

Chapter 402 Future Plans

Trevor finally had a deeper understanding of the Sanderson family.

But who would have thought that his father would have an even bigger secret to tell him?

Could it be that the Sanderson clan was actually a family of aliens?

Trevor calmed down and steeled himself for what his father was going to say next.

Ronald nodded as he said with a serious tone, "Did you know, Trevor? A family as powerful as ours is not invincible. In fact, there are three super clans in the world, and each one has unimaginable wealth."

Trevor hissed in response.

That was shocking to hear. There were two other business empires as huge as the Sanderson family's?

Despite his shock, Trevor had another terrible thought.

"Something is not right. Wouldn't the national government have noticed our existence by now? Would an economic entity like ours really not attract their attention and surveillance?"

"How clever you are, Trevor! You really are my son."

Ronald's lips curled up a little, but he didn't answer directly. Instead, he posed another question.

"Where do you think a person as agile as Bradley came from?"

Trevor's eyes widened as he came to his own conclusions.

What? Was that possible?

Bradley and his men were probably secret agents!

Seeing that his son had come to a realization, Ronald explained, "How could the government not attach importance to a family like ours? In fact, we have intelligence officers or special agents of the National Security Agency constantly investigating us."

"If that's the case, I should not expose the truth behind my identity, right?" Trevor asked, feeling a little like he had just been thrown a curveball.

He had planned on confessing his identity to Luisa!

Ronald smiled knowingly as if he could see through his son's thoughts. He patted him on the shoulder and teased, "Haha! Don't worry. Your identity is not really secret anymore. I will even help you if you want to take any initiatives to publicize it."

Trevor couldn't help but grumble under his breath.

He could tell that his father was teasing him.

Ronald chuckled upon seeing his son's unhappy expression.

Once he settled down, he became serious once more.

"Don't worry too much about it, Trevor. The Sanderson family is not one to be bullied. We have connections in several areas so you don't have to worry about our family getting picked on. Besides, money makes the world go round. In the end, talents like Bradly have become our subordinates, haven't they?"

Ronald and Trevor continued to converse on the sofa. Eventually, the third subject came up.

Ronald's investment in Jork was about to come to an end. Before leaving, he planned to hold a grand banquet for his son and to introduce him to other rich people in Jork and even from neighboring cities.

He had planned to do all this upon his return to Jork but was delayed by the Duffy family causing trouble.

Seeing that his son had no qualms about being one of the wealthy, Ronald naturally came up with this idea.

This banquet would send a warning message and effectively guarantee Trevor's safety in Jork.

The purpose of the banquet was to inform all the rich businessmen that Trevor was his son!