

The Ex-Husband's Revenge By Dragonsky

Chapter 1929

Chapter 1929

"Bast*rd, what do you think you are doing?!" Darius was livid when he saw that Gordon was about to grab Snow and instantly released his energy at Gordon.

"Baam!"

Gordon was not given the chance to react and was sent flying, before spewing blood from his mouth when he landed on the ground.

Since Darius only meant to stop him from assaulting Snow, he did not attack in full force, or Gordon would have suffered more than a little injury.

Darius ignored Gordon and strode over to Snow worriedly. "Miss Poole, are you alright? Has he injured you in any way?"

"I'm fine, but why are you here, Mister Hughes?" Snow asked in confusion.

"Well, Mister Wolf asked for my help to rescue you," Darius explained.

Though this was Gordon's personal property, Darius knew a lot about Gordon as his brother-in-law.

As soon as he received the call from Leon, he immediately sent his men to look into Gordon's location and found out shortly after that Gordon brought Snow to his mansion. Hence, Darius immediately hurried over by a car.

"I see!" realization dawned on her and she beamed in relief.

She wished for Leon to come to her rescue; though he failed to arrive in time, he managed to get Darius' help to save her from Gordon and she could not begin to describe her excitement.

"Miss Poole, Gordon has offended you! Don't worry, I'll get him to apologize to you!" Darius said, before turning to glare at Gordon sternly. "Get over here, you little bast*rd, and break your arm as an apology to Miss Poole!" "What?!" Gordon gaped.

He did not know why Darius would appear all of a sudden, but he was about to claim Snow and there was a high chance for him to obtain the commercial secrets of the Elegante Group and Cynthion Group. To his bewilderment, Darius barged in and destroyed his plan.

Darius did not give him any chance to explain himself and injured him right away, before demanding that he break his arm to apologize to Snow.

Gordon knew that he agreed to apologize, he would be admitting to the crimes he committed and both Darius and Elder Hughes would have him punished.

Knowing that he could not bear the consequences of his actions, he argued, "Darius, listen to me. This is all just a misunderstanding!"

Since Snow did not suffer any actual damage, he intended on arguing his way out of bearing any responsibility.

"Bullsh*t! I can see what happened, so how's this a misunderstanding? Just break your arm and apologize to Miss Poole! Have you gone deaf?!" Furious, Darius roared.