

Chapter 436 A Disguiser!

There was a continuous knock on the door.

Everyone was stunned. "Why is the police here?"

Keyla asked in surprise.

She turned to look at Balfour, who was still sitting on the sofa, and said, "I wonder what use the police are to us if they can't protect us when we need them.

But, Balfour, since the police are here now, take this opportunity to explain to them what happened these days!"

Having said that, she stood up and walked over to the door.

Just when she was about to open the door, Trevor, who had just come back to his senses, hurriedly stopped her.

He motioned everyone to be silent!

The next day after Balfour was pushed into the river, the so-called police arrived at the Burke family! Something was fishy!

Luckily Trevor had saved Balfour the previous day.

Otherwise, upon hearing the 'bad news', Rodney and his wife would hurriedly open the door for the person outside, wouldn't they?

Thinking about that, Trevor had a bad feeling that sent shivers down his spine.

However, he knew it wasn't time to panic and he quickly calmed himself down. Then, he said in a low voice, "You all keep quiet. I have the feeling the person outside may not be the police."

Those words sent shivers down everyone's spine and no one even dared to breathe.

Balfour was the one who really understood the implication of what Trevor had just said and was shaking so much his teeth were chattering.

"Trevor, w-what should we do now? Please save us!"

At this point, Luisa was so overwhelmed with fear that her hands and feet were cold. The situation was so scary that she had a hard time holding back her tears.

In fact, she too had just realized the extent of the danger awaiting them.

The people knocking at the door were probably the same people who tried to kill Balfour to keep his mouth shut! Rodney and his wife soon realized this too.

Their son's greed had gotten him into serious trouble. At this point, Rodney and Keyla lost the sense of direction. Considering the dire situation they were in, they resolved to take Trevor as a shield. After all, he was the grandson of the powerful Sanderson family!

"Okay, let me first contact Bradley,"

Trevor said with a serious look. He felt it was his duty to find a way out of this mess. He couldn't afford to panic. He wasn't only saving the Burke family this time. He was also saving himself.

If it were really bad people behind the door, he was probably their main target.

Otherwise, why would they have spent so much money on the investigation?

"Bradley, I am currently with the Burke family. Apparently I have been targeted by a gang or something like that. They went so far as to offer a reward for any information concerning me.

I'm certain that they are very cruel people. They are ready to do anything to achieve their goal and will not hesitate to kill to keep their secrets. I am in serious danger right now! I can't act rashly."

As soon as Trevor sent the last message, he received a reply from Bradley.

"I am already on my way. Don't worry."

Reading Bradley's short response, Trevor felt reassured.

He knew that Bradley was a capable man who was very dangerous in combat. If Bradley came then he had nothing to fear.

'It's really my luck that my father thought of leaving Bradley to watch over me.'

Trevor suddenly thought about what his father said to him before he left. Just a few hours ago, his father asked him to be careful and now, he discovered a plot against him!

Trevor felt that the Sanderson family was not as peaceful as he always thought!

Trevor decided to send another message, this time to Rhys.

He asked Rhys if the police in Jork had carried out any investigation concerning him.

Trevor wasn't very subtle in his messages to Rhys. He made so many assumptions that it would be really embarrassing for him if it actually happened to be the police standing outside the door at the moment.

However, Rhys firmly told him that he hadn't heard of any such investigation. Moreover, Rhys promised to send a police car to patrol there.

At this point, Trevor was almost convinced that the people outside the door weren't police.

Trevor took a deep breath and tried to keep his cool.

All of a sudden, the knock on the door stopped.

Had they decided there was no point in continuing to knock when they saw no one inside?

Trevor frowned and remained on his guard. He motioned for the Burke family to keep quiet.

He then tip-toed to the door to see what was going on.

He put his ear to the door and listened to the movement outside.

Everything was quiet outside, as if the person who was knocking just now had left.

But when Trevor opened the peephole to look outside, he was shocked.

Someone was peeping inside!

Suddenly, the doorknob began to turn open...
