

Chapter 820 A Grudge To The Bitter End

After witnessing the special forces take Ethan and others away, Shane's demeanor noticeably softened.

Due to safety concerns, he and the school executives had moved to a secure area when Ethan drew his gun. He was unaware of the conversation between Liam and Ethan regarding the Governor Bowen Harvey.

At this point, Shane just believed Liam had ties to the special forces.

Approaching Liam, Shane said, "You still have quite the connections, Mr. Hoffman. My earlier reaction was hasty. Let's resolve this for everyone's benefit."

He then signaled his son, saying, "Cyrus, did you hear that? Go shake hands with Asher. You two should remain friends and look out for each other in the future, alright?"

Though reluctant, Cyrus obeyed and extended his hand to Asher.

However, Asher angrily pushed him away. "I don't want to be friends with you!"

Observing this, Shane muttered, "Kids can be like this

Though reluctant, Cyrus obeyed and extended his hand to Asher.

However, Asher angrily pushed him away. "I don't want to be friends with you!"

Observing this, Shane muttered, "Kids can be like this sometimes. They'll be fine in a few days."

Liam scornfully interjected, "Don't expect things to change. Let me clarify this: your son will never be worthy of my son's friendship! And as I said earlier, you can keep this mediocre kindergarten for your son."

Liam scornfully interjected, "Don't expect things to change. Let me clarify this: your son will never be worthy of my son's friendship! And as I said earlier, you can keep this mediocre kindergarten for your son."

Subsequently, Liam swiftly scooped up Asher and departed from the kindergarten, taking purposeful long strides.

Observing Liam leaving, Shane clenched his fists in frustration, harboring deep resentment towards him.

Quietly seething, he muttered to himself, "How dare you embarrass me like this. Just wait, you'll see. Knowing a few special forces members doesn't give you the right to be so arrogant!"

Shortly after Liam left, Bowen called Liam again.

"General Hoffman, I've taken care of the situation. Chief Ethan just took his own life out of fear a moment ago."

Bowen spoke as he glanced at Ethan's body, which had several gunshot wounds on the back, allegedly indicating a 'suicide.'

Upon hearing this, Liam's sly smile appeared. He knew there was no way someone like Ethan would take his own life. Liam instinctively understood what had transpired.

He chuckled and said, "You certainly hold grudges."

Bowen, feeling exposed, awkwardly said, "General Hoffman, forgive me. This individual misused public power and offended you, so his demise was warranted. Is this handling acceptable to you? Do you have any other instructions?"

After a brief pause, Liam said coldly, "I think Hawthorn Kindergarten should cease to exist. Additionally, arrange someone to inspect the surveillance footage at Ocean Hotel Room 808. I want the scandal between Shane and that teacher exposed."

Bowen nodded in agreement and said, "Understood. I'll attend to them right away."

Following that, Liam ended the call and then lifted Asher, grinning. "Asher, there's no school today. How about taking you to the amusement park to have some fun?"

Asher innocently nodded, beaming with joy.

Unbeknownst to him, as Asher walked hand in hand with Liam towards the amusement park, various government departments had already reached Hawthorn Kindergarten.

Despite any actual issues, these departments found fault with Hawthorn Kindergarten using various pretexts and enforced a permanent closure.

The principal, who had devoted half of his life to the
