

Chapter 796 Retaliation

Julie stood frozen, fear etched across her face as she witnessed the distressing scene in front of her. She took a step forward and hugged Asher, screaming in concern.

Tears cascaded down her cheeks as she anxiously asked, "Asher, are you okay?"

Seeing her son being bullied ignited a fierce protectiveness within her.

Furious, she demanded, "How could you harm a child so brutally? What if Asher is seriously hurt?"

Faced with Julie's fury, Roy's mother replied with disdain, "He bit me first. Why can't I discipline him? Like mother, like son. Your child displays your traits. And now you're defaming me. How absurd!"

Julie's anger intensified as she held Asher tighter and countered, "I know my child. He wouldn't bite you without a reason. You must have provoked him."

With red-rimmed eyes, Julie softly asked Asher, "Tell me, why did you bite her?"

During that moment, tears lingered in the corners of Asher's eyes, and he cried as he explained, "She called me names and said horrible things about you. She even insisted I didn't have a father!"

This revelation sent Julie into a rage. After consoling Asher, she confronted Roy's mother coldly. "Why would you say such things to a child?"

Roy's mother remained contemptuous and said, "So what? What I said is true!"

Roy, standing nearby, echoed, "My mom's right. Asher's a bastard! When my dad returns, I'll have you all thrown out!"

Unnoticed, Liam's expression darkened.

His beloved son was being mistreated like this!

He realized this must have been ongoing.

He felt immense regret for the injustices Julie and Asher had endured.

In a fit of anger, he approached Roy's mother.

Just then, Roy's mother noticed him.

"Apologize," he demanded icily.

Roy's mother trembled at Liam's cold gaze, but she quickly regained composure.

"How dare you barge in and shout at me? Leave or I'll call security!"

Sneering, Liam said, "If you won't apologize for harming my son, I'll make you."

He shielded Asher's eyes before delivering a forceful kick, sending Roy's mother crashing into the wall.

Despite restraining his strength, the impact caused her severe pain, spiting a mouthful of blood.

Writhing in agony, the haughty woman clutched her stomach and wriggled on the ground. Once the pain subsided enough for her to rise, her expression contorted with intense anger.

"You!"

She shook and pointed at Liam with a trembling finger, rendered speechless for a while. She hadn't anticipated that Liam would dare to physically attack her in such a manner.

Unbeknownst to her, Liam had exercised considerable restraint and displayed mercy in that moment. If not for Julie's relation to her, he might have chosen a more severe course of action.

As a consequence of the kick, Roy's mother sustained damage to her uterus. This would make her have irregular menstrual cycles and also rendered her incapable of conceiving in the future.

This was the consequence of her actions against Asher—an irrevocable price she had to pay.