

The Princess and the Pauper (Arabella)

Chapter 863

Chapter 863

"Sure thing." Jack, seeing that Clark wasn't pressing further, readily displayed his QR code.

After Clark added him as a friend, he even sent him a friendly GIF.

Jack opened it and exclaimed, "Jesus, Clark, I didn't know you were into this. This woman's got some curves!"

The GIF featured a sultry woman blowing a kiss, both innocent and suggestive; Jack found it quite intriguing.

Meanwhile, Clark had managed to hack into Jack's phone and access the surveillance footage.

He saw a group of men, their faces concealed by black masks, burst into Carol's living room with swift and ruthless precision.

Then, his sister locked the door, leaving her alone to face them.

"Carol? You are traitor, finally showing your face."

"Today's the day you die."

They mistook his sister for Carol, intending to kill her with their ruthless tactics.

Clark's heart clenched with anxiety. His sister was facing danger alone. What if something happened?

"You're not Carol?"

"Who are you?"

Seeing them alternately brandishing knives and guns, wanting to kill this girl, Clark felt his heart in his throat. Thankfully, his sister was more skilled than they were; otherwise, the consequences would be unthinkable.

Despite the flurry of bullets aimed at his sister, she managed to dodge them all perfectly, even launching a counterattack!

Her skills and her reaction speed left Clark utterly astounded.

Realizing they were at a disadvantage, the group decided to retreat.

One of the men threw a smoke grenade, but even in the dense smoke, his sister could locate them by sound, binding up the ones who hadn't managed to escape through the window.

"Can you tell which organization these guys are from by their moves?" Clark asked Jack, who was still beside him.

Jack, who had been drooling over the woman in the GIF, was startled when he saw the video playing on Clark's phone, "Damn, how did you get this video? You hacked into my phone? When did that happen?"

"Don't worry, I only extracted this video."

He didn't look at anything else that wasn't necessary.

"You're a hacker, too?" Jack suddenly realized. "What's with you Collins, how come you all have so many skills."

He'd been careless!

He completely didn't realize the GIF with the woman had a virus!

"I'm not sure if the guy who got away will go back and tip them off.

Bella could be in danger.' Clark said, worried. "You guys need to keep an eye on her in secret."

Of course, as her brother, he would also always be by her side, ensuring she didn't get hurt.

"You might think that the video looks dangerous with all the gunfire, but let me tell you, our boss can handle this like it's a walk in the park. You didn't see it before, but when dozens of guns were pointed at our boss, she managed to escape unscathed."

"What do you mean?" Clark seemed to understand something.

"What exactly did Bella go through before?"

"Nothing, I was just rambling.' Jack wished he could slap himself.

Why couldn't he keep his mouth shut?

"What's going on? Why were there dozens of guns pointed at Bella?"

Did Bella upset some gangsters or what?" Clark was really anxious and wanted to know the reason.