

Chapter 865 An Overbearing Man

Fifteen minutes later, Beckett arrived at the zoo.

He was holding a large bouquet of flowers, followed by many bodyguards in black.

However, what he saw was something unexpected.

Beckett saw an elegant woman in a blue dress and a man. At a glance, she recognized that the woman was Harmoni. She was the woman he wanted to possess.

"How dare she hangs out with another man?" Beckett was annoyed by the scene. He glared at Trevor from a distance.

He found that Trevor and Harmoni were not alone and that Cecelia, Clarissa, Makenna, and Irene were as beautiful as Harmoni. His eyes lit up at once.

Beckett licked his lips and narrowed his eyes slightly.

He observed the people around Trevor. And he had a slight impression on Marion.

Beckett thought for a while. Then he remembered something.

The old man seemed to be the CEO of a local company in Mordor. It was just that his company was not as powerful as that of Beckett's father.

With this thought, Beckett walked towards them confidently.

Harmoni was busy talking with the others. Before she could react, a large bouquet of flowers was stuffed into her arms.

"Harmoni, come with me!" Beckett ordered. His eyes swept across the crowd and his mouth curved into a wicked smile. "Ladies, why don't you come with us too? Let's have fun together."

Harmoni was so startled that the bouquet in her hand almost fell to the ground.

She didn't expect that Beckett would arrive so soon and would be so domineering.

Beckett was a rich man she met a few days ago. Through investigation, she knew that his family was one of the most powerful families in Mordor, and they had great influence.

However, Harmoni intuitively felt that Trevor had a more extraordinary background. He was more reliable than Beckett.

She looked at the overbearing Beckett. Then she put on a pitiful look and stared at Trevor silently.

When Trevor saw the expression in Harmoni's eyes, he guessed what was in her mind.

She wasn't as pure as she looked, but she wasn't a bad person.

Trevor felt helpless. She had helped him, so he wouldn't fall out with her for such a small thing.

However, Beckett was irritated when Harmoni looked at Trevor with a pitiful expression.

He was an overbearing and possessive man, so when he noticed her expression, his face darkened. He rudely grabbed her wrist, turned around, and pulled her to the gate of the zoo.

"Come on, get in the car with me."

"Ahhh!"

Harmoni couldn't help screaming when she felt the pain in her wrist. There was a look of panic on her face.

Although she knew Beckett, she was not very familiar with him. After all, they just met once. If he took her forcefully today, she didn't know what would happen to her.

What Beckett was doing was no different from kidnapping her in broad daylight.

Cecelia and Clarissa frowned, looking at the scene in front of them.

Makenna was even more nervous as she remembered that time when she was kidnapped by the Moran family in Mandalay. She turned to Trevor and called out softly, "Trevor..."

Trevor's eyes narrowed, looking at Beckett. He couldn't just ignore the situation. He immediately walked forward, grabbed Beckett's wrist, and forced him to let go of Harmoni.

"Sir, don't you think your rude behavior is a bit inappropriate?"

Beckett had already felt offended when Harmoni looked at Trevor with pleading eyes. And now that Trevor dared to stop him from taking her away, he got furious and roared angrily, "Who do you think you are? How dare you talk to me like that?"

Harmoni was still in shock. She subconsciously hid behind Trevor.

Trevor's expression didn't change at all. He said calmly, "You're being rude."

Beckett sneered, "You must be a bumpkin from another city, right? How dare you come to Mordor and meddle in my business? You must be courting death!"
