idea what kind of tricks Corinne pulled to mesmerize Jeremy and control Annie, who had always been spoiled. Even Sunny was under her spell and listened to her.

The situation was dangerous.

Corinne looked pure and naive, but she was a far more powerful adversary than Rosie initially presumed.

The weather was good. The sky was cloudless, and the wind was neither too strong nor too weak; perfect for kite-flying.

Corinne held a swallow kite up high while Annie held the other end of the line and ran. Slowly, the kite rose to the sky.

The kite flew up in the air, and the two girls got together to extend the string even more. It was evident how much fun they were having.

Suddenly, Rosie came over with a butterfly kite and asked Annie with a gentle smile, “Hey, Annie. Can you help me to put this kite up in the air too? I can’t do it alone, and I’m not good at it either.”

Annie turned to shoot her a ferocious glare as the smile on her face vanished. She rolled her eyes and said unhappily, “Sorry, I’m not free. Don’t you see I’m busy flying this kite with Corinne? Go figure it out yourself!”

Rosie’s face froze. “Umm...”

Corinne looked over while she was organizing the kite string. She raised her brow. “Miss Rosie, if you don’t mind, I can help you to hold the kite. You can run and put the kite in the air yourself.”

Rosie looked at her in disbelief. “You’re that nice to help me?”

Corinne shrugged nonchalantly. “It doesn’t matter if you don’t believe in me.”

Rosie revealed her true self to Corinne yesterday, so there was no reason for her to fake it anymore. She would rather put the kite up in the air than let Corinne help her. Hence, she walked away by herself.

Annie was, of course, displeased. “Corinne, why are you talking to her after how she tried to hurt you yesterday?”

Corinne narrowed her eyes and said, “I think she’s up to something. If we don’t go along with her, #t’ll be harder to tell what she’s trying to do.”

Up to something? Annie looked at Corinne and asked, “What? Hasn’t she done enough?”

Subsequently, Rosie went to a place further away from Corinne and Annie. She pulled the kite and started to run. At first, the kite flew up a little, but it was not stable. A second later, it dropped to the floor.

Rosie did not give up and continued to run while dragging the kite and looking back. Suddenly, she tripped and fell to the ground, yelping in pain.

She struggled to even get up.

“Help! Someone, help me! Anyone...”

Sunny heard this, and he looked over. “Jeremy, Zeke, I think something is happening over there.”