The Divorced Billionaire Heiress Boss Chapter 1863
Chapter 1863 She's Back

Grant's tone was light as he spoke. "I'm not surprised. How can someone who can get out of a lion's den like the Sloan family unscathed and even defeat them be without a temper? If he was as weak and incompetent as he appears to be, do you think that Dad and I would have agreed to their marriage just because he could coax Lil N so well with his sweet talk and make her happy?"

After that, Kai's expression changed. Kai fiercely gritted his teeth. "You guys actually know what kind of person he is? Has he been pretending all along?"

Grant insouciantly glanced out of the window.

"He's not exactly pretending. It's just that it makes people more comfortable if he acts like this. Lil N likes it too."

Kai felt like he was whacked in the head by a bat. Tonight was truly an eye-opener for him.

He thought, 'So, I'm the only one that's shocked? I'm so naive!'

Kai did not speak again on the way to the hospital as he was silently digesting this news.

He did not know how to describe what he felt.

Kai admired Clayton and had a new impression of him.

Perhaps this was for the best. At least Nicole would not be bullied.

At the hospital.

Clayton looked very worried.

Nicole was awake at times and unconscious at others. This state lasted for a long time.

Everyone barely had any sleep that night.

Julie took Chatty home because the baby could not stay up so late. Chatty did not know that such a big thing happened, so she made a fuss for a while and fell asleep.

Nicole was once again awake, two days later in the afternoon.

She smelled the strong scent of disinfectant, and when she opened her eyes, the gray and white curtains swayed with the wind.

The sun was shining outside through the trees, casting shadows on the floor.

Someone was holding her hand. Countless scenes replayed in Nicole's mind, from the shooting in the streets of Europe to the present day. Nicole suddenly felt that although she made some detours in the middle, the ending was so perfect that it was perhaps destiny.

That fate started when she rescued Lil Michael, and now, she has such a well-behaved and beautiful daughter with Clayton.

Life seemed to be complete enough. It turned out that when the wine bottle hit her head, it brought back her memory and woke her up.

Nicole pulled out her hand, squinted her eyes, and touched Clayton's face. Every trace of him was engraved in her heart.

Clayton jolted awake.

He looked exhausted and not well-rested.

His eyes were still red and bloodshot. Nicole's heart ached as an uncontrollable sorrow welled up in her heart.

It was great that Clayton stayed by her side and never left her every time she was in danger.

Clayton touched Nicole's face in disbelief and carefully came closer. "You're awake?"

Nicole wanted to smile at him, but when she opened her mouth, she could not make a sound because she had a medical instrument attached to her mouth.

Clayton hurriedly pressed the bell on the side. In less than a minute, the doctors rushed in.

Everyone looked excited.

They did a thorough examination since Nicole was awake. Clayton was standing in the corner, staring at Nicole unblinkingly as if he was afraid that something would happen to her. Nicole noticed Clayton's gaze and felt that she had finally come home after a very long walk.

The doctor breathed a sigh of relief and took off some of the instruments. "Ms. Stanton, do you feel any discomfort in your head?"

Nicole withdrew her gaze and shook her head.

The doctor said with a smile, "Ms. Stanton, do you perhaps remember something?"

When he asked this question, Clayton's expression became visibly nervous.

His body became tense for a moment, and his gaze deepened.

The ward was quiet. They were all waiting for Nicole's answer.

Nicole lowered her eyes and nodded her head. The doctors revealed a bright smile. "Ms. Stanton, this is a blessing in disguise. The previous blood clot that didn't dissipate is completely gone now. You only have a slight concussion, so you'll be fine after a few days of rest."

Everyone in the ward, except Clayton, looked relieved and delighted.

In the two days that Nicole was in a coma, the doctors spent a lot of effort and were afraid that there was nothing they could do.

Nicole looked at Clayton.

The man's eyes were dark, so she could not see through his emotions. Was it heartache or sympathy?

It was very painful for Nicole to remember those things, so Clayton would rather Nicole even forget himself than let her go through that excruciating pain once again.

Thus, it might not be a good thing for Nicole to regain her memory.

Would she still be as carefree as before?

Once the doctors went out, Nicole held out her hand. Clayton went over and looked at her with concern and forbearance.

“Are you feeling okay?”

Nicole nodded. “Yup, I remembered everything.”

Clayton’s gaze was gloomy. “I’d rather you never remember all that.” Nicole held his hand and raised her eyes to look at him. Her gaze was glistening and gentle, and her eyes were so bright and beautiful.

“Then won’t I forget you forever too?”

Clayton was stunned. He then reached out to pull her into his embrace. Nicole’s eyes were slightly red, but she still smiled brightly.

“Look, I still fell in love with you no matter what. Aren’t you very proud of yourself?”

Clayton’s body trembled.

He held her even tighter.

Nicole had never expressed her feelings so bluntly and frankly before. Clayton had been looking forward to this moment so much, and these words were like a spring breeze that soothed his restless heart.

He instantly calmed down.

“Nicole, don’t you ever leave me, okay?”

Clayton whispered in her ear, and his warm kiss landed on her forehead.

He carefully cherished her so much that it made her heart ache.

