

Chapter 802 Cooperation Crisis Resolved

"Well..."

Julie was both flattered and left speechless.

Quick to respond, Yesenia gracefully took the contract, her voice dripping with admiration. "Please don't misunderstand. It's truly an honor for us to collaborate with Joy International Media. We're more than eager to proceed with this partnership."

It was common knowledge that with Pearl Company's collaboration with an international powerhouse like Joy International Media, concerns about securing loans became obsolete.

The Pearl Company, having secured backing from an international entity, would likely find numerous banks eager to extend loans. This support promised a straightforward resolution to their pressing loan crisis.

Casper's expression twisted with confusion as he cautiously addressed Aidan, "Mr. Torres, are you certain about this? The Pearl Company is relatively small, and its partnership with the Star Culture Company recently ended. Collaborating with them might lead to significant losses for you."

Upon hearing this, Yesenia couldn't contain her frustration.

She couldn't allow Casper to disrupt the situation like this. Rushing forward, she fervently clarified, "Mr. Torres, please disregard his baseless claims. Julie personally designs our clothing, and they are not only stylish but also of impeccable quality. Our products enjoy a favorable reputation in the market. With Joy International Media's support, Pearl Company can overcome our current production and sales restrictions, ensuring a mutually beneficial outcome."

Unwilling to let Casper jeopardize the opportunity, Yesenia continued to sing the praises of their company, fearing that Aidan might reconsider the collaboration at any moment.

Little did she know, Liam was orchestrating the entire situation, and any delay in the agreement would only cause Aidan anxiety.

Aidan cast a cold glance at Casper, his words dripping with ice. "The Star Culture Company? Never heard of it. It seems like a smaller company with poor taste."

Following that, Aidan turned to the individual beside him and issued a directive. "Keep in mind, the Star Culture Company lacks good business acumen. If we encounter any future business collaborations or bids, we should not consider this company."

Upon hearing this, the manager from the Star Culture Company's marketing department and Casper were immediately gripped by panic.

The rejection by Joy International Media would be a heavy blow to the Star Culture Company.

Despair clouded the manager's eyes, and his legs gave way, causing him to collapse to the ground.

The partnership between the Star Culture Company and the Pearl Company had been smooth, with no apparent issues. However, upon accepting funds from Casper, the manager terminated the collaboration. Now, having placed the company in jeopardy, he not only could be fired but also could be sued by the board of directors.

Simultaneously, a shadow fell across Casper's face as well.

His entire scheme crumbled due to Joy International Media. The collaboration between Joy International Media and the Pearl Company now posed a formidable obstacle to future attempts to undermine Pearl Company's business.

Suddenly, the manager from the Star Culture Company's marketing department grasped onto Casper's thighs, pleading desperately. "Mr. Cortez, I followed your instructions. Please save me, or I'll be done for!"

Casper's face contorted with anger as he retorted fiercely, "What you did has nothing to do with me."

The manager's expression changed, his eyes reddening. "Casper! You're the one who pushed me to do this, and now you're abandoning me when I'm in trouble."

Before he could complete his sentence, Casper gestured to his subordinates, instructing them to drag the enraged market manager out of the hall.

Any further words from the manager would inevitably escalate the situation, potentially putting Casper in trouble.

Aidan exhaled a relieved breath upon seeing Julie read through and sign the contract.

Afterward, their detailed discussions flowed seamlessly, all guided by Julie's insights. The team at Joy International Media swiftly concluded the contract without internal deliberation and departed immediately.

Yesenia and Julie clutched the contract tightly, their faces beaming with joy.

Armed with the contract, they would no longer find themselves in the position of humbly seeking favors from others.

Still bearing the memory of past humiliations, Yesenia sneered at Casper. "You're not in a position to take down the Pearl Group."

With Pearl Company now in an advantageous position, Casper had no grounds for argument. He retorted fiercely, "Don't get complacent too soon. Let's wait and see!"

Afterward, Casper swiftly departed with his men, a mix of shame and anger etched on his face.
