

Read Novel The Ex-Husband's Revenge chapter 2469

The Ex-Husband's Revenge chapter 2469

"Renee, speaking of the pharmaceutical industry, reminds me of something!

Jaxon Feaks is holding a bouquet tonight to auction rare herbs! Joshua and I plan on going. Would you like to join us?" Ariella asked, swiftly changing the subject.

"Sure! That's where Hugh and I plan on heading anyway! Let's all go together!"

Renee nodded.

She was slightly appalled by Joshua for what he said about Leon, but that did not affect her friendship with Ariella.

Moreover, Leon wanted to participate in the bouquet and she promised to go with him, so there was no reason for her to reject Ariella's proposal.

After dinner, the four drove out of the hotel and to the venue for the bouquet.

In a luxurious mansion on the outskirts.

This mansion belonged to Jaxon Feaks. It was spread over a great area with wonderful scenery. Surrounded by splendid lights, it looked majestic.

At the gate, two guards stood on each side to welcome guests who arrived.

When Leon, Renee, and the others arrived, luxurious cars were parked everywhere.

They arrived outside the mansion and Renee informed the guards her name.

The guards then escorted her and the others into the mansion.

"Mister Feaks' mansion sure looks grand!" Leon said as he walked past the yard, taking in the luxurious interior.

Though his house in the Heavenly Waters Estate was grand, it fell short in comparison to the mansion before him.

“What a country bumpkin!” Joshua sneered in contempt.

However, since Renee was still around, he dared not comment on it.

“Of course! The Feaks is a lineage that sells herbs and has accumulated a fortune bigger than most powerful families,” Renee explained.

Though the Feaks were hardly significant in terms of status, they were a giant in the pharmaceutical industry, which accumulated enormous wealth over generations.

While they could not compare with others in terms of strength in martial arts, even the Morrises, who were the head of the region, would fail to compare with them in terms of wealth.

“I see!” Leon said.

Cynthion Group was a pharmaceutical firm so he knew a lot about the industry and knew about the potential in this market. This was precisely how Cynthion Group gained its success.

Naturally, Cynthion Group was unique in the sense that it sold alchemical pills that were unique and irreplaceable. Hence, other pharmaceutical firms and the Feaks could only dream of achieving the same accomplishments as the Cynthion Group.

The only drawback for Cynthion Group was that it just started and had a relatively weak foundation. Hence, its influence fell short when compared with families that established themselves for decades.

Still, given its potential, Cynthion Group would rise in time.

The Ex-Husband’s Revenge chapter 2470-“We’re here! Let’s go in!

While Leon was deep in thought, the group traveled past the yard and arrived at the main hall.

The hall was crowded with guests who dressed their best, engaging in heated conversations.

Most of the guests were the younger elites from the western region, including heirs and heiresses.

Though the items to be sold included rare herbs that could help with martial artists' training, martial artists in the first and second generations were all too powerful for these herbs to be of any use.

Hence, Jaxon only invited younger individuals to participate instead of people from the first and second generations.

Without exclusive spiritual herbs, this bouquet would be considered an ordinary gathering for youngsters, who had a lot of common topics.

"Quiet down, everyone! The beauty of the western region. Miss Renee Morrison, has arrived!"

Just then, Renee and the others arrived and her looks instantly drew everyone's attention.

Someone shouted and all the guests focused on them and they became the center of attention.

All the men stared at Renee longingly and passionately.

"Miss Morrison, welcome. It's an honor that you came here," A young man in a suit, looking in his thirties, stepped forward from the crowd.

He was none other than Jaxon.

As the eldest daughter of the Morrisons, Renee held an extremely high status in the youngest generation and as the host of the bouquet, Jaxon needed to welcome her to express his respect for the Morrisons.

"You're too kind, Mister Feaks." Renee smiled.

"Oh, Mister Hacket and Miss Oxford. You're here as well. Welcome," Spotting Ariella and Joshua, he greeted them as well.

Since they were of equal status to him, he did not display the same level of enthusiasm as he did with Renee.

"It's been a while, Mister Feaks," Ariella and Joshua greeted politely.

After a brief exchange of pleasantries, Jaxon turned to Leon in confusion, unable to identify him. "And who is this?"

He was not the only one who wanted to ask this question. None of the guests knew Leon and they were all wondering why he was with Renee.