Nicole stretched out her hand and hugged him. The corners of her mouth curled up into a smile.

“Okay.”

Every day with Clayton would be a good day.

Someone pushed the door open and broke this warm atmosphere.

“Are you awake?!”

It was the anxious Kai.

Seeing this scene, Kai immediately covered his eyes and stepped back.

He sighed and said, "Can you two consider other people's feelings?"

A trace of displeasure crossed Clayton's eyes, but it was well restrained.

Clayton gently stroked Nicole's hair to soothe her, then casually turned to the person at the door.

"Kai, have you had dinner?"

Kai coughed as he dodged Nicole's probing gaze and touched his stomach.

"Oh, yeah. I'm full."

Nicole narrowed her eyes and snorted coldly.

"Kai, you can still eat so well when I was in that condition?!"

Kai clicked his tongue. He knew that he was guilty, but he did not admit it.

"Well, would you be happy if your third brother collapsed from hunger even before you woke up?"

Nicole rolled her eyes.

She was so pissed that she could not say anything.

The atmosphere instantly heated up because of Kai's arrival.

Kai walked over, looked at Nicole carefully, and sighed.

"I haven't left this place for a moment! Don't be so heartless. I only ate this one meal in the past two days!"

Nicole looked away and grunted coldly.

Clayton was just relieved and happy because Nicole had the strength to be angry.

"Are you hungry? The doctor said that you can only have liquids for the time being. I'll make you some delicious food when we get home. Do you want porridge for now?"

Nicole gladly agreed.

She naturally did not feel so good because of an empty stomach. Thus, when Clayton mentioned this, Nicole felt so hungry that she would eat anything.

Kai immediately took out his phone. "I'll get someone from home to send something over and tell them the good news too."

He said as he walked out. His steps were much lighter. When Kai came back, he looked at Clayton and said, "Clayton, do you want to grab something to eat? That Singaporean restaurant downstairs is pretty good!"

Clayton shook his head. "I'm not hungry."

The corner of Kai's mouth twitched as he thought, 'Clayton hasn't eaten for two days. How can he not be hungry?'

Before Kai could say anything, Nicole tugged on Clayton's shirt and tilted her head. Her eyes lit up. "You should go to that restaurant and buy me a bowl of porridge. Their porridge is really good!

Clayton's gaze softened in an instant. "You wanna eat that?»

Nicole nodded her head.

"Okay, wait here. I'll buy it for you."

Clayton tucked her into bed before he went out feeling reassured.

Kai slowly walked over and sat in front of Nicole.

He looked like he wanted to speak.

Kai could never control his expression. He wanted to say something earlier when Clayton said that he was not hungry, but he did not know how to bring it up.

Nicole closed her eyes. "K, do you have something to say?"

Kai nodded his head.

He rubbed his hands together, and his handsome face held a snicker like he was about to share a secret. "Lil N, I'm not trying to stir up trouble, but I just can't help it. It's about your husband, my brother-in-law. He's not really that gentle on the surface! Do you know that person who threw a bottle at your head? That woman probably regrets being alive right now.”

Nicole blinked and frowned slightly. She remembered that it was a woman in a waitress uniform.

She recalled the woman’s face. It suddenly came back to her that it was that delicate girl

Nicole did not even know that girl’s name.

Her face suddenly sank.

She was so unlucky to suffer at the hands of such a person.

“Where is she now?”

Nicole was surely going to get her revenge.

Kai hooked his lips. “She’s in this hospital.”

Nicole looked puzzled.

Kai smiled, then sighed.

“This experience really made me look at Clayton in a new light. I used to think that Eric’s power in Atlanta was enormous and that he’s a wolf that can eat people whole. But now, I don’t feel that way anymore. Eric’s at best a poser. Clayton is really unfathomable and ruthless! If Clayton had started off in Atlanta long ago, what would’ve happened to Eric?”

Seeing Nicole’s slight change in expression, Kai hurriedly changed his tone. “Oh, I forgot that you don’t know who Eric is, right? He’s just a rich dude.”

Nicole paused.

She pursed her lips.

“I remembered everything.”

Kai said, “Oh, then is Clayton aware of i

Nicole nodded. “Yes.”

Kai was silent for a while. He then sighed and said, "Well, I think you've been too unlucky lately. Dad said that he'll bring you to a tarot reader so that you can change your fortune. Eric is definitely your jinx!"

Nicole was speechless.

Kai said, "Anyway, do you know how Clayton dealt with that woman? He got a whole box of liquor and forced her to drink it all. Not even a single drop was left!"

Nicole was slightly shocked and pursed her lips.

Kai's face sank

"So, she drank until she had gastritis. She brought this onto herself. Not only that, they even smashed two empty bottles on her head. The bodyguards controlled their strength, so they didn't kill her. But they gave her a lesson."

Nicole blinked and did not know how to describe her feelings.

That gentle and modest man has always avoided shady things, yet he had gone to this extent for her.

The resentment in her heart toward that attacker suddenly disappeared.

Clayton did whatever that should be done and was even more ruthless than Nicole.

What else was she unsatisfied about?

Nicole curled her lips into a smile. "Well done!"
