Chapter 2219 Weird Feeling

Nicole looked down and smiled at Chatty and Fischer.

"Then can you two take care of each other here?"

Chatty was still a little upset. She pouted and acted pampered.

"But I want Mommy to stay with me. I'll get scared when I see the monster M, The corners of Nicole's mouth twitched. She looked at Chatty and said helplessly, "Let's not watch this if you're afraid."

"It's okay, I'll overcome my fear! Mommy, you can go to the back. I'm a brave baby!"

Chatty clenched her fists tightly.

The woman next to her could not help but praise Chatty with a smile.

"Is this your daughter? How is she so cute? She looks smaller than my kid, but she can express herself so clearly. She's really smart..."

Nicole was also pleased with the compliment since everyone liked to hear praises of their children.

Chatty smiled and looked at the woman.

"Thanks, Miss! Your baby is also very cute!"

The woman was amused by Chatty. She then looked at her own daughter, who looked like she was about to cry at any time when she clutched her shirt and did not allow her to leave.

She felt helpless.

Nicole smiled and looked at Fischer.

"Then, will you be brave, Fischer?"

Fischer held Chatty's hand and said, "Don't worry, Mommy! I'll protect Chatty!"

"You're a good boy. After the performance, I'll take you two to eat something nice. I'll watch you from the back.

Remember to follow the rules they give later..."

Nicole reminded them, then Fischer and Chatty nodded their heads in response.

Needless to say, they also knew these things.

Their teacher at home and Clayton instructed them countless times about these things, so they had it ingrained in them.

The woman looked at Nicole gratefully.

"Thank you so much. I feel very bad about this. Shall I treat you to dinner later?"

Nicole shook her head and said with a smile, "It's okay. We're all Medianians, so we should help each other.

Where's your seat?"

The woman quickly took out the ticket from her pocket, and Nicole made an exchange with her. In just a few minutes, the venue was almost full. Her seat was at the very back and was the second seat near the aisle.

When she walked back, she saw that the back row was also full except for the second last seat.

However, there was already someone sitting on the outermost seat.

That person gave her a very weird feeling.

The man was wearing a suit, sunglasses, a mask, and a hat commonly seen in Europe that covered half of his face.

As she walked in that direction, it was obvious that the man had noticed her.

For some unknown reason, the man seemed to tense up for a moment.

Nicole walked over, only to find that he was holding a cane in his hand.

She stood in front of him, and he became motionless.

A very strong and strange feeling suddenly surged in Nicole's heart. Her heart was pounding, and she felt an indescribable sense of familiarity.

However, no one here should give her this feeling.

Nicole took a deep breath and said in a calm voice, "Excuse me. My seat is next to yours."

She held the crumpled ticket.

The man raised his head slightly, glanced at her through his sunglasses, and said nothing. He did not stand up to let her in and only turned his body slightly to let her pass.

This kind of behavior was not very polite, but Nicole did not pursue the matter.

Nicole went in, sat on her seat, and looked to the front. Chatty and Fischer excitedly turned around and waved to her.

The two children smiled brightly and looked like sunflowers.

Nicole waved to them too, but she could not smile.

For some reason, the person next to her felt so familiar.

Nicole could not help but look sideways.

She noticed that he was looking at the front. He leaned forward slightly and looked as if he was very focused and excited.

The show did not start yet, so why did he look excited and focused?

Nicole was puzzled, but she wanted to get to know this man. Her heart seemed to be hanging by a thread.

She had a very strong intuition that he was someone familiar.

However, in just a few seconds, the man regained his composure and sat there with a slightly bent body like an old man.

His youthful vibes did not seem like that of an elderly person.

Nicole was surprised by this, and that feeling was too strong.

The performance started. Although it was only ten minutes, it was enough to make the children present cheer loudly.

Nicole wanted to turn her attention to Chatty and Fischer in front of her, but she seemed restless.

That flustered feeling came out of nowhere.

Finally, when the performance was about to end, Nicole could not help but look at the person next to her. The man next to her was still wearing sunglasses and a mask, so she could not see his appearance or emotions clearly.

However, he had such a mysteriously strong presence. Even so, it did not make Nicole feel threatened.

Just when Nicole was about to say hello to him, the phone on her lap suddenly dropped.

It fell between their feet.

Nicole subconsciously bent down to pick it up. When she picked up the phone, she accidentally touched the man's leg.

At that moment, there was a crisp sound of metal colliding.

Nicole was startled and horrified.

She subconsciously looked up at him and wanted to apologize, but in the next second, the man stood up. While everyone was still immersed in the joy of the performance, the man turned around and walked out. It was as if someone had pried into his secret, so he could not wait to escape.

His back was hunched. The cane in his hand was not just for display as he was limping. He was obviously a disabled person. He wore black trousers that covered his legs, so he looked normal.

However, Nicole's phone case was made of metal, and she heard the sound just now clearly.

The man's right leg was a prosthesis.

In the blink of an eye, the man disappeared without a trace.

Nicole subconsciously stood up.

At this moment, everyone stood up.

It turned out that the performance was over. The curtain closed, and everyone was cheering.

The audience began to leave the venue one after another.

Nicole looked in the direction of the door, but the man had long since disappeared.

"Mommy! Mommy, did you see that? Ultraman defeated the monster! Ultraman's father came to help his baby..."

Chatty ran over excitedly and described the performance just now.

Fischer held Chatty's hand tightly for fear that she would get lost in the crowd.

Nicole was distracted by the two children's voices and came back to her senses.

She paused. Her heart seemed to be throbbing less than before, and everything seemed to have calmed down.
