The Divorced Billionaire Heiress chapter 2580-The servant said, "Ms. Nelson said she's going to tidy up the new bar this morning."

Eric frowned slightly.

The new bar?

When did Selena find it?

Eric was not aware of it.

He had mixed feelings about this.

Eric nodded as if nothing had happened and walked out.

Sitting in the car, he took out his phone.

After calling two or three times, Selena answered the phone with a bit of impatience.

However, Eric's nervous heart was relieved. At least Selena did not block his number!

"Where's your new bar?"

Selena told him the address and hung up the phone.

She did not even have time to answer the phone just now because her hands were very dirty, but Eric persistently called just to ask about this.

Selena put down her phone speechlessly and went to work with Chaz.

Eric went to the new bar.

He recognized the place from the outside. He had been here before with some friends for a change of taste.

However, the owner of this store and his whole family moved abroad because of business.

Unexpectedly, Selena managed to find this place.

Eric went in and saw Selena sitting on the high ladder to take off the lanterns under the eaves. The ladder was a little wobbly, so Eric's expression suddenly became serious.

Selena also felt that the ladder she borrowed from the neighbor was a little unstable. However, it would take too long if she went out to buy one now.

Thus, she braced herself and climbed up even though she was a little worried.

Feeling that the support below was not stable, Selena opened her mouth to call Chaz over.

However, she suddenly felt the ladder shake. Then, she no longer felt the trembling.

The ladder was supported by someone.

Selena subconsciously looked down while Eric looked up at her with a glum face. He looked angry and displeased.

Selena's heart skipped a beat.

"Why are you here? Why didn't you go to the office today?"

Eric pursed his lips, gritted his teeth, and stared at her.

"Why didn't you tell me when you chose this place? I know the owner of this store."

"The agent told me at the last minute, and I made a quick decision."

Selena patiently explained.

After all, Eric was being kind.

Eric asked about the rent, and Selena answered. He had no objection.

It was not much money.

"I thought that you'd rest for two years. But it looks like you really can't take it easy."

Eric's throat moved slightly while he complained.

However, Selena did not hear it.

She smiled. "I can rest, but what about my employees?"

As she spoke, she passed him the lantern.

Eric took it, threw it on the ground, and frowned at her.

"So, you have to do the work yourself? Where are your staff?"

Selena smiled and slowly climbed down from the top.

Eric was holding the ladder firmly, so it did not shake at all.

At that moment, her sense of security doubled.

‘The others are on vacation. Chaz is busy upstairs.’

Eric disapproved of her behavior of doing the drudgery by herself while her staff went on vacation.

After some thought, he did not say it.

He took out his phone and called Mitchell.

“Get the cleaning company to send a few people over. The address is...”

“Mr. Ferguson...”

Eric glanced at Selena but did not listen to her.

The ladder in his hand had been in disrepair for a longtime. If he had not been here to see her, an accident might have happened.

How could he let his woman do such a dangerous thing?

When the cleaners arrived, Eric checked the time.

‘You can arrange work for the cleaners. I’ll wait for you for another ten minutes. Then, you can come to the office with me.’

“Why should I go?”

Selena frowned.

She did not want to see the group of people from last night again.

Otherwise, people would definitely recognize her.

Eric stared at her blankly for a few seconds before speaking.

“Are you sure you don’t want to participate in the design of your bar at the original location? Have you thought about the style and specific requirements you have? The designer will go there in a while. Don’t you want to go?”

Selena was taken aback for a moment. She felt relieved.

Of course, she had to go.

“Okay.”

Selena smiled and went to find Chaz. She asked him to keep an eye on the cleaners before she washed her hands and went out to find Eric.

She thought he would be impatient.

As a result, he stood quietly beside the flower bed at the entrance. He was looking at the plants with a serious expression and fell into deep thought.

Eric was wearing a smoky gray overcoat, and he looked like he was sorting through a lot of emotions.

Selena took a deep breath, walked over to hold his arm, and smiled.

“Are you getting impatient?”

“Mm.”

“Just call me next time. I can go there by myself. A busy person like you doesn’t have to come here.”

Selena jokingly said that she did not want Eric to give up the opportunity to make money because of her.

After all, apart from staying together at night, the two of them had separate lives.

Eric twitched the corners of his mouth and felt an indescribably complicated emotion.

There were many things he wanted to say and ask, but he could not say them all.

It seemed that if he tore down the fig leaf between them, they could not maintain their current situation.

Eric would not dare.

He retracted his hand, smiled, and walked over to where he parked.

Eric opened the door of the passenger seat. After Selena got in, he went to the driver’s seat.

Selena looked at Eric and felt that something was wrong.

When had Eric been so attentive?

Eric went to the company's underground parking lot in silence.

Neither of them got out of the car.

Eric sighed and finally said, "Selena, you should give me a chance."

Selena looked at him silently.

Eric was a little helpless. "Okay, I won't mention it for now if you don't want me to. But our relationship shouldn't change just because of this, okay?"

He was afraid that Selena would back away.

Selena lowered her eyes and curled her lips. "Okay. I have no objections."

She just did not want to get married. She did not say that they could not continue dating.

Eric felt that he was being careless.

He had to use other methods to make Selena change her mind.

The two of them entered the elevator. Eric wanted to hold Selena's hand, but another person came in.

Selena shook Eric's hand off in an instant, as if she did not want anything to do with him.

Eric immediately felt frustrated and kept silent.

He glanced sternly at the man who came in.

The man was probably a new employee who did not know anyone. He just looked at them, smiled embarrassingly, and went out after reaching his floor.

Selena and Eric continued upstairs.

It seemed that many things were waiting for Eric.

Mitchell was busy, so he was relieved to see Eric coming.

When he saw Selena following behind Eric, he suddenly smiled brightly.

"Ms. Nelson, you're here too!"

Selena smiled. Just as she was about to say hello, the assistant on the side recognized her.

“Isn’t this Mr. Ferguson’s fiancée? Our lady boss? Hello boss, don’t forget to distribute your wedding goodies to us...”

Selena’s smile froze slightly, and she glanced awkwardly at the silent Eric.

The man did not even try to explain.
